Tawas City Wins From East Tawas

24 to 20 Victory Decided in Last Few Minutes Play

A thrill packed evening was in store for the crowd that jammed into the East Tawas Community building last Friday, in which Tawas City nosed out East Tawas 24 to 20. The game started right off as a rough and tumble affair with both teams roughing it up on each play. The game was decided in the last few minutes of the game when Coach Defibaugh's Elks prevented East Tawas from breaking through their zone defense to get to the basket. Tawas City racked up 9 points in the last quarter with some nice shots by Gallicker, Gingerich and Westcott, to break up a 17 to 15 lead held by East Tawas. Gallicker led his teammates with 9 points, while Rowley led East Tawas with nine points.

Tawas City's reserves lost to a strong East Tawas reserve team 10 to 23. The East Tawas reserves were clicking that night with Nash dropping 11 points through the hoop. Tawas City's team is improving and should be a tough team to beat with a little more experience under their belts. Bruce Myles chalked up four points for Tawas City, with Macdonald, Look, and Hill each sinking two points.

In another exciting game the Tawas City Girls squad nosed out their East Tawas opponents 36 to 30. This game was set off by some nice shooting by both team's forwards and centers, notably Janet Musolf, Joan Erickson and Erna Reaman who made 15, 13 and 8 points in that order. Bowen led East Tawas with 10 points, she was closely followed by Haglund who dropped nine points through the basket and Keinholtz with seven points.

The Tawas City High School teams lost to Northeastern School of Commerce, of Bay City, Tuesday evening. This was the fifth straight for the Bay City lads.

The Tawas City Reserves dropped their game to the down state reserves by a 27 to 20 margin.

Hale Grange Meets at Wagner Home

A group of officers and members of Hale Grange, No. 1063 met at the home of Emil Wagner on Wednesday evening. In an atmosphere of rural friendliness it was agreed that due to the splendid record of the Grange in 1945-46 that very effort would be made on the part of the officers and members to make the New Grange Year one to be long remembered.

The discussion centered around two important matters. First, making the new hall grangeable for the Grange meetings, with Edward Putnam, chairman of the repair group, and Mrs. Emil Wagner, chairman for the cleanup committee.

Second, a Christmas party, Wednesday, December 18, at 7:00 p. m. in the old English rural tradition, with the old English rural tradition, heading goose and all the trimmings heading the menu. A Christmas tree, grab bag presents, and games are planned to finish off this festive occasion, which is just the fore runner of greater things to come.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear son, Lt. Everett F. Humphrey, reported "Missing in Action," four years ago, today.

How little we knew, when we woke that morn,
The sorrow, the day would foretell,
For its hard to part, with one we love

Without a last farewell,
But we think of you in silence
And oft repeat your name,
What would we give, to hear your voice,
And to see your smile again,
Your father and mother
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Humphrey.

Christmas Tree Regulations

Trees in Transit Must Have Bill of Sale

Local people are encouraged to secure Christmas tree permits before going to the country to purchase their tree. Each land owner or Christmas tree dealer should furnish a bill of sale to each purchaser, however he may not be familiar with the requirements and as a result cause considerable inconvenience to himself as well as the new owner of the tree.

A state law which became effective several years ago provides protection to public and private forest areas from which Christmas trees are frequently harvested without permission.

C. A. Boyer, Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, whose staff of inspectors is assigned to the Christmas tree inspection work, reports that very few violators have been found among commercial tree handlers and as usual many persons apprehended appear to be unfamiliar with the Christmas tree law. All Christmas trees in transit without roots must be accompanied by a bill of sale designating the property from which the trees originated and bearing the signature of the property owner. Bill of sale forms are available in many locations, particularly at the County Agricultural Agent's office in East Tawas, at the Sheriff's office in Tawas City and at the State Police post in East Tawas.

Upon questioning by officials from Mr. Boyer's office it has been found that many violators pulled the trees from furrows where they had been planted by State, Federal or private agencies for reforestation purposes. A great amount of damage to the reforestation program can be done by individuals promiscuously removing trees wherever they find them.

Trees with roots come under the State nursery law and when being transported must be accompanied by a tree inspection certificate. Inspection must be made by an inspector of the Department of Agriculture before the trees are removed from the premises on which they are growing.

Few people realize the size of the Christmas tree industry, which now involves several millions of dollars each season. From 1,350,000 to 1,500,000 Christmas trees and from 1500 to 200 tons of evergreen boughs are cut annually for the holiday season.

Young Womens League Holds Christmas Party

Decorations were appropriate for the holiday season with a lighted Christmas tree and a centerpiece of pine needles, holly berries and red tapers. Refreshments were served by Viola Braden, Betty Chestler, Ernestine Butterfield.

The next meeting will be held on January 13. All new members and guests invited.

Tawas Woman Injured in Gun Accident

Bullet Inflicted by Accidental Discharge of Revolver

Mrs. Charles Simons, Jr., of Tawas township was seriously injured Monday from the accidental discharge of a .22 caliber revolver in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simons, Sr. Mrs. Simons was taken to the Saginaw General Hospital. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Depotny, formerly of this city, now of Detroit.

The accident happened at the Isoco County Infirmary. Stacy Simons, the young woman's brother-in-law, came in from out of doors and laid what he supposed was an unloaded revolver on the table. The gun was discharged and the bullet hit Mrs. Simons in the abdomen. Mrs. Simons, who resides a short distance from the infirmary, was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simons who superintend the farm.

A report from the hospital at Saginaw Wednesday evening indicated that the young woman was getting along fine considering the seriousness of the injuries. Immediately following the accident, Mrs. Simons was treated by Dr. H. R. Hess of East Tawas.

Hale Auxiliary Membership Drive

The two team captains serving with Mrs. Dorsey include Mrs. L. Zilliox and Miss Florence Webb. Aiding in this work is Unit Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Pearl Streeter.

Mrs. Dorsey states, "Names of eligible women will be divided between the teams and personal invitations to come into the Auxiliary will be given to each of these women. The teams which enroll the most members by January 1st will be entertained at a luncheon by the other team. The Unit hopes to increase its enrollment thirty-five percent over 1946, making a goal of fifty-five new members."

Mrs. Streeter states, "In our membership work this year we are helping to build a vast national organization of one million members for service to the county and to the war veterans. These are critical times when such an organization of women devoted to American ideals of freedom is greatly needed. This disabled veterans and dependent families of veterans need our organized aid. Women who worked so loyally during the war will find in the Auxiliary an opportunity to continue with the men of the American Legion."

"The record growth of the Auxiliary in the past year has made it into a two-war organization. A majority of the new members are women of World War II families, the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the men."

Yuletide Discovery

NATURAL GAS VS. LEWIS

WASHINGTON.—It has now been more than a year since it was suggested in this column that the only way to counteract John L. Lewis was to convert our two war-built, government-owned pipelines to natural gas. In the interim not a single move toward conversion has been made.

In the interim also millions of cubic feet of Texas and Louisiana natural gas have gone up in smoke and will never be recovered. Most people don't realize that this is one of our most valuable natural resources. Nevertheless, much of it is burned up in Texas as waste gas or allowed to escape. At some Texas oil wells a constant blaze is kept going, night and day, in order to burn off surplus gas.

Reason for the government's failure to convert the Big Inch and Little Inch pipelines to gas is not entirely red tape, nor the secret opposition of John L. Lewis. Vigorously pulling wires to keep the pipelines away from natural gas are the railroads and the coal operators. They are Lewis' secret allies.

Illustrative of this wire-pulling is a natural gas pipeline only 10 miles from Washington, D. C., which brings gas from West Virginia. Originally the pipeline was constructed to feed the nation's capital, but the coal industry and the railroads blocked the entrance of natural gas into Washington. They were bringing in coal which the gas company then converted into expensive artificial gas.

So for 10 years West Virginia natural gas flowed to within sight of the nation's capital but was never permitted to come into the city. Only during the war was this finally changed. Now the West Virginia pipeline has been tapped and Washington, at long last, is using cheap natural gas.

Most amusing sight on the merry-go-round scene today is the frantic scramble of the socialites, the lobbyists and the local power politicians to get religion in a hurry. In this case, religion is better known as the GOP. After 14 years of Democratic rule, the Republicans were so far down the social list they almost developed an inferiority complex. But now they are staging a grand comeback. Invitations to once-scorned Republican senators and congressmen have doubled and tripled, as hostesses bid for the newly won prestige of GOP solons.

SCAN LABOR HORIZON

One veteran senator and one newcomer are destined to play leading roles in GOP labor relations in the next congress. The veteran is aggressive, square-shooting Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine. The newcomer is Sen. Irving M. Ives, scholarly, 50-year-old New York Republican, who had an impressive labor record in the N. Y. state assembly and at Cornell university.

It was Ives who fathered the bipartisan committee on labor legislation in the New York legislature, and steps now are being taken privately to set up a similar committee in congress.

Chief behind-the-scenes plugger for this plan is Brewster. Already he has had some confidential chats with labor spokesmen, has warned that unless they play ball, drastic legislation scuttling the Wagner act is sure to be enacted.

Brewster's idea is to negotiate a covenant for labor peace between congress and labor, which could, if successful, obviate the need of rough, legislative crackdowns. Such a peace pact might take the form of a strike moratorium or an agreement to arbitrate major disputes.

Come what may, some labor curbs, including revision of the Wagner act, seem certain to be voted, but Brewster believes these curbs can be tempered in direct proportion to labor's ability to control its own mavericks.

For some strange reason, Secretary of State Byrnes has become awfully jittery about having a senate committee probe what's going on in Germany. He is putting all sorts of obstacles in the path of the old Truman committee's investigation of the reported breakdown of American morale in Germany and the secret flirtation of some U. S. business firms with Nazi cartels. Several members of the committee, now the Kilgore committee, flew up to New York for a session with Byrnes regarding this, but he remained adamant.

POLITICAL CHAFF

President Truman has no illusions about his ability to get along with the new GOP congress. He knows Bob Taft too well. Despite Truman's conciliatory message to the nation, he believes it will be a constant battle with the Republicans once the honeymoon is over. Failure to produce artificial limbs for veterans has induced John Steelman, reconversion director, to set up a special committee to break this bottleneck. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, Iwo Jima hero, heads the group.

'STUMP-TO-HOUSE' JOURNEY . . . Virgin timber from Idaho's forests is speeded up on its way to help aid the lumber shortage. Modern methods have cut the transit time materially.

HUNTING A HOUSE?

Foresters Speed Lumber To Fill National Shortage

WNU Features

BOISE, IDAHO.—Idaho's towering forests are playing an important role in the all-out effort to alleviate the nation's lumber shortage. Speed is the keynote in the lumber industry, modern production methods expediting the process of converting virgin timber into sorely-needed houses.

Actually a tree in the forest can be cut, sawed, cured and ready for a house in a matter of weeks, Idaho foresters and lumber company officials insist, although the elapsed time sometimes seems like a century to hordes of hungry house hunters—especially those relegated to living with in-laws.

"Today the product of standing trees can be unloaded at a lumber yard hundreds of miles from the forest in a matter of two or three weeks," foresters report.

Drying Expedited. Back in the old days when most of the work of lumbering was done by hand, many months were required to produce finished lumber from growing trees. One of the longest delays was in drying or curing of the rough boards before they were sent to the planing mill. In drying yards after the wind and sun and rain had done an unpredictable job of curing, the boards were taken from the piles one by one and inspected, all the work done by hand.

Today the most commonly accepted method of drying lumber is kiln drying where cross ventilation takes out the excess moisture. Other methods sometimes used are chemical drying and high frequency electrical drying. In kilns, drying time will range from 72 hours for Idaho pine "4-by-4s" to 432 hours for "10-by-4s."

Drives Eliminated.

Trucks have supplanted to a large extent the big timber drives and water transportation of the past in Idaho's forests, and other methods and machines have speeded up the "stump-to-house" journey of lumber. Today the time lapse has been shortened from months to days, which should encourage those who still are waiting for lumber for that new house.

The cutting of trees is a year-around operation, even when the snows come. During the war, Idaho timber workers cut trees in snow from 9 to 11 feet deep. Ordinarily, however, they hold their winter operations to areas where snowfall is lighter.

Staid Boston Has Novel High School

BOSTON.—In traditionally staid Boston, a high school where students may leave the building, smoke or occasionally call up their wives on flourishes. Perhaps the only institution of its kind, the Boston School for Veterans has one academic year under its Sam Browne belt and now is embarking on the second.

Germinating from an idea by members of the Boston school committee, this novel veterans-only high school opened its doors December 3, 1945, under the headmanship of former Navy Lt. Comdr. Henry McInerney. All faculty members are veterans.

Students' ages have ranged from 19 to 50. Applicants must live in Boston and have a wartime record. Thus far the student body has been divided equally between those earning diplomas and those taking refresher courses for college.

McInerney, who taught at other Boston public schools before entering the navy, has high praise for his battle-hardened pupils.

FOR THE 'WELL DRESSED' G. I. . . . Seventy items costing $1,200 are included in the new Arctic fighting garb for Uncle Sam's winter soldiers. The new outfit was displayed at the army ground forces' "Task Force Frost" at Camp McCoy, Wis. Shown examining the clothes and equipment, a total of 70 items, are Capt. David E. Cleary of Detroit and Pfc William G. Kreuzer of Pittsburgh.

'Divide Game' Hunts Popular in South

JACKSONVILLE, N. C.—"Divide-the-game" hunts have lured many sportsmen to nearby Hofmann forest this season. The novel hunt, which opened in November, are continuing at specified dates in December and will wind up on New Year's Day.

In the novel hunting procedure, each participant is given a "hunter's share" of the kill. In the case of a deer kill, the successful marks-

Psychology Lauded For Aiding Parolees

RICHMOND, VA.—Modern psychology and case methods are credited by William Shands Meacham, chairman of the Virginia state parole board, with satisfactory restoration to society of more than 90 per cent of Virginia parolees.

Speaking before a convention of trial justices here, Commissioner Meacham described the average man entering prison as between 19 and 25 years of age, not a hardened criminal, who has had seven years or less of schooling and faces a sentence of from three to five years. He has had on an average of four contacts with the law prior to imprisonment.

Modern penological methods used in Virginia penitentiaries, which include service of full-time psychologists and medical psychologists, immediately diagnose the character of the man and a plan for his paroled condition goes forward while he still is in prison, Meacham explained. Results of psychological tests are used as basis for assignment to prison duties.

Hermit Is Entire Population Of Isolated N. Y. Community

WNU Features

COLD RIVER CITY, N. Y.—With Noah John Rondeau, 63-year-old hermit, as its only resident, Cold River City ranks as one of the nation's most novel one-man communities. Although it probably won't be found on any map, the community has been dubbed Cold River City by its gray-bearded occupant.

Perched on the edge of a 75-foot ravine "30 odd miles from nowhere" in the heart of the Adirondack mountains, Cold River City boasts no modern conveniences, not even a kerosene stove. To reach the town, visitors must start out from "civilization," 38 miles away at Saranac lake and hike into the woods—unless they're lucky enough to hitch a ride part way on a forest service truck.

Rondeau has been living in the woods more than 30 years now, 15 of them as a professed hermit. He loves the woods and isn't as lonely as many another person sitting in a crowded railroad station. As his nearest neighbor is 19 miles away, he necessarily has few visitors.

Rangers Bring Supplies.

Forest rangers, who pass by every few weeks or so, are his best friends. Formerly Noah would trek the 38 miles to Saranac lake twice a year to do his marketing. Of late, however, the rangers have been packing in supplies for him. Fellow can't be a real hermit, in his estimation, if he wants to run out to market every so often.

Time means little to the aging solitary. If he wants to know the hour, he just takes a squint at the sun. Rondeau doesn't believe in clocks. "Busted up the last one I had 'cause the darned thing kept waking me up with the ticking," he said.

There never has been a Mrs. Rondeau. He doesn't like women.

"Never did like women around," he said. "They talk only once a day—from morning 'til night—and besides, they want to boss a man around. Then they sometimes want to bring their mother to live with you."

Despite his isolated home, Rondeau is pretty well up on affairs of today. He scans his weekly old newspapers avidly, whenever the rangers or passing hikers leave them.

Verse on Affairs.

"I've read up a good deal on atomic power, and in a way I was sorry they made a war weapon out of it. But the way it saved so many of our boys' lives, I guess it was a good thing," Rondeau commented. He also has his opinions on world affairs. Denying that he's an isolationist, Rondeau nevertheless believes the United States is "too concerned about other countries."

Rondeau went to New York City once, 20 years ago. But he didn't like the looks of the place. "Everybody seemed a-bustling. It was all heter-skelter to me."

Colorful Dances Of West Shown On Student Tour

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Early American, Mexican and cowboy dances are portrayed in all their vivid color and flavor by the widely-traveled western dance team of Cheyenne Mountain high school here, which recently completed a jaunt to the midwest for its regular fall trip.

The dancers make an annual trip to a different part of the country, presenting the unique program of dances. Before the war they appeared in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Travel is by special bus, a gift to the school.

Dr. Lloyd Shaw, superintendent of the school and authority on square and folk dances, directs the student dancers.

During their recent midwestern jaunt, the dancers appeared before the Wisconsin State Teachers association convention in Milwaukee as well as in Chicago, La Grange, Ill., Sheboygan and La Crosse, Wis., Minneapolis and St. Cloud, Minn., and Lincoln, Neb.

Women Legislators Set Record in Iowa

DES MOINES, IOWA.—Three women will sit in the Iowa legislature convening here in January to set a record feminine representation. Although three women among 158 members of the legislature isn't much representation, it does establish a record as never before have more than two women served in the legislature at one time.

The "apron-string" section will consist of Sen. Kathryn Kirketeg, 43, of Bedford; Rep. Edna Lawrence, 40, of Ottumwa, and Rep. Amy Bloom, 57, of Dayton. All are Republicans and all are former school teachers.

Art Termed Ageless—And So Are Students

HAYS, KANS.—Kansas State college's perennial art student is the title conferred on Mrs. H. F. Addison, 68. After living in Hays for 44 years and watching the school grow, Mrs. Addison's desire for learning got the better of her and she enrolled in the art department eight years ago. She hasn't missed a course since then. Her interests ranged from drawing to design.

Nearly Million Vets Enrolled

Strengthen Force Capable of Rapid Mobilization in An Emergency.

WASHINGTON.—The war department disclosed that the army's post-war reserve force is taking definite shape with nearly a million officers and G. I. veterans enrolled. At scheduled rates or faster, officials indicated, the framework of the reserve corps is going up at the same time the regular army is steadily declining in size and the smaller national guard is trying to conquer difficulties in getting men to fill out its ranks.

The reserve, under army plans, will be an elastic force capable of emergency expansion to three million men.

Fewer than 700,000 would be in full strength units ready for M-Day mobilization.

Lift Information Ban.

Lifting a temporary official ban on information which followed heated criticism of war department policies by leaders of the national guard association disclosed these developments:

1. The entire relationship between the organized reserve corps and the national guard has been under official review with no hint whether War Secretary Patterson and General Eisenhower, army chief of staff, have approved changes.

Major General Reckford, Maryland's adjutant general, told the national guard association at its Buffalo meeting that the war department had engaged in "double dealing" by favoring the reserves in postwar reorganization. He asserted there had been "silly, uneconomical competition" for manpower between the army's two major civilian components.

2. More than 2,000 ground force reserve units already have been activated in class "C" or skeleton form, with only officers assigned. Flight retraining of wartime flyers has been started at 48 army air fields, of 130 contemplated in official plans.

3. Latest reports list some 524,000 enlisted men enrolled for three years, along with 444,624 officers, who signed up for five years upon release from active wartime service. Former G. I.s initially were slow to obligate themselves to peacetime training and to immediate active duty in an emergency.

Establish Headquarters.

By comparison, the national guard, organized into units trained for M-Day readiness, hopes to enroll no more than a third of its full strength of 682,000 by next July.

4. Reserve headquarters now have been set up in all 48 military districts, corresponding generally to the states, and instructors assigned to most.

Current conferences on policy are expected to develop new specific proposals to be submitted to congress for training "class A" full strength reserve units on a part-time basis, with the same rates of pay as provided for the national guardsmen.

Twenty-five reserve divisions are to be organized, to the national guard's 27, including 17 infantry divisions, 3 armored and 5 airborne. In addition there are to be some 16 separate anti-aircraft, engineer and corps military brigades.

Mail Sent From Germany

Not Wanted by Yugoslavia

BERLIN.—Yugoslavia, which for some weeks has been refusing to admit mail dispatched from Germany, has formally notified Allied occupying powers that she does not desire to resume postal exchange with Germany, American military government announced.

Yugoslavia is the second nation to refuse restoration of mail exchange, which was authorized several months ago between Germany and all countries except Japan and Spain.

Finland was the first to refuse and did so promptly with the statement that she did not desire resumption "at this time."

FALL CITY, NEB.—W. H. Harmon, federal forester for southeast Nebraska, can testify to the trouble the housing shortage can lead to.

His office is in Humboldt, Neb., he gets his mail at Dawson, Neb., his telephone calls come through the Verdon, Neb., exchange, his frozen food locker is at Table Rock, Neb., and he lives in a farm house midway between Dawson and Verdon. The shortest round trip is 48 miles.

Artificial Snowflakes

The General Electric Corp. Gentlemen:

Must you make me feel depressed, sour and apprehensive? Is it fair for you to go out of your way to spread gloom and disillusionment? Can't you do something about that man Vincent J. Shaefer, one of your head scientists?

Nothing has saddened us so much in years as a headline the other morning—"General Electric Makes Real Snowflakes." And the subhead—"V. J. Shaefer finds way to produce genuine crystals." We are crying still.

If there was one thing that we thought this world would be able to retain in the time-honored form, with no substitutes or imitations, it was the snowflake. I was always a warm friend of snowflakes. I might say I loved them from boyhood up. They were beautiful beyond words; something too lovely to be dreamed of as the work of man. I thought of God when I looked out on a moonlight night and saw the snowflakes drifting down like so many jewels. And so did most people.

Oh, sometimes I thought, too, of Heaven, the skies, the glamorous mysteries of nature; yes, and my thoughts wandered to sleigh bells, double-rippers and a white Christmas. But you can be sure of something: I never thought of the General Electric corporation. I never, in my life, looked at a snowflake and thought of Schenectady, N. Y.

Tell me it isn't so, Owen Young! Just tell me you have just made a plastic flake, a cheap substitute, Mr. Shaefer; everything in this troubled world has been altered, shaken up, all fouled up and monkeyed with. The snowflake was about the one thing left untouched. It alone stood out in the original form, with a glamour all its own and a mystery untampered with. Who wants to see a child look out the window at the crystals from fairyland on a winter morning and exclaim, "Oh, mumsy! Look what General Electric is doing!"

Who wants to hear anybody reciting Whittier—

The snow had begun in the gloaming
And busily all the night
Had been heaping field and highway
With Schenectady products
White. . . .

Repudiate the whole thing, General Electric. Or there will be trouble. This country will never accept without a fight the prospect of coasting down hill on factory-made snow.

The Big Four Take an Elevator at the Waldorf

Byrnes—This is the one we take, I believe.

Molotov—I object to such an abrupt conclusion, amounting almost to a directive, without debate.

Bevin—Oh, this is an express to the 37th floor all right. Let's not quibble.

Molotov—You say it is all right and Mr. Byrnes says it is all right, but I must insist that does not make it necessarily so.

Byrnes—if it is the considered judgment of the gentleman from the Soviet Union that another elevator be taken I shall not press an objection at this time.

Bevin—What does the gentleman propose?

Molotov—I propose we designate three elevators. This would give us suitable range and prevent a narrow policy of adhering to one elevator only.

Byrnes—Why not four elevators? In case of a serious issue between us we would each have an elevator all our own.

Molotov—That is a capitalistic proposal, plainly designed to impede Russian freedom of action. The Soviet Union must oppose any solution as simple as that. It might satisfy everybody. I must insist on three elevators, thus giving Russia the right at all times to get in with somebody else.

De Murville—What would the world think if it could see us hesitant in the mere matter of an elevator? I move that we make elevators optional.

Bevin—I remember the Soviet Union when it would scorn an elevator and insist on walking up the 37 floors.

"That gag which B. Cerf included in his joke book giving me credit and which I pointed out I had heard from Joe E. Louis was really created by the inimitable Bugs Baer, and first appeared on this very page several years ago."—Louis Sobol.

By Erta Haley

ONE charming neighbor of ours always says, "Isn't it funny how you think your Christmas list is complete and you find at the last minute you've neglected someone. I've never seen it to fail."

I think most of us have that experience nearly every year, and then we're in a dither trying to do last minute shopping when everything is picked over completely, and there just isn't enough time to select a proper gift.

There's a solution, however, which you'll find a lot easier to follow than trying to shop. Spend the time at home and see what you can make out of your sewing basket. There are lots of things that can be made out of bits of gay cloth or a ball of yarn which are welcome fill-in gifts.

I don't suppose any woman ever had enough pot holders, because they do get their share of wear, scorching, etc. You can really make attractive pot lifters by using odd bits of colorful material, or even oilcloth. Any neighbor or friend will be happy to receive a fresh pair of them among her gifts.

Another friend of mine who likes children always has plenty of things on hand to give the youngsters when they bring her cookies or do errands for her. She makes a hobby out of yarn dolls which are the most attractive things you've ever seen. Quick to make, too, they're ideal for the last minute gift.

String and Stocking Dolls
Use Odd Scraps of Material

To make string dolls, gather all the bits of odd string you can find. Wind the string, both coarse and thin pieces together, around a small piece of cardboard which has been cut two or three inches long. Tie at the top and cut at the bottom. Divide the thicknesses for arms, legs and body. Tie at the neck and waist, clip arms the proper length and tie. Then tie off feet for boy dolls. Color them by simmering in dye. Make some red, some green and perhaps others yellow.

If you want to make a glamor doll, use the sequins from an old dress as trimming, adding glitter here and there, on hands, toes, face and body.

To make a stocking doll, select a man's sock or some of the short socks your son or daughter have used. Clip off the toe part, and use the material to make fat little arms for the doll. The rest of the foot should be cut in two and stitched to make the legs. Stuff with cotton batting, shape the head with stitching and embroider eyes, nose and mouth.

If you want to dye the sock in a brilliant color, do this before making the doll. Scarlet is a good color to use for a doll of this type. Simmering in the dye bath for 8 to 9 minutes will do the trick. The sock should then be rinsed in cold water and allowed to dry thoroughly.

Lapel Pins, Pictures, Teddy Bears Nice, Too.

White pipe cleaners are inexpensive, and they can be used to make clever lapel ornaments for teen-age girls. Simply dye the pipe cleaners to a desired shade and let dry thoroughly before attempting to shape them into dolls or other ornaments.

If you are making a dancing doll, use one pipe cleaner for the head and body, another for the arms, still another for the dancing legs and a fourth for her skirt. A boy dancer will take two more for the legs and trousers, a part of one pipe cleaner for the feet, and a part of another for scarf and sash. Any combination of colors may be used.

Charming pictures can be made from cloth, and they're a nice addition for a youngster's room. You can use as your guide a page from a child's book. Use thin cotton material in any desired color, dyed, if necessary, and cut patterns on cloth from the picture you are using for a model. Mount these on another piece of cloth and use a simple wood frame.

Discarded terry cloth bath towels are excellent material for making teddy bears that young fry like to carry with them. There are patterns available for making the bears, or you can make one of your own if you're good at drawing. It's a good idea to dye the towel if it's white and you may use brown or pastels. Be sure to decorate the teddy bear with a red ribbon tongue, button eyes and red ribbon bow tie.

Quickie Gift Ideas

Rayon and cotton toweling make nice tray or luncheon sets. Cut doilies 12 inches by 18 inches and finish off by raveling the edges to make a fringe. The napkins can be made 12 inches by 12 inches and may also be raveled. A set of four, six or eight of these will make an especially nice gift for a busy homemaker.

Here's a tip for making some things of odd boxes. Use them for lingerie cases, handkerchief or hose containers. Cover them with cloth or wallpaper, and use a contrasting color or print for lining.

You haven't time to knit mittens? Well then, make them from old sweaters. Cut a pattern slightly larger than hand size and machine stitch around the pattern to outline the mitten pieces and prevent raveling. Use a whipstitch or buttonhole stitch in contrasting colored yarn for finishing the mitten.

Another idea for mittens is to make them out of an old suede jacket and then sew bits of fur around the cuffs, or use fur for lining.

Decorative head bands are nice for teen-agers and don't take long to make. Use embroidered felt in bright warm colors, sequins on a wire frame, or fur or feathers.

Fashion Forecast

Bustle interest is still in fashion, but the effects are rather softened with muted drapery, soft bows or shirring.

Look for tailored jackets to go with your daytime and evening fashions. Not only are they practical to have in cooler weather, but they add a note of completeness to your dress.

Tyrolean influence is being felt in some of the young girl's casual hats. They are made of felt and have one of those quaint feathers at the back.

Mothers used to like to get rid of their maternity clothing as soon as baby arrived, but it's not so with the new clothes now ready for her. She can keep on wearing them.

Worth its wait in Golden Moments

THE first big moment comes, of course, when you step out of your door, and there's your very own Buick, all ready and waiting.

The next one comes when you roll down the street in this handsome creation—and practically feel the eyes of the passers-by following.

You get another lift the first time you meet a hill, and the voice of your Fireball straight-eight engine drops from baritone to bass as it meets the challenge—and tramps the grade down into easy levelness.

Then some night you'll find yourself alone on a quiet moonlit country road—and the whisper of your engine, the soft tread of your coil-sprung wheels, your gentle, cradled, easy stride, will fill your soul with a peace you wouldn't trade for worlds.

The simple truth is that it's not only an automobile you wait for when you wait for a Buick—it's an endless series of sweet satisfactions.

It's not just a matter of size and room and Fireball power and all-coil springing, as any Buick owner will tell you—it's the wonderful way all these add up to make a constant flow of golden moments.

You'd like those moments to start coming soon. So would the whole, hard-hitting crew that's waging relentless war against delays and shortages to produce Buicks for you—and fast.

But the most important thing—when you think it out—is what you get rather than when you get it—and what you really want is found nowhere else but in Buick.

Why not settle your mind on that and be done with it? You can place your order now for future delivery, with or without a car to turn in—though we like to get trade-ins for our used-car buyers.

Reverse Skirt
Before discarding a wool skirt that has begun to look worn and shabby, consider the possibility of giving it a new lease on life by turning it inside out. Wool goods and garments still are scarce, so every effort should be made to get full wear from the clothes on hand. Often the faded color, spots and wear that make a skirt look worn are only surface deep. If the underside looks new and if the fabric, when held up to the light, shows no sign of wearing thin, the skirt is probably worth reversing.

Orange Sweeteners
Besides serving as sweets, oranges and tangerines have possibilities as sweeteners. Home economists suggest, for example, in orange gelatin dessert, if orange sections are used in addition to orange juice, sugar called for may be reduced a third or even a half. And for those who like a sweet salad, orange bits or slices mixed with slaw or combined with grated carrot provide the touch of sweetness without sugar.

Finley Advises on Farm Repairs

Repair work upon the average Isoco County farm is neglected because time and labor are extremely scarce. This has been the case during recent war years and as a result some farm buildings are now seriously in need of attention says County Agricultural Agent, W. L. Finley.

Materials are also a problem, although Finley believes that most farm wood lots might well furnish the lumber that is needed. It will take a little planning however! Lumber requirements for the next year should be estimated and during the next few months see that logs are harvested to meet these future lumber needs.

If new construction is required even concrete work may be done, with success, at this time of year. Cement is scarce but may be more plentiful after January 1st.

The College Agricultural Engineering Department advises us that Concrete work may be done in winter providing some precautions are taken.

Heat hastens the hardening of concrete, but cold retards it. In mixing concrete when temperatures are below 40 degrees, sand, pebbles and water should be heated. Since the cement forms only a small volume of the materials in the batch, it need not be heated.

Sand and gravel may be heated by piling over an old metal colvert pipe, a section of smoke stack or some other improvised firebox. With a fire kindled inside, the heat soon distributes the heat through the material if it is raked or moved about to get all portions heated equally.

Water may be heated in a large kettle or in a boiler. Water and materials should not be heated to a temperature higher than 150 degrees.

Snow and ice must be removed from the forms and ground upon which the concrete mixture is placed. As soon as the concrete is placed in the forms it should be given some protection to retain the heat. Cover of canvas or hay are often used for this purpose. The protection should be left on for four or five days.

To test to see if the work has sufficiently hardened Finley suggests you pour hot water on the concrete. If properly hardened concrete will not be affected by the hot water. If frozen, concrete will be softened by the heat. Test before removing the forms.

Calcium chloride may be used to speed the hardening, but not more than two pounds of calcium chloride per sack of cement should be used. It should be dissolved in water before being placed in the mixer.

Sewerage System

In 1942 about 70.9 million persons, or 87 per cent of the total urban population of the country, were provided with some kind of sewerage and there were 5,600 treatment plants with an estimated connected population of 42 million, or about 60 per cent of the population served by sewer systems.

Protein Reduces Fatigue

A recent experiment has shown that protein foods added to the breakfast menu reduce fatigue later in the day.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

The Probate Court for the County of Isoco

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Tawas City, in said County, on the 19th day of November A. D. 1946.

It is Further Ordered, That notice thereof be given by publication of a copy hereof for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing in the Tawas Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County, and that the petitioner shall, at least ten (10) days prior to such hearing, cause a copy of this notice to be mailed to each party in interest in this estate at his last known address by registered mail, return receipt demanded.

H. Read Smith,

YOUR REGULAR ARMY SERVES THE NATION AND MANKIND IN WAR AND PEACE

TREASURE OF THE SEA

BY George E. Walsh W.N.U. Release

THE STORY THUS FAR: The crew of a small sailing vessel in the Caribbean pick up Dick Jordan, among men who are virtually pirates. They come upon a drifting schooner. Only people aboard are demented Captain Bedford and his daughter, Rose. Tucu and his pirates attempt to capture the schooner, but Rose turns them back, aided by Dick. During the night Tucu again attacks and captures Rose and Dick. He then begins a fruitless search for the "treasure" supposed to be aboard. Dick talks him into a deal. Tucu is anxious to get the treasure and get away. Rose is startled when she hears Dick's bargain.

CHAPTER VI

"Don't be sorry until you know what you're sorry for," she interrupted sharply. "I didn't say there was anything of value aboard. What Father says I'm not responsible for. He says a lot of crazy things."

"Then—then—"

She waved him to silence as a footstep sounded on the stairs and Captain Tucu pushed his way into the room. He glanced from one prisoner to the other.

"Well," he growled, "y'ready to tell?"

"As much as we know, captain," replied Dick quickly. "Neither of us knows where Captain Bedford hid the money. If we had known we'd have left the schooner before you came aboard."

Rose Bedford turned to face the half-breed, her cheeks flushed and angry. There was no fear in her.

"If you think I'd tell if I knew where it was hidden," she said defiantly, "you're mistaken. You could never get it out of me."

Her defiance brought the blood into the old pirate's face and the devil in his eyes. He stepped toward her and caught an arm in his powerful grip.

"Y'wouldn't!" he snarled.

"Y'wouldn't, eh? Well, y'little she-devil, I'll show ye. I'll wring it out of ye, an—"

"Hold on, captain," interrupted Dick, "she doesn't know anything about it. Let up on her! You promised not to make war on her. Settle it with me."

"Well, what d'ye know about it?" was the savage retort, as he turned from the girl to him. "Y'tell me or y'll go back in the water where we found ye. Pretty damn quick, too!"

Dick was struggling between a strong desire to twist the man's neck and the need of extra caution in playing his hand skillfully. The latter finally triumphed. He smiled good-naturedly.

"If you dropped me overboard, captain, you'd lose both treasure and those jewels. Now you don't want to do that."

Tucu growled impotently, expending his wrath by glancing from one to the other with wicked, malevolent eyes. He spat viciously on the floor, and then exploded:

"I'll give y'until tonight—sundown—to find out. If ye ain't got the stuff by that time, y'got to find it for us—ye an' that witch! Y'get me? It's got to be found! I don't care how y'do it, so's it's done. If not we'll string the capt'n up by his thumbs 'til he remembers, an' ye an' this girl'll come next. If we can't do any better we'll tie y'up in the cabin an' set the schooner afire. Then ye an' the treasure can go to hell together."

"And the smuggled jewels?" queried Dick, smiling.

Captain Tucu regarded him an instant in silence, and then shook his head. "I ain't sure there ever was any jewels," he said suspiciously.

"I may give y'one more chance to prove it. Then—then—ye'll wish y'd died on that raft. It would be much easier, I reckon, than the way y'll go if y'disappoint me."

Tucu Is Convinced There Is No Treasure

As the search proceeded, and nothing was found, the half-breed's temper grew short and surly. He kept the deck most of the time, his eyes on Dick, who was lashed to the foremast, or on Rose. Captain Bedford had been held a prisoner in the fo'c's'le where he had been subjected to certain third-degree methods of Tucu's invention; but the wandering mind of the demented man was a treacherous thing to depend upon.

In time the old man's very willingness to talk of the hidden treasure disgusted them.

"Hell," muttered Tucu in disgust. "He never had no treasure."

He strode on deck, his eyes blood-shot with anger. Seizing Rose by the arm, he said: "Y've been lyin' ter me." There wasn't no treasure aboard.

"I never said there was," she replied coolly. "You took Father's word for it, and I told you he wasn't responsible for what he said."

Tucu glared at her in silence, his face working in a passion. Then without a word, he dropped her arm and strode toward Dick. "Y'got one more chance," he said ominously. "Y'lied 'bout this treasure. Now we'll see if y'were lyin' 'bout them jewels."

we'll see if y'made up that one 'bout the smuggled gems."

Matters had certainly reached a climax. The crew under Tucu's orders were preparing to return to the lugger. Dick didn't quite understand what it meant until half an hour later two Caribs cut the ropes holding him to the mast. He tried to extract from them some information; but they mutely disregarded him and conducted him to the small boat.

Ten minutes later he was rowed back to the lugger. All except two of the crew were abandoning the schooner. When Tucu and Black Burley came aboard the lugger, Dick's fear for his own safety was secondary to his dread that something terrible was about to happen to Rose.

"Where's Captain Bedford's daughter?" he demanded sharply.

"Where she wanted to be—aboard the schooner," replied Tucu, grinning.

"She's not going with us?"

"No."

"Is she alone?"

"Well, she's with her father and mother."

"Where are they?"

"On the schooner."

"Where's the schooner?"

"Where she wanted to be—aboard the schooner," replied Tucu, grinning.

"Where's the schooner?"

"Where she wanted to be—aboard the schooner," replied Tucu, grinning.

arms, but Dick ducked in time to elude them.

Shaking the brine out of his eyes, he began swimming, holding his head as high out of the water as he could. He made no resistance to the waves, but swam with them, striving to keep on their crests for better observation. A light twinkled out of the darkness, but he wasn't sure whether it came from the lugger or the schooner.

He conserved his strength as much as possible, swimming easily and treading water every time he was swept on the crest of a wave. From this pinnacle he had a wide glimpse of the sea; but the darkness now shut out everything, and neither the lugger nor the schooner was visible.

"I've missed it," he groaned once. "I should have been there before this."

In the midst of his bitter reflections his hand caught something that startled him.

It was a water-soaked rope! His mind nimbly leaped from despair to hope. He clutched eagerly at the mass of slimy ropes that before had been sea monsters and slippery eels. Now they were life lines flung out to help him. Their continued lashing and twisting were pleasant indications that they were real and substantial. He was not dreaming.

He began clawing at them, pulling himself from one mass of rigging to another. When his hands came in contact with a floating spar, and it bobbed up and nearly smashed his face, he laughed in glee instead of cursing. If he could crawl up the wreckage to the schooner's deck he would be safe.

Finally a giant wave carried him clear over the rail and dropped him heavily on the deck where he lay sprawled for some moments, gasping for breath, and groaning from the effects of the terrific struggle. The crests of the surging waves reached him even here, but they no longer had the power to use him as a battering ram.

When he finally raised his head and looked around the wave-swept deck, he had a queer feeling that all his efforts had been in vain. The schooner was abandoned, with him as the only living being aboard.

A little startled by his discovery, he began crawling in the direction of the cabin. If Rose and her father were aboard he would find them there, for the wet, slippery deck was no place for them, and they could not hope to navigate the derelict on such a wild night.

When he reached the head of the companion, a welcome ray of light came through the open door of the cabin, bringing joy and relief to his tortured mind. Rose was below with her father, watching, hoping, and praying or stoically awaiting their fate.

Dick staggered to his feet and started down the steps; but before he had taken one, sounds of a muffled commotion halted him. Craning his head forward, he listened, peering intently through the murky gloom until his eyes came to a focus on something lying half across the threshold. With a little start of surprise, he recognized the body of one of the two Caribs left behind on the schooner.

Another Ugly Battle For Rose and Dick

A reddish clot of blood in the middle of the forehead told where a bullet had entered and brought his life to a sudden end.

From inside the cabin came the low, shifting sounds of a wordless conflict, with the combatants struggling back and forth in a deadly embrace, their breath coming in short, wheezy gasps.

Dick slipped down the few steps and stood astride the dead Carib. He blinked a moment under the strong light of the swinging cabin lamp before he took in the significance of the scene.

The second Carib had disarmed Rose, and with one powerful hand pinning her against the wall he was trying to encircle her waist with his free arm. With a growl of rage, Dick sprang at the brute, catching him by the neck, and with a jerk wrenched his head back. Then looping an arm around the neck he pried the head backward until he could get a strangle hold on the windpipe.

The Carib was a big, powerful man, with a head as hard as a battering ram, and arms and legs as thick and solid as tree trunks. After the first shock of surprise, he struggled to shake his assailant from his back, grunting and blowing loudly. Dick's strength had been badly spent in the struggle in the water, and as they rolled and twisted over the cabin floor his own breath came in short, labored gasps.

In spite of his advantageous hold, he realized that the Carib might eventually get the better of him. The bull-like neck rose and fell, emitting horrible gurgling sounds, but his strength showed no signs of weakening. The powerful muscles were working slowly and steadily, while Dick's were rapidly weakening under the strain.

Then, when it seemed as if his last ounce of strength had been used up, and his burly antagonist was still fresh and active, a sudden deafening crash shattered the stillness.

CHANGE OF HEART

By JAMES KINSEY

"A wonderful party!" Susan Blancke's eyes were shining as she spoke. "I can't imagine your Uncle Will giving a party—and on New Year's Eve, at that! This is one puzzle that has me stumped!"

Handsome Douglass Wilson, with whom she was sitting out the dance, nodded agreement. There was ample reason for Susan's bewilderment. Never, until tonight, had his Uncle Will demonstrated anything but complete criticism for the younger generation. Even the most simple pleasures of youth had drawn his frown. But tonight, for no apparent reason, he had performed a complete about-face and opened his own home to Doug's friends. The big, gloomy house, silent for years save for the guarded tread of servants, rang tonight with gaiety and laughter!

Returning from the city, Uncle Will had brought horns, whistles, silly caps and balloons for the party. And most amazing of all, tonight his usually grim face was wreathed in smiles. He seemed to be enjoying the evening like a schoolboy.

"It's the most puzzling thing!" Susan repeated.

She smiled as Doug pressed her hand, remembering suddenly how much she loved him, yet how difficult Uncle Will had made their relationship. Doug had lived there in the big house since his parents died. Now, grown up, he was managing the estate.

"Uncle Will just began making preparations for the party when he came back from New York," Doug said. "But he hasn't told me a word. I'm as much in the dark as you, Sue!"

They were silent a moment. "I'm afraid that tomorrow he'll turn back into Uncle Doug," he continued. "I just can't remember Uncle Will ever smiling before. . . . But let's talk about you. Darling, I don't care if he is opposed to young people getting married. I'm going to tell him the truth tomorrow. I don't care if—"

"So you don't care, eh?" Uncle Will was suddenly standing beside them, his expression threatening. "You're willing to defy me?" In the shadows they were unable to see the twinkling in his eyes.

"Well, it's the only thing we can do," Doug answered hotly. "You—you're so hard about everything, we have to defy you, since you put it that way."

"You don't have to, son!" Uncle Will had come closer and placed an arm around each of their shoulders. "You can marry Susan just as soon as you want to—"

"But, we don't understand," Doug gasped. "Why, only a week ago you said—"

"I said those things deliberately, children," Uncle Will interrupted. "You see, there's something I haven't been able to tell you until tonight, Doug. When your father died, making me your guardian, he stipulated that you were to inherit his estate only if you remained single until January 1 this coming year—that is, until midnight tonight. At the same time, for some peculiar reason, he stipulated that you weren't to be told about this provision—so if I'd let you get married sooner, you'd have lost everything. It was a strange provision that he made in his will," he concluded. "But it's worked out satisfactorily. . . ."

Doug was gasping. "And that's why you've been so opposed to my marrying Sue?" he asked.

"That's right, Doug," he nodded. "I've wanted so badly to tell you these past few months, but you see, I couldn't—until tonight!"

He pulled himself loose from their grasp. "Come along, you youngsters!" he shouted gayly. "I've thought of something to climax this party. It's just two minutes to midnight, and I'm going to announce your engagement! Happy New Year!"

Japan Celebrates New Year's Fourteen Days

At least 14 days are needed in Japan to celebrate the coming of the new year. During the festival streets are made lively by still-walking, top-spinning or ball-playing.

While the youths are enjoying the outdoor sports, the older people write New Year's poems or play games. After two weeks of revelry the burning of decorations end the celebration.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubts that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
