Mueller Widens Services of Two Plants

Company Has Plants at Tawas City and Greenbush

Ernest Mueller, president of the Mueller Concrete Products Co., with plants at Tawas City and Greenbush, said yesterday that facilities were being arranged to keep block and gravel production in steady production all winter.

"Equipment for producing cinder blocks which stood in the yard at the plant for the past two years has been set up and production started," stated Mr. Mueller. "During that time cinders were not available, but we now have a source of supply with the Consumers Power company cinder blocks, for those who desire them, are an additional service. Both of our plants will continue to produce our regular line of concrete blocks and concrete products."

"Have you ever investigated our building tile, a small concrete unit with more air space for construction purposes," asks Mr. Mueller. "These will also be made of cinder if you wish."

The company has purchased a new small dragline and Mr. Mueller said, "This makes it easy for us to take care of any excavation or filling you may have to do, anywhere."

"We want to announce that at Tawas City or Greenbush, we have our own fill dirt and estimates will be promptly given to anyone."

"We have our own gravel producing and processing plant at Greenbush and our trucks can promptly take care of any order. Crushed stone from our plant has been delivered to our community and it makes an excellent road surface. It is always available."

"Do not delay your home building on account of cold weather," Mr. Mueller said. "It will be hard for you again next summer to get workmen to do your job."

The personnel of the Mueller Cement Products Co. includes the following: Ernest C. Mueller, president; Martin W. Miller, manager and partner at Tawas City; Dean A. Roeske, manager and partner at Greenbush; Franklin J. Phillip, excavation engineer.

Wildlife's Biggest Chance to Exist Through Proper Soil Conservation

By E. S. Stevens
Chairman Missouri Conservation Commission

Wildlife's biggest stake is in soil conservation. By taking away the soil which produces the food and cover of game and by silting the streams, erosion has destroyed more game and fish than all the shooting, trapping, casting, dynamiting and gassing, combined. And erosion continues. If you want to know where your wildlife has gone, read Louis Bromfield's great book, "Pleasant Valley." If you want to know how to bring it back, read the book again.

Very few, if any, except the ardent wildlife conservationist will connect the abundance of game birds with the good fertile soil of the valley," says B. A. Myers, of the United States Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, yet it is a proven fact that more game birds are to be found in the better soil areas despite the fact that much of the land is cultivated.

The reason for this is natural, birds like humans, like good things to eat, not only quantity but quality as well. They like cows, horses, sheep, etc., have their instinct to guide them in choosing food which has the proper mineral balance. In this respect they are far ahead of we humans. The food on the grocery shelf cannot have any more minerals in it than did the soil where it was grown.

Soil conservation practices with correct land use which may pay big dividends in increased yields likewise support a larger wildlife population of both field and stream.

Some of these practices which can be applied to the upland areas are strip cropping, longer rotations, which include three or four years of meadow, increased use of lime and fertilizer, and reforestation. Those that may be applied to the lowlands are cover crops, hay or sweet clover, in rotation with beets and beans, windbreaks, shelterbelts, ditchbank seedlings, etc. Burning of stubble fields will destroy both needed organic matter and nesting sites.

Two Hunting Accidents in Iosco County

Neil Winn, Lapeer; Geo Linder, Ann Arbor; Ira Youngs, Lansing

The first week of deer hunting in Iosco county was marked with only two gun accidents, but fortunately no fatalities. Neil Winn of Lapeer suffered a fractured knee by a bullet from an unknown source. Friday morning, and George Linder of Ann Arbor and Ira Younger were wounded Monday when both were accidentally hit by a bullet.

The accident Friday morning occurred five miles west of Silver Valley. Winn was hunting with Edwin Gart of Detroit. The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. B. R. Richey at East Tawas and later to the Saginaw General Hospital. The knee injury was serious.

State Police from the East Tawas Post investigated the accident. Winn and Gart did not see the man who fired the gun and he has remained unidentified.

The second accident occurred Monday afternoon in Reno township. The bullet hit Linder's knuckles and then lodged in Younger's abdomen. According to Trooper Frank Roti and Al Slavinski of the West Branch State Police Post the two men were injured by a bullet from the gun fired by William Fuerst of Whittemore who was hunting with the party.

The troopers said that there were five men in the hunting party including Younger, Fuerst, Linder, and William T. Hill and Harry W. Hill, both of Lansing.

Iosco Hunters Meet Success

Iosco county hunters have been fortunate this season and many of them returned the first day with their venison. At several of the camps, all members filled their licenses the first two days. This was especially true at the Orville Leslie camp where fifteen hunters shot fifteen deer.

Among those who reported their success to The Tawas Herald during the first four days of the season were: Darwin, Clifford Groff, and Lyle Groff, Dora Miller, Walter Anschuetz, Addison Featheringill, William Groff, Thomas Hill, Sr., Judge H. Read Smith, Dick Bertsch, Vic Forcier, Lyman Britting, Dick Clark.

Clem Stephan, Hugo Groff, Warren Hughes, K. Rollin, Richard Woieschke, Willard and Marjorie Musolf, Mark Defiabaugh, Howard Braden, Ernest Potts, Arthur Ziehl, Roy Landon, Elmer Ogden, Jim Lansky.

At the Wilber Hunting Club five hunters had been lucky up to Thursday. Among the successful were: Drs. J. J. Austin, John LeClair and Earl Hasty, Sanford LeClair and Wayne Grimm also got their venison.

Four Tularemia Cases in Michigan

Four cases of tularemia (rabbit fever) among Michigan hunters brings a warning from the State Health Department.

Always wear rubber gloves when dressing rabbits. Be careful that a sharp bone does not pierce the glove. Do not handle rabbits that are found dead. Beware of slow or sluggish rabbits; they are likely to be infected with tularemia. Cook rabbits thoroughly so that no red meat or red blood remains. Thorough cooking of the meat destroys the germs. Please—destroy all rabbits whose internal organs are studded with small white spots—it may be tularemia.

Tularemia in man is a long, protracted disease. Its first symptoms include chills, fever, headache, body pains and nausea. Usually a local sore or ulcer appears at the point where the germs of the disease enter the skin. This is usually accompanied by pain and by a swelling of the lymph glands draining the area.

Kansas

By EDWARD EMERINE
WNU Feature

"We do not live, but only stay,
And are too poor to get away."

Life on the frontier is always hard. It was doubly hard in Kansas where the pioneers had to endure border wars over slavery, bad men, drouths, grasshoppers, blizzards and dust storms, in addition to the ordinary hardships of a new country. But they stuck it out.

They stuck it out—and "sticking it out" until the battle is won is still a characteristic of Kansas people. Perhaps it was the crucible of those early years that steeled and tempered the Kansas spirit which conquered the prairies. They stuck it out, rose above the trials of the hour and developed that rare sense of humor which enables Kansas people to laugh at themselves and the foibles of mankind.

Despite Coronado and other Spanish explorers, and French traders, Kansas remained Indian and buffalo country for two centuries after English colonists settled in New England and Virginia.

Slow in Settlement.

It was not until the Kansas-Nebraska bill was passed in 1854 that the land was opened to settlement. At that time the entire white population of Kansas consisted of about 700 soldiers, based at Forts Leavenworth and Riley and Walnut Creek BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD . . . Kansas is the No. 1 wheat producing state of the nation, yielding almost a fourth of the entire U. S. crop.

Whether for or against slavery, Kansas settlers lived in log huts, shake houses, sod shanties, dug-outs and other humble shelters, using grass, brush and buffalo chips for fuel. The "sod crop" was corn—and corn they ate! Corn bread, parched corn, hominy, corn-meal mush—they boiled corn, fried it, baked it, stewed it. Fortunately, they had beef, pork and milk to go with it, and a coffee substitute, made of dried sweet potatoes, dried green okra and parched wheat ground together and boiled.

Would Kansas be slave or free territory? On its first election day in 1855, hundreds of Missourians "with rifles on their shoulders, six-shooters in their belts and a liberal supply of whiskey in their wagons" crossed the border and voted. All of the pro-slavery candidates except one were elected! And when the "bogus legislature" met in July, the Missouri slave code was the law of Kansas.

The curtain-raiser to the Civil war was fought in Kansas. Men were murdered in cold blood. Border ruffians ravaged anti-slavery settlements. John Brown and his sons took up the challenge and took after the slaveholders. "Bleeding Kansas" was no misnomer during the next few years. But gradually the anti-slavery forces won and Kansas became a free state. Only two slaves were listed in the census of 1860.

Many notables have trod the Kansas stage. Heading the list is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, great military leader of World War II.

Frontier Personages.

The history of the Old West is represented by such Kansas personages as "Wild Bill" Hickock, the marshal of Abilene, and Buffalo Bill, the scout. Carrie Nation and her saloon-busting hatchet also brought the state into the limelight.

In Statuary hall in the nation's capitol is the figure of John J. Ingalls, senator, orator, essayist, poet, Ed Howe, the sage of Potato Hill, and his contemporaries, Walt Mason and William Allen White of the Emporia Gazette, were Kansas folks.

But the unknown soldier, the unhonored hero, of Kansas is the man who introduced the plow. He was not a glamorous figure, and his hands were gnarled and blistered and bent to the shape of a plow handle.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE . . . Gov. Andrew F. Schoepel is a native Kansan, born in Claflin in Barton county. A former lawyer and veteran of World War I, he was a member of the Kansas Corporation commission until he was elected governor in 1942.

post office on the Sante Fe Trail, and an equal number of civilians at Indian missions, stage stations and trading posts.

The question of slavery immediately plunged Kansas into bloodshed. Even before the Kansas-Nebraska bill was signed, Missourians who favored slavery slipped across the border and founded Leavenworth and Atchison.

But Eli Thayer found 29 men in New England who were willing to emigrate to Kansas, settle on the prairie, be neighbors to Indians and fight slaveholders. Dr. Charles Robinson brought a second party of anti-slavery emigrants, including four musicians, from Boston to settle at Lawrence. Congress had decreed that Kansas would decide the question of slavery for itself. And Kansans set out to do it in their own way.

Wild Cow Towns Hold Spotlight of Frontier

One of the most romantic roles in Kansas history was played by the Texas-Kansas cattle trails and the wild frontier towns which became shipping points for the herds.

It was Joseph G. McCoy who first decided to do something about a market for Texas cattle. There were millions of the cattle, and they were more valuable than the buffalo which roamed the Kansas prairies. At first, Kansas towns weren't interested in Texas cattle, at least most of them weren't. But Abilene was, although it was only a "small dead place consisting of about a dozen log huts."

As soon as McCoy started building his depot at Abilene, the village awakened and teemed with activity. By 1870 there were 4 hotels, 10 boarding houses, 9 or 10 saloons and other business places. One of the first buildings, of course, was the jail. Sidewalks were of wood and soon trembled and clattered as boot heels clomped on them.

Kansas cow towns held the spotlight of the frontier. There were Ellsworth, Newton, Wichita (larger and noisier than most) and finally Dodge City (toughest of them all).

For 10 years Dodge City was the wickedest town in the country. But it fought hard to gain that distinction!

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS . . . by Lynn Chambers

Turkey and Trimmings Should Be Prepared, Served Simply

Let the turkey take the spotlight on Thanksgiving Day by using simple garnishes for the platter. Parsley and spiced fruit adorn this luscious golden brown bird.

If we are really to keep the Thanksgiving tradition as we understand it, the table should be heaped bountifully with good, wholesome food, well prepared and served family style. This is truly one of the big occasions in our country, and the table should have tasty, well-cooked food in keeping with the idea of harvest.

It's true that cooking during Thanksgiving time means plenty of fussing, but it's not the kind of food that looks fussy after it gets on the table, if you can understand what I mean, and I'm sure those of you who have participated in big Thanksgiving reunions in the past do know just what I'm talking about.

Perhaps the menu doesn't change much from year to year, but that's one of the beauties of the day. We don't have food like this at any other time, so it never becomes tiresome.

Since the dinner involves so much preparation, I'd suggest that you try to make it as easy as possible by taking some shortcuts. By that I mean don't leave everything to be done for Thanksgiving Day, or you'll be too tired to enjoy yourself.

Have son or daughter help in making the mince and pumpkin pies and picking the pin feathers out of the turkey. They'll really enjoy it, and they're a wonderful help.

There are other things which may be done on the day before Thanksgiving, and these include making the cranberry sauce or jelly, preparing the vegetables, the turkey stuffing, etc.

On the day of the big event, you have but to pop the big bird in the oven, probably about breakfast time if it's a large one, so as to be ready for mid-afternoon. Rolls can be shaped from refrigerator dough made the day before and allowed to rise, and last minute things such as vegetables and salad can be taken care of while the dinner is on its way.

If you feel rushed making beds and giving the house a onceover, set up a breakfast buffet style in the kitchen or breakfast nook and let everyone help themselves. This will leave you free for setting the table, etc.

*Turkey Tips.

Turkeys usually weigh from 7 to 20 pounds. Allow ¾ pound of turkey to each person. Clean thoroughly. Stuff the cavity after salting it thoroughly. Compute the roasting time from this chart:

| Size | 300 degrees |
|--------------------|-----------------|
| 7-10 lbs. | 30 min. per lb. |
| 10-15 lbs. | 20 min. per lb. |
| 15-18 lbs. | 13 min. per lb. |
| 18-20 lbs. | 15 min. per lb. |

Savory Bread Stuffing.
(For 8-pound bird)

- 1½ cups boiling water
 - ½ cup melted fat
 - ½ cup minced onion
 - ¼ teaspoon pepper
 - 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
 - 1½ teaspoons salt
 - 2 tablespoons dry mustard
 - 2 tablespoons diced celery
 - 3 quarts lightly packed day-old bread crumbs
 - 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- Combine boiling water, fat, onion; simmer 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly.

LYNN SAYS:

Make Your Stuffings Savory
Stuffing may add new richness to the bird, or it may counteract the fatness of the bird simply by what you put in it. If you like a moist dressing, use liquid with the bread crumbs, but if you prefer the dressing just barely moist, use only fat for moisture.

A one-pound loaf of bread yields about 8 cups of crumbs. Use one cup of stuffing for each pound of bird.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

- Chilled Vegetable Juice
- *Roast Turkey with Stuffing
- Spiced Fruit
- Glazed Sweet Potatoes
- Broccoli in Browned Butter
- *Cranberry Mold
- Refrigerator Rolls
- Assorted Relishes
- Mints Beverage
- *Pumpkin Pie
- *Recipes given.

Stuff cavity of a bird weighing 8 pounds. Double recipe for 16-pound bird. This makes a moist stuffing.

Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce.
1 cup corn syrup, dark or light
1 cup sugar
1½ cups water
4 cups fresh cranberries

Boil corn syrup, sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil, without stirring, until all of the skins pop, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and allow sauce to remain in saucepan until cool. This makes 1 quart.

*Molded Cranberry Sauce.
(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2½ cups cranberries
- 1½ cups water
- ½ cup sugar
- Dash of salt
- 1 package orange or lemon-flavored gelatin

Wash cranberries and place in saucepan with water, sugar and salt. Cook slowly until skins pop and berries are soft. Drain, measure juice and add enough water to make two cups. Dissolve gelatin in hot juice; add cranberries. When slightly thickened distribute berries and pour into a mold. Chill until firm.

*Pumpkin Pie.
(Makes 9-inch pie)

- 1½ cups cooked pumpkin
- ¾ cup brown sugar
- 3 eggs
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups milk
- ½ cup melted butter

Line pie plate with pastry. Beat eggs, add remaining ingredients, and pour mixture into pie shell. Bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 10 minutes, then in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 30 minutes or until firm.

This pie may be served with whipped cream or just plain. If desired, a meringue may be used, this latter being especially good if flavored with a dash of nutmeg. Or, if you prefer, it may be sprinkled with ½ cup sliced nuts 10 minutes before it has finished baking.

Cranberries are part of the trimming for the holiday table. Make the mold a day ahead of time and serve it simply as pictured.

If you want a dessert that is not so filling as pie, you will like this cake:

Honey Spice Cake.
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons allspice
½ cup shortening
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
¾ cup honey
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
½ cup milk
¾ cup chopped raisins
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
½ cup chopped nut meats

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder, salt and allspice and sift together three times. Cream shortening with lemon rind; add honey gradually, beating well after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Stir quickly into batter. Turn into greased eight-inch square pan and sprinkle with nut meats. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 55 minutes, or until done.

Rice, bread and nut stuffings are rich; fruit stuffings are tart, so choose whichever you prefer.

Chestnut Stuffing: Boil and peel 1½ pounds of chestnuts, then chop coarsely. Decrease bread cubes 2½ to 3½ quarts and add the chestnuts.

Fruit Stuffing: Omit onion in recipe, decrease bread cubes by 1½ cups and add 1 cup coarsely chopped apples, prunes or apricots.

Mushroom Stuffing: Cook 1 cup sliced mushroom with the fat and add to the bread cubes.

Rip Van Wrinkle wakes up to a bargain!

WHAT DAY IS IT? I mean, what year is it? My word, I've been asleep 20 years!

Yessir, I see lots of changes since 1926, but women's hats are as silly as ever! And the high cost of living makes me want to sleep another 20 years!

Gosh, look at all the new electrical gadgets! When I dozed off back in the Twenties, we had electric lights and an iron and a vacuum cleaner at our house! Now we've got a refrigerator, a couple of radios (my last one was a crystal set), clocks, toaster, washer—why, everything you touch has a switch on it!

It's funny, too, with all those gadgets perking away, my electric bill isn't much more than it was 20 years ago, while everything else has gone up a lot!

(Yes, Rip Van Wrinkle, you're getting twice as much electricity for your money today as you did 20 years ago. It took increased usage plus plenty of skill and planning—under sound business management—to make electricity the bargain it is right now!)

To stop grease from sputtering in your frying pan sift a speck of flour into it.

Sewing machines should be oiled after every five or six hours of use.

Paint spattered on glass comes off rather easily if you use a cloth moistened with turpentine. If it has dried hard use a razor blade, scraping lightly to avoid scratching.

THE STORY THUS FAR: After being adrift for four days on a raft, Dick Jordan is picked up by a small sailing vessel in the Caribbean sea. The captain is named Tucú, an evil-looking half-breed. Dick realizes that he is among men who are little more than pirates. He invents a story of some smuggled jewels, to gain time. He tells Tucú that these jewels are attached to a boat near the sunken steamer. On the way to the area where the steamer lies, they sight a derelict schooner. Tucú changes the course to meet it. When they come close to the drifting vessel, a man appears on the deck and shouts to them in a demented manner.

CHAPTER III

"Crazy!" muttered Captain Tucú. "Left alone, an' gone crazy. Pull away!" he added, addressing the Caribs at the oars.

The boat started in the direction of the schooner, but it hadn't covered a quarter of the distance when another figure appeared on the deck. If the sight of the old man had surprised the boarding crew, the second apparition—for it seemed like an apparition to many, certainly to Dick Jordan on the deck of the lugger—created amazement and consternation.

The newcomer was a woman, lightly clad, and with her hair streaming down her shoulders and back, half way to her waist. She had the appearance of one who has been interrupted in the midst of her toilet, rushing on deck to ascertain the meaning of the commotion. She glanced in the direction of the lugger, shading her eyes with one hand, and then back at the old man on the deck. She spoke to him in a low voice, which he heeded, for he withdrew from sight, and permitted her to do the talking.

"What boat is that?" she asked in a clear, bell-like voice. Tucú hesitated for a moment before replying; then in his most persuasive voice, he informed her: "The San Miguel, Of Limon."

The girl or young woman—it was difficult to estimate her age at the distance, but to Dick she seemed young and comely—seemed in doubt, hesitating before replying; but her eyes were busy studying the boat's crew and the lines of the lugger. Finally, as if she had made up her mind, she retorted in a sharp, peremptory way: "Well, what do you want? You can't come aboard!"

Captain Tucú smiled a bit craftily. "We took her for a derelict—abandoned."

"You can see now she isn't," replied the girl quickly. Then, as if anxious to pacify them, she added in a pleasant voice: "Thank you for coming; but we don't need any help. We can manage."

Tucú was a little nonplussed, but the grin hadn't left his ugly face. "Y'can't get into port with that wreck. We'll help y'er rig her up."

"No, thank you," was the cool retort. "We can manage."

The small boat had been drifting nearer all the time, and as if alarmed by this the girl added sharper than before: "Keep away, please! You'll get tangled in the wreckage."

Tucú turned to his mate and exchanged a few words with him, and then addressed the girl again: "Who's that old man aboard?"

She drew herself up and frowned. "You mean my father, Captain Bedford?"

"Is he cap'n?" There was a smile of derision on his face, which the girl caught. Resenting it, she nodded curtly, and said: "Yes! Now if you have no further business here, go back to your own ship."

"I'd like to speak to the cap'n," was the cool retort, motioning to the Caribs to dip their oars again.

"You can't!" was the frightened reply. "He's not well, and has gone below."

Dick Goes to Aid Of a Brave Girl

Dick caught the note of alarm in the voice. He gave a start and glanced around him. The handful of Caribs left on the lugger were grouped forward, intently interested in the schooner and the conversation going on between the skipper and the girl. No one paid the least attention to him.

"If Tucú goes aboard," he muttered under his breath, "I'll go too."

After more talk Tucú and his crew made fast to the schooner and prepared to climb aboard. "Stop!" she cried. "I forbid you coming aboard!"

"My father's not responsible for what he says," she cut in sharply. "I'm in command here, and I forbid—"

Dick didn't hear the finish of the sentence. He had quietly dropped over the stern of the lugger, and was once more battling with his old enemy—the sea.

Swimming slowly, with his head low down in the water, and making a wide detour around the stern of the derelict, Dick reached it without attracting attention. Nobody on the lugger had noticed his departure, and those aboard the schooner were too interested in their prize to give need to anything else.

ger, and secured a firm grip on the deck rail with both hands. Tucú and his men were still forward, arguing with the girl. Dick could hear her high-pitched voice raised in remonstrance.

"If you put a foot on this deck, I'll shoot!" she was saying. "The law allows it. You're boarding my ship against my will."

Dick thrust his head above the rail. The men hadn't reached the deck yet, but were hanging over the side, with heads in view. The girl was facing them, with a defiant glitter in her eyes, and an ugly-looking automatic in one hand.

Tucú saw it and hesitated. Ordinarily he would break a woman with as little compunction as he would a dog, and ride roughshod over her opposition; but the one facing him was no ordinary creature. She was cool and collected, pointing a gun at his heart with a hand that did not tremble.

"Y'father asked us aboard, lady," Tucú replied after a pause, an insinuating pleasantry in his voice, "an' we come because o' that. Where's he gone?"

"I told you I was in command here," was the short, curt reply. "That's sufficient. Now get back!" Tucú glanced aft and then forward. "Where's the crew?" he asked, smiling.

Then, as if drawn by common impulse, they turned and gazed at each other.

The girl woman paled slightly through her tan, but answered unhesitatingly: "There's no crew aboard. No one but father and me. Now you know the truth."

It was a bold challenge, delivered in a voice that never quavered. Dick smiled his admiration. She was capable of handling the situation. He made a bet with himself that she would force the men back through sheer will power and bravado.

But neither the girl nor Dick had figured upon the craftiness of old Tucú. Anticipating some such hold-up, the half breed had been playing for time until two of his men could work unobserved along the side of the schooner and climb up the rigging back of the girl. Neither of them was aware of this until her father, the demented skipper of the schooner, suddenly turned up again and announced his presence with glee. He had seen the two Caribs crawling up and instead of repelling them he rushed to offer assistance.

Captain Bedford Babbles Too Much

"Come aboard, mates!" he cried. "I'll help ye. It's a great prize I've picked up—so much money that I don't know what to do with it. Come aboard, an' I'll show ye."

The game was up. The girl turned a horrified gaze at her father, and then swung back again just in time to see Tucú make a leap for the deck. As if determined to punish him for his audacity, she opened fire at short range. With a growl of pain, the half breed dropped to the deck, with one arm limp and useless.

"Damn her. Break her neck, Burley!" he growled. But Black Burley had no intention of facing the gun pointed at him now. He dropped out of sight behind the bulwark, crowding those back of him into the water.

She would have driven them into their boat at the point of her gun if the two, helped on deck by the old skipper, had not attacked in the rear. When she saw them running toward her she gave a little cry of alarm, and for the first time seemed to lose her nerve.

Tucú raised his voice at the two Caribs, urging them to the flank attack. The crash of the pistol had evidently stunned Captain Bedford, for he stood helpless and amazed with mouth wide open.

Dick at this juncture decided to cast his lot in with the girl. The two Caribs had to pass close to him. When the first came abreast of his hiding place, he shot out a leg and tripped him. The second partly stumbled over the first. Quick as a flash Dick landed a blow with his fist on the point of the man's jaw, and completed the fall.

Both were armed with long curved knives that for ugliness could not be beaten. Before either could recover from his surprise, he relieved them of their weapons. Then giving the first one a kick he ran in the direction of the girl, who, with Tucú, had been watching him with amazement.

"Keep them covered!" Dick called. "I'll take care of these two. Shoot the first head that bobs up." Encouraged by the assistance that had so miraculously come to her, the captain's daughter turned more fiercely than ever upon the leader.

"I'll give you ten seconds to get over that rail," she said in a menacing voice. "If you're not gone by that time, I'll kill you like I would a dog."

Black Burley thrust a head above the bulwark. A bullet buried itself in the woodwork so near that he dropped out of sight again. "One!" began the girl. "Two!"

Tucú growled and showed his teeth; but his eyes were upon Dick, whose interference had aroused him to furious hatred. "I'll cut y'heart out, y'traitor!" he breathed thickly. "Three! Four!" counted the girl.

At the seventh count, Tucú picked himself up, slowly and painfully, and made his way over the side. Dick returned to the disarmed Caribs, and with their own knives as weapons drove them into the sea. When they had disappeared, leaving the deck cleared of all enemies, he hurried to the girl's assistance. She was peering over the side of the schooner to see if the crew were leaving in their boat.

"Keep back!" Dick warned. "They may shoot!"

She nodded and stepped cautiously behind the bulwark for protection. Dick glanced around for some weapon. A loose spar, as heavy as a man, and twenty feet long, attracted his attention. Picking it up, he carried it to the side of the schooner, and with a heave threw it outward so that it just grazed the top of the rail.

It rolled over with a clatter, carrying everything with it. There was a growl and scream below that informed him his ruse had succeeded. In its descent the long spar had knocked three Caribs into the sea, and falling on the lugger's small boat nearly smashed the bottom out of it.

Captain Tucú evidently decided that retreat, until he could reorganize his forces and plan a new attack, was the better part of wisdom. He bellowed a command to his men to pull away from the schooner, and a few moments later Dick and Captain Bedford's daughter saw the boat returning to the lugger.

They remained motionless and silent watching until the boat had drawn off beyond pistol shot. Then, as if drawn by common impulse, they turned and gazed at each other.

The girl was quiet and sober, her eyes regarding him inquiringly, almost suspiciously. There was no hint of a smile on her face. The events had tested her courage to the breaking point, and the strain was apparent in the fine lines drawn around the lips and in the heavy circles under her eyes.

Tucú Will Return, Dick Predicts

"We've got rid of them for a time," Dick said, glancing in the direction of the lugger, "but they'll return."

She nodded, following his eyes; then turning to him again, she asked: "Were you with them?"

"Yes," he admitted, "but not of them."

She frowned and raised her eyes inquiringly. "They picked me up a few hours ago," he explained. "I was about dead—been in the water for four days and nights. When they rescued me," he added, smiling at the recollection of it, "I wasn't in a mood to inquire for credentials. I was glad to get any help. Later I found out what they were."

"What are they?" she asked quietly. "Carib fishermen, beachcombers, sea scavengers, pirates—almost anything and everything."

"I see," she murmured thoughtfully. "Then you think they want to steal this schooner?"

"They took it for an abandoned derelict at first," he replied truthfully, "and, of course, as such it was their legitimate prize. They were surprised and disappointed when they saw you and your father aboard it."

"I can understand that," she replied, "but when—when I ordered them away, they didn't act as if—if they stopped and frowned again. "But you said they were sea scavengers and pirates," she added, nodding. "I suppose that means they intend to take the schooner anyway, lawfully or unlawfully."

"I'm afraid so. Captain Tucú, I imagine, isn't the kind to be easily discouraged. If he's decided the schooner's worth it he'll return later. Besides," soberly, "he has another reason for making a second attempt."

"What is that?" she asked. He laughed and shrugged his shoulders. "For one thing he'll want to get even with me for interfering, and second to get hold of those jewels I told him about."

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

Released by Western Newspaper Union

By VIRGINIA VALE

WHEN Joan Edwards' first picture, "Hit Parade of 1947," is released she'll make only one personal appearance in connection with it. She plans to appear gratis at the neighborhood theater in Washington Heights, New York City, where she attended movies during her childhood days. She had already made up her mind to break into show business; as she sings so delightfully, "It Comes Naturally," what with her being the niece of the famous Gus Edwards. And, being Joan, she'll give one of the best performances of her life in that little theater—and perhaps inspire some other youngster to work as she has to win success.

Though Burl Ives was never chosen as the boy most likely to succeed at the Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, he certainly was the most famous member of his class when he attended its reunion.

BURL IVES

Hailed as America's mightiest ballad singer, Burl has starred on Broadway, has been featured in 20th Century-Fox's "Smoky," and now he has his own radio program, heard Friday evenings over Mutual.

"Mrs. Hudson," Holmes' housekeeper in "The New Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" over NBC, is being portrayed by an English actress, Marjorie Bennett. Mary Gordon, who played "Mrs. Hudson" for the past several years both on the air and screen, is now in Scotland making a picture, "Bonnie Prince Charlie." Incidentally, many people believe that Holmes actually lived; not long ago someone sent a calabash pipe to Nigel Bruce, who's "Dr. Watson," declaring that it's one Holmes smoked many times when he lived at 221 Baker Street.

William Gargan, the screen star, is winning new laurels as hard-hitting Russ Dolan, the private investigator on "I Deal in Crime" over ABC Saturday nights. But he isn't neglecting his screen career; "Till the End of Time" is his latest.

Rumors certainly were flying when Fred Allen nosed Bob Hope out of first place in those popularity ratings. The latest Hooperating looks familiar, with Fibber McGee and Molly in first place, followed in order by the Charlie McCarthy show, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, and Fred Allen. Jack Benny's ninth, Amos 'n' Andy thirteenth. Which doesn't mean that a lot of us don't still prefer Allen.

Adolph Menjou gets a fine break, playing the title role in Columbia's film version of radio's "Mr. District Attorney." The cast includes Marguerite Chapman, Dennis O'Keefe, Michael O'Shea and George Coulouris, and Sam Bischoff is producing.

When Sherman H. Dryer books important guest stars for his science-drama series, "Exploring the Unknown," Sundays on Mutual, he's responsible for the appearance of many famous people in the audience. Kay Francis brought Grace Moore, the opera star, and Elsa Maxwell along when she appeared. And on one week's session Pat O'Brien was accompanied by William O'Dwyer, the mayor of New York.

Henry Morgan, ABC's mad humorist, complained so much on the air about not having a place to live that the National Housing Authority got him to make a series of two-minute transcriptions for country-wide distribution to radio stations.

Marilyn Maxwell, M-G-M actress and featured songstress of the Abbott and Costello air show, writes songs as a hobby.

ODDS AND ENDS — Roller-skating fans will get a thrill when they see Rita Hayworth swirl through a whole ballet on skates in Columbia's "Down to Earth." . . . Elliott Lewis is doing a second Sunday network comedy show; in addition to "Sunday at Parly's," he's appearing as "Frankie," the guitarist, on the Phil Harris-Alice Faye show. . . . Judy Garland is doing a straight dramatic role in "Drive In," the CBS "Suspense." . . . Eleanor Parker ("Never Say Goodbye," with Errol Flynn), is the only actress we know of who was discovered while doing nothing at all; she was watching a play at the Pasadena Community Playhouse when a talent scout spotted her.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The Selfish, Dishonest Wife

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"Late in the afternoon she and her crowd are giggling at a bar in some fashionable lounge."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

HOW is it that a woman like Ethel Davis can get away with what she does? How is it that while thousands of women are steadily meeting their obligations as wives and mothers, Ethel can break every law in the book, and not be thrown out of society as the outlaw she is?

All wives have faults; so have all men. We all fail each other part of the time. A wife can be irritable when she is tired, but that may make her only the more loving and sorry when the time comes to make up. A wife may be extravagant in one glaring instance, but she is sorry for it, and a little scared, when the milliner's bill comes in, and she makes Tom's favorite dessert for dinner and resolves to wear that hat for two solid seasons.

Not Ethel Davis. Ethel was completely satisfied when she married Ferd Davis seven years ago, and she is as smug as ever now. She has two children, a boy and a girl, and she talks as if no woman alive had gone through the ordeal of having children before. Ferd carries up a tray to Ethel every morning, and a high school girl comes in for 50 cents a morning and gives the children their breakfast and starts them off to nursery school.

'Hates to Go on Living.' Ferd gives me this account of his marriage in a seven-page typewritten outburst. He says he's been considering everything; desertion, kidnapping his own children, divorce, suicide. He wants to know if there isn't a tribunal where a marriage like his could be rated; isn't there any standard, any graph by which his friends could know that his rating of marital happiness is about three per cent?

"Nursery school includes lunch and naps," writes Ferd, "and costs me $70 a month. The school girl gets $12 and old Minnie about $80. My salary is $75 a week, and commissions. Ethel cashes small checks at the grocery and drugstore about three times a week.

"Of course I can't swing it. I sweat myself crazy for commissions; I've borrowed all my life insurance will carry. My father left a farm that I'm crazy about, to my bachelor brother and me; now I'm going to sell him my share. But then what? Don't say 'talk to Ethel'; all she does is get shrill, and mad and say that I needn't think I married a servant.

"There's divorce, of course. But

"She may wake up into real womanhood."

UNHAPPY HUSBAND

Ethel Davis is a thoroughly selfish woman. She is a wife and mother, but she wants all the freedom of her single days, plus the security and support to which a married woman is entitled. Although her children are very young, being four and five years old, she leaves them in the care of high school girls and old women. Most of the day she spends at movies, beauty shops or card parties, topped off with a few drinks with her crowd. Her house is neglected. She has little interest in her home except to cuddle her children now and then.

Poor Ferd Davis is trying to go along with her as best he can, but he is reaching the end of his tether.

If he could he would settle on a farm that he has recently inherited from his father, but he knows that Ethel would refuse to leave the city. He doesn't care about Ethel any longer, but he dearly loves his children. He is asking Miss Norris what to do, in a long, bitter letter.

what of Sharon and Ferd? I'd die for my kids, but I don't seem to know how to live for them. Is there any way out of this mess? I've gotten so low that I hate to go on living."

I think there is a way out of this mess, Ferd, and you indicate yourself what it might be. Many a man could take it, when faced with your problem, but not quite so simply as you can.

Go to the Farm.

Tell Ethel that you have decided to live on the farm with the children. Any man has the right to decide that he will be a farmer instead of a city clerk. Move out there, perhaps notifying certain shops in your city that you are closing your account with them. If you must borrow to get the farm paying; borrow. Chickens and milk, potatoes and apples are bringing higher prices than they ever have in the history of the world ever.

Ethel will have to come with you, or leave you. Either way you will have the right to make terms. You cannot possibly take care of babies of 5 and 4 in a city apartment, but you'll have no trouble with them on a farm. The nearest farmer's wife will run their clothes through her washing machine, and they'll be with you all day long, in a child's paradise.

The other day I was asked in a questionnaire what quality I thought most essential to success; that is, the worldly success of fame and wealth, independence and security. After some reflection I said "imagination." Whether it's running a boarding house or writing a novel, you must have imagination if you are to escape from the rut, see far enough ahead to discern a shining goal. Put your imagination to work, Ferd, upon just what this turning of the tables will mean to a selfish, extravagant, stupid wife. Get back to the soil, and give your wife every chance to accompany you. If she won't, she forfeits income, position, home, and she cannot claim alimony. If she comes, there's just a chance that she may wake up into real womanhood.

CATTLE POISONED BY METAL Molybdenum poisoning has been playing havoc with dairy herds in a 400-square-mile area of California, largely in Kern county, reports the University of California.

An overabundance of molybdenum in pastures of the area has been shown by recent studies to be the cause of the disease, which develops slowly. Cattle are made ill only after weeks of feeding in the contaminated pastures. They become emaciated and anemic and their coats fade.

Huge New Signs For Broadway

Great White Way Soon Will Sparkle Again in All Its Former Glory.

NEW YORK. — Recouping after its years of wartime dimouts, the Great White Way soon will glitter with several of the most spectacular billboards ever constructed.

The architect of these advertising wonders-to-be is Douglas Leigh, 35-year-old sign king.

He thought up the animated cartoon billboard, the cigarette sign which blows 6-foot smoke rings and the 1,000-square-foot soap flake box foaming over with 3,000 12-inch bubbles a minute.

Trickiest of Leigh's new traffic-stopping signs will be a dummy sign painter, 14 feet high, painting away on a huge blank billboard.

This tireless worker will paint "teaser copy" to arouse the curiosity of the one million people who pass through the bright-light district each day and night.

He will paint slowly, day and night, and when he finishes the billboard a week or 10 days later his audience will discover it advertises automobiles.

Happy at His Work.

Leigh, as jubilant as a kid at Christmas over his latest project, happily predicts it will snarl traffic for blocks.

"We experimented with a sign like this in Detroit before the war," he said, "and the painter looked so real the union called up to protest when he continued painting during a rainstorm."

Leigh likes to make his signs dramatic. A giant thermometer he is now designing for an ale company will depict a constant battle of the elements.

A round little man in a bathing suit, representing heat, will fight a continuous duel with a snow man.

When the temperature drops as low as 10 degrees below zero, the snow man will push the sun man down on his back. But when the temperature rises to 100 degrees, the sun man will be the victor.

Then It Will Be Even.

Leigh explains rather sadly that at 50 degrees the battle will be even.

Most brilliant of the new spectaculars will be the multicolored peanut company sign, built of 15,000 25-watt bulbs and using enough electricity daily to light a town of 10,000. This sign will show the firm's trademark, "Mr. Peanut," waving a magic wand.

With each wave of the wand—as if by magic—the sign will light up a picture of the firm's different products.

The first three-dimensional sign on Broadway will be Leigh's complicated three-story spectacular for a ginger ale company.

This sign will cover two sides of a building and be shaped like the corner of a bar.

On the bar will be two 14-foot bottles of ginger ale and sparkling water and two 8-foot highball glasses, complete with ice cubes, 12-foot swizzle sticks and continuously rising plastic bubbles to show the liveliness of a carbonated drink.

195,000 More Beds Urged In U. S. Hospital Survey

PHILADELPHIA. — Extensive re-organization and expansion of the nation's medical institutions were recommended in a report expected to set the pattern for hospital service for the next generation.

Described as a "monumental step" in hospital history, the 700-page report, containing 175 conclusions and recommendations, climaxed a two-year study by a 22-member commission on hospital care.

Highlights of the report were proposals for construction of 195,000 additional general hospital beds, expansion of general hospitals to care for all types of illnesses and improved service for chronic and mental disease sufferers.

Diamond Cutters Speed Up Production in Palestine

NATHANYA, PALESTINE.—Jewish artisanship geared to American-type production lines will produce an estimated 32 million dollars' worth of cut and polished diamonds in Palestine this year, from an industry that began eight years ago with a $1,600 debt.

Palestine's diamond industry, second only to Belgium as the world's cutting and polishing center, has revolutionized the centuries-old art of turning grubby looking rough diamonds into the scintillating gems.

There are 33 factories in the country, employing some 4,000 craftsmen who earn from $75 to $100 a week.

Effect of High Speed On Pilots Being Studied

WASHINGTON. — Some navy officers say that human beings would be unable to fly in those 1,500-mile-an-hour planes that are being talked about.

Sudden deceleration through engine failure would give the pilot such a terrific shock it would kill him, they say. Supersonic planes, they predict, will have to be pilotless and electronically controlled.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Hale News

Emil Wagner returned home on Tuesday from Saginaw where he had an operation on his arm. We hope it was a success.

School commenced on Wednesday after ten days vacation due to hunting season.

A great number of hunters were seen about the town during the first days of the hunting season. The story was the same as ever—some were lucky and got their buck and some didn't.

The Hale Grange held its installation of officers Tuesday night at the Community Hall with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Putnam as installing officers. Several numbers were played by the brass ensemble of the Hale High School followed by the installation ceremony. A beautiful lunch was served in the basement of the hall.

The Chamber of Commerce met on Tuesday night this week because the show was held on Monday night. The show had to be postponed on Thursday of last week because of no lights.

Earl Slosser and Ben Kopley of Detroit spent a few days here hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander and family of West Branch were Sunday visitors at the Hugh Slosser home.

Mrs. Addie Scofield has returned home from Jackson after some time spent there caring for an aunt who was ill. The aunt died recently and Addie brought the aged uncle home with her.

The P. T. A. wishes to thank all of those who helped, in any way to make their party Saturday night the success that it was. A large number of hunters attended.

The Dorcas Society served their annual Hunter's supper Friday night of last week. Quite a number of people attended and they cleared a tidy sum.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, Donna Morgan and Jack Hunt of Dingsun, Ohio, are spending a few days calling on old friends in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Salisbury, Mrs. Priscilla Salisbury and Eunice spent Tuesday in Bay City.

Mrs. Glenwood Streeter, who has been ill, is much improved.

A lot of us used either oil lamps or candles for a while Thursday night of last week due to trouble with the electricity. We wonder how we used to get along with such "lightening bugs?"
