Meanwhile, the Chinese Reds broadcast a demand for American ference on Germany. But it was and British officials to evacuate all their "aggressive forces" from China.

Already British warships had tached to the offer. been fired upon and it was assumed American fleet elements had fled Shanghai in order to avoid any such predicament as was experienced by the British vessels.

THE COMMUNIST threat to Shanghai was increasing hourly and despite Nationalist decision to battle to the end, it appeared the city's plight was hopeless.

Communist victory in China would put all the western nations in a ticklish position. For, with the Reds in control of all China, those who opposed communism would be helpless and hopeless in event of a western-powers move to apply economic sanctions, if such a step should be taken. If this procedure were not to be followed, the western powers would be put in the paradoxical position of recognizing and trading with proponents of an ideology with which they were struggling in a cold war.

AUTO LABOR:

Flareup Looms

The nation's coal mines didn't present the only likely flareup in labor-employe relations as bargaining time rolled around in various industries. Those who were in position to know held the opinion that it was an "uneasy peace" which hung over the automobile industry. UNION FLAREUPS had been quelled at the Packard and Ford motor companies and a temporary work stoppage had halted body production at the Briggs manufacturing company's plant.

The future of labor relations in the industry was as confused as it was uneasy. Recent action by manulacturers in cutting prices of automobiles had brought accusations from labor that the reductions were only "token" cuts, and did not represent a fair action on the part of the manufacturers.

However, with prices of other commodities beginning to spiral downward and easement of installment buying widened, it began to appear that labor would be in a vulnerable position by the time contract-signing time rolled around.

WHILE there was little in the press about the intentions of dynamic Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers' union, there was slight doubt that the ficry redhead would be in there pitching for his union members when the time came to sit down at the bargaining table.

Would labor attempt to overreach itself in bargaining or would it did, it was a new conception. Now, recognize the trend of the times and he content to hold present wasn't meant as a consumer subgains? That was the question whose sidy at all. No indeed, it was a answer would be anxiously awaited farm price support measure, aimed by the citizen who is always in the middle in such struggles-the average American consumer.

CREDIT CONTROLS:

Are Eased Again

Developments were shoving President Truman's demands for price control power further and further into the realm of absurdity.

THE FEDERAL reserve board, after looking the situation over, decided that installment buying controls could be lowered again safely. And this it did. It set out that on household appliances such as refrigerators, radios, electric washers, etc., the down payment would have to be only 10 per cent of the cost of the item, instead of the previous 15 per cent. On automobiles, the down payment remained at 30 per cent; but on autos and household appliances, too, the time of payment was extended from 21 to 24 months. THIS ACTION brought both commendation and criticism. That element in the federal government which would recoup all the wartime controls for the President, was aghast at the action, terming it dangerous. Others who had watched prices continue their downward spiral-especially merchants who were facing a buyers' market and difficulty in moving goods off sales floors-saw the action as a boon to business.

SULLIVAN:

Quits Navy Post

There was little else that John L. Sullivan, secretary of the navy, could have done but resign after the "multi-million dollar reprimand" he received from Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

SULLIVAN, as navy chief, had gone ahead with plans to construct the 65,000-ton U.S. aircraft supercarrier, the United States, despite lack of congressional authorization for the project.

made apparent overtures that It was no particular secret that never materialized to ease the abandonment of the carrier and Sullivan's resignation were all a continuing part of the apparently HOWEVER, the western powers hopeless fight to unify the nation's armed forces. The congressional had virtually accepted the Russian act calling for such a step has proposal to lift the Berlin blockade never been carried out, and the navy's attempt to go ahead with building the huge carrier without made very plain that acceptance any legal authority was another was based on the condition that example of high-handed service tactics that have tended to make unification appear impossible of realization.

DEFENSE SECRETARY Johnson, commenting on Sullivan's resignation, said, "I regret very much that my old friend and colleague . . has joined the aircraft carrier issue on personal grounds and I believe that he too will soon regret his action of today."

Will Push Sales

According to the experts, milk prices would be tumbling again this summer, but American dairymen wouldn't be cheering about it:

In fact, dairymen were getting set to launch a 1.5 million-dollar campaign to promote the sale of dairy products and, at the same time, wage war on oleomargarine.

Most dairy leaders were said to believe that a promotional campaign to boost consumption was the only way to check a nose-dive in tension. These were outlined as (1) milk and butter prices that has caught producers with their income down and their costs up.

In little more than seven months, according to a federal dairy specialist, dairy prices had dropped 33 per cent. Butter, which not long ago was at almost prohibitive prices, had dipped to the government support level. Milk prices also had been falling off a cent or two at a time on retail markets.

The federal specialist pointed out that domestic unemployment has contributed to the drop in consumption of dairy products.

FROZEN FROG:

May Yet Jump

Dr. D. L. Albasio, of Angels Camp, Calif., was keeping his entry in the annual frog jumping contest on ice-literally speaking. He has to, because his frog, Lazarus, has been frozen stiff for an estimated 1,200 years.

The physician said he found his prehistoric frog frozen deep in the ice of Dana glacier in Yosemite national park and felt confident his entry would be able to jump.

14-Year Old Heroine Presented With New 'Dream Home'

CHICAGO .- More than 2,000 persons witnessed the dedication of a new $18,000 "dream" home for Roberta Lee Mason, 14-year-old heroine who saved the lives of her four younger brothers and sisters when fire destroyed their former home three miles southeast of Des Plaines, Ill., Feb. 17.

After the dedication, about 40,-000 people from cars strung out along the highway visited the

Another message from Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin "commended not only Miss Mason for her outstanding act of heroism but also labor, management and private citizens for their unselfish efforts in making a dream literally come true. It was a great act of brotherliness and neighborliness.' Money for the home was donated from the Cook county hospital, where she is recovering from severe burns.

With shiny scissors, she cut a blue ribbon which had been stretched around the house. Then she received a gold key from Michael Sexton, president of the Chicago district council of carpenters.

On a rostrum outside the house was a forty-piece band supplied by the Chicago federation of musicians. Speakers included State's attorney John S. Boyle, Richard J. Daley, state finance director, and Mayor Martin H. Kennelly.

Except to cut the ribbon and receive the key, Roberta stayed inside the house, with her mother, Mildred, her step-father, Walter, and the children she saved-Leroy, 2; Rosemary, 10; Henry, 8, and Roberta later returned to the hospital to remain two weeks more.

In addition to the home and more than $10,000 worth of furnishings, a cash fund totalling $12,000 has been contributed.

Members of the Chicago building trades union completed the house in three weeks.

Nonogenarian Recommends Drop in Well for Ailments

WHEATLAND, OKLA.-Do you have heart trouble? A lame back? A common cold?

Then listen to Charlie Weiche. He's a Wheatland man of 90 years who says—philosophically—that he "probably" found an unscientific cure. The hard way.

Charlie fell into a well. He dropped 20 feet into eight feet of icy water. He held onto a pipe for an hour and 20 minutes before he was discovered by a 9year old neighbor.

"And," Charlie says, "It'll probably cure anything that's wrong with me."

Mrs. Weiche says "everything" includes heart trouble, a lame back, and a cold.

But Charlie does admit it was "one of the worst experiences I ever had." He figures he could have lasted about "10 or 15 minutes" more.

60-Y: Old Grandfather Wins Love of Vienna Girl

CHICAGO.—Sam Hedge, 60 year old grandfather, said he was "knocked dead for joy" when a 30 year old Viennese beauty contest winner accepted his proposal of marriage during a $25 transatlantic telephone call.

Hedge said the call to Getta Rauch was "worth a million dol-

"The first thing she said was 'Sam, I love you, I love you, I love you,'" he said. "Then England butted in. There was some wire trouble. But she said she'd marry me. I was knocked dead for joy.

Hedge became acquainted with Fraulein Rauch's family a year ago when his church gave him the name and address as persons worthy and in need. He began sending groceries and presents.

"I learned there was a girl in the family and sent her an Easter outfit," he said. "We began exchanging pictures and I fell in love with her. She speaks English but writes to me in German. A schoolteacher translates her letters for me. They're wonderful."

'Get Tough' Policy Gets Response From Lost Tot

SACRAMENTO, CALIF. - Kindness, ice cream and candy failed to draw the right words from the lost little boy.

Finally policeman Bill Wilson put on his grimmest face and said: "Now see here, wise guy, if you don't sing, I'll throw you so deep into the clink they'll have to pump the sunshine to you!"

Said the boy quickly: "I'm Dickie Sharrah, I live at 1015 Arcade blvd., and I are four years old."

All of this is a slow preamble to the fact that both baseball and golf, two playing games, are running out of kids. Both sports are looking for more of the young stars of other years—kids like Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth and Grover Alexander—or such golf kids as Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Francis Ouimet and Chick Evans who were stars at 20 and 21.

The fact is that neither baseball nor golf has the brilliant kids of 20 years ago.

Who are baseball's 1949 stars? Stan Musial, 28, Ted Williams, 30, Joe DiMaggio, 34. Lou Boudreau, 32. No kids have reported. It is the same in golf. Most of the stars include players above 31 or 32. Sammy Snead, Lloyd Mangrum,

In baseball they are paying bonuses from $50,000 to $75,000 for high-school kids who might finally be worth $2,000. Or nothing at all. You can't blame the kids, or their parents, for grabbing this sucker cash, the greatest sucker cash in the history of sports.

He was longer off the tee and he was straighter. I saw good young golfers of 27 or 30 finish well in back of stocky Gene's wallops. I spoke to Gene about this

"There isn't any question about that," Gene said, with a well-remembered half grin. "I'm hitting the ball much better than I did when I was winning championships. I am both longer and straighter. I have control over a greater number of shots.

Farm Plan Cited

SLOWLY but surely, day-by-day, the all - encompassing agricultural program of Secretary Charles F. Brannan is winning friends and influencing people.

This piece of legislation which the secretary declares involves no new concept, is the most refreshing the most challenging and the most dramatic idea which has been advanced for the benefit of agriculture in a decade. It retains price supports as the farmers' equivalent of the laboring man's minimum wage, social security and collective bargaining; it makes farm income the base on which price supports are deter-mined; it makes the parity base a 10-year period between 1939 and 1948 instead of that old out-moded base of 1909-1914; it recognizes the law of supply and demand, but also recognizes historically that it does not always work out on the agri-cultural industry; it recognizes "free enterprise," but also recog-nizes that the "free-er" it is, the more proceds It is a realistic prefarmer needs. It is a realistic program, and not a theoretic program; it recognizes, not only a duty to the farmer, but also a duty to the consumer to provide cheaper and more abundant foods; it recognizes a policy of abundant production, but points to the fact that we have just produced the largest corn crop on the second smallest acreage in history-we have just produced the largest potato crop on the smallest number of acres in 70 years. It recognizes that despite the over-all tremendous jump of farm income, the average net farm income last year was only $909 as compared to $1569 for the non-farm average, and despite the fact that the farmer received 160 percent of that theoretical parity.

Not only does the Brannan program seek to make agriculture stronger and sounder, it visualize the entire picture of agricultural life. Said Secretary Brannan:

"It would do little good to have power line to the farmstead or a hospital in the community if the crop produced will not return enough money to enable the farmer to use the available services.'

Leadership in the top farm organizations has been slow to endorse the Brannan program. Like most pieces of advanced thinking which moves forward off dead center, the program, among other things, has been called socialistic. It seems that most all liberal legislation these days is called socialistic, but insofar as this reporter is concerned, so long as no farmer sacrifices a freedom, so far as he does not lose any freedom he now has, and it is within the framework of the constitution, call it what you

"Oh, but the farmer is regicharge. And the answer is there is no regimentation that is not now already on the statute books in the form of production adjustments, marketing quotas or agreements and the carrying out of reasonable conservation practices - practices upon which the farmers vote direct-

Gist of Proposal

The Brannan program contemplates (1) effective help and higher, steadier income for the farmer and his family; (2) fairness to consumers, processors, shippers, whole-salers and all others in the distribution system; (3) efficiency of operation at a cost commensurate with benefits to the nation; (4) It must serve to aid national security, high level employment, cooperation with other nations, encouragement of free-flowing world trade. And as a political stratagem, the program, is powerful. It helps everybodymakes no one mad.

One thing is certain, the Brannan program caught the top farm leaders off base. None of them had contemplated the secretary would recommend any such program. Most believed his farm program would be a compromise somewhere between the high and low of the various price support plans. And the peculiar thing is the Brannan plan is so simple these farm leaders are figuratively kicking themselves for not thinking about it first.

At one meeting of 19 well-known agricultural leaders, all took potshots at the Brannan plan. Too costly, too idealistic, too socialistic, too this and too that. But the upshot was that 17 of the 19 said they intended to support it.

Hoey Sartorialist

The sartorical elegance of Sen. Clyde Hoey, of North Carolina, with his inevitable lapel flower, his high winged collar and swallow-tail coat, has held undisputed sway on Capitol Hill for the past five years. Now, however, a second-term congress-man, W. Kingsland Macy, of New York, has won attention, if not for elegance of attire, at least for wearing a high stiff collar, the only one in the house. And while he's a banker-broker, he's not the least stiffnecked.

Ancient Egypt is being rebuilt. These are the first pictures of the most fabulous structures in the world's history, the palatial temples, monuments to the Sun God, built by Egyptian kings and queens at Karnak on the Nile river 4,000 years ago. Destroyed by an earthquake in 27 B. C., they now are being restored into what has become the world's greatest jigsaw puzzle. Hundreds of men are putting back into place stones, columns, statues, broken noses, thumbs and feet weighing anywhere from 100 pounds to 200,000 pounds. In the above photo is the Temple of Karnak, whose impressive columns—sentinels of a world wonder-remained upright bearing the supporting stones through the centuries.

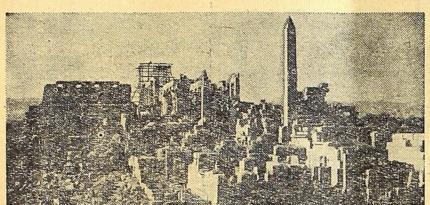

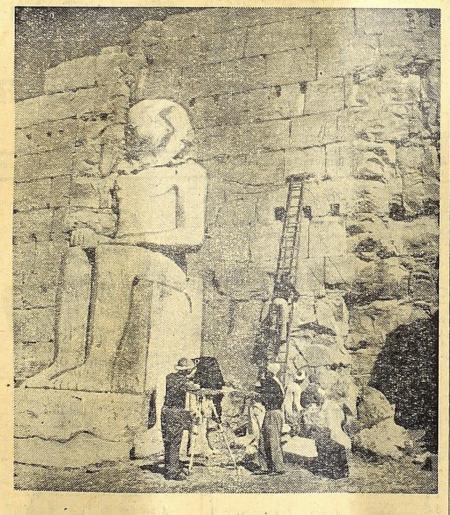

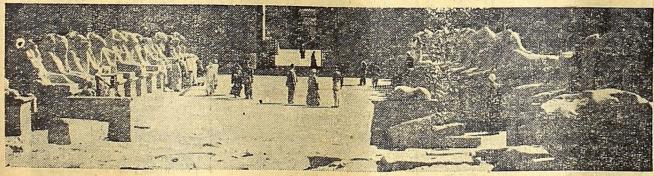

Photo at left shows 600 acres of precious granite that once formed the most fabulous temples in all history. Fifty years will be required to complete the temples destroyed by an earthquake before the Birth of Christ. Restoration is under direction of the Egyptian government's department of antiquities.

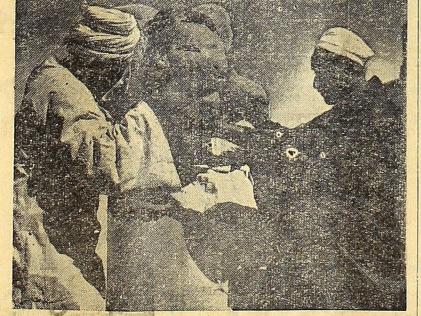

The Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, headed by Dr. Richard Parker, has the task of recording all hieroglyphics inscribed on the remaining stones (right). All inscriptions are photographed; all clues are followed up with utmost care.

Some of the separate projects involved in the restoration are well under way. The Avenue of Sphinxes (below) is almost back to its original form of massive grandeur. The avenue served as the grand entrance for Egyptian kings and queens being carried up to the temple from their Nile

Here, workers at the Temple of Karnak are leveling up the head of a ram-headed sphinx along the Avenue of Sphinxes. Breaks in the stones are matched in order to be certain that each piece is restored in its original position. How some of the gargantuan granite stones were cut, floated down the Nile and erected 4,000 years ago is still history's

Love Affects Your Tolerance

By Lawrence Gould

Does being in love make you more tolerant?

It is easy for you to "forgive" or "understand" the way the loved one behaves so long as his actions don't affect you, but if what he does reflects on you-or on your family - it is likely to be harder to excuse than the same sort of behavior in a stranger. The more you love anyone, the more you inevitably give him the power to hurt you, and the more surely you will become frightened and angry if he exercises that power in ways which you cannot control.

Will a schizophrenic get well without treatment?

Answer: It is not uncommon for a mentally sick person to have "lucid intervals" in which for some unknown reason the conflicts that cause his illness have subsided for the moment, but where the change has involved no "insight" into the source of his difficulties, the improvement is apt to be temporary and uncertain. Although there's no certainty that even this will cure him permanently every schizophrenic should have psychiatric treatment, and the earlier in his illness he is hos-In either case, the root of the pitalized, the better his chances of proposals go through.

The Federation's program calls for a series of reforms in the expenditure of state collected revenues, a more equitable distribution of funds, a classification of roads and streets according to traffic requirements and the matching of locally raised funds with state collected revenues for local roads and street

The bills also would increase the present gasoline tax from three cents per gallon to 4.3 cents. The national average is more than five cents. The weight (license plate) tax would be raised from 35 cents per hundred weigh to the less than predepression rate of 50 cents; and the weight tax on commercial vehicles would be increased by one-third.

The Federation's formula would increase all road revenues by some $30,000,000, which would be deposited in the "motor vehicle highway ited in the distributed to meet the fund" and distributed to meet the needs of the three agencies respon-

These prices feature "Extras" that arent!

IF you're price-conscious these days as you shop for new cars, you've probably made a big discovery. It's important to find out what the price includes-particularly in the normal "spread" between list and delivered prices. Take these Buick prices given here. All of them, as the panel tells you, cover such universally wanted accessories as radio and antenna, heater and defroster, windshield washers and built-in back-up lights. These are individually itemized on your bill of sale. Not itemized, but still included in your Buick when you get it, are many things that classify as extra-cost items on many other cars.

For instance, Foamtex seat cushions are an extra value on Buick SUPERS and ROAD-MASTERS that cost you nothing extra. You get direction signals, rear wheel shields, a flexible steering wheel, an air cleaner, an oil filter, a clock-all included in the basic list price. On all ROADMASTERS, these prices even cover Dynaflow Drive as standard equipment, not an extra-cost item.

Included also, of course, are such Buick extra values as Fireball power, which you get nowhere else-all-coil springing, almost an exclusive-the widest rims in the industry-and that very special and desirable solid Buick feel.

So-check the "extras" when you price today's cars. Check the "deal" too, and make sure it's as fair and aboveboard as the Buick sales policy.

We're pretty sure what your conclusion will be when you see what stepped-up production is doing to deliveries. You'll decide "Buick's the buy!"-and get your order in.

Bigger 3 Ways... DODGE gives you extra value

WIDER on the inside ... NARROWER outside! There's extra value in the spread-out elbow room of the wide, wide seats. Yet the new Dodge is smaller on the outside . . . easy to park, easy to garage, easy to thread through crowded traffic.

HIGHER on the inside...LOWER outside! More head room is another Dodge extra value you'll appreciate. Instead of low, slanting seats that force a cramped position, Dodge knee-level seats are actually higher for relaxing comfort, better vision.

LONGER on the inside . . . SHORTER outside! The new leg room in Dodge gives extra value in stretch-out comfort. Doors open wide, too . . . let you get in and out easily without squirming or twisting-and without knocking your hat off, either.

If you want extra value, you'll want DODGE!

There's extra value in Dodge beauty that flows from true functional styling . . . in the design that provides more head room, more leg room, more elbow room, greater vision for all passengers.

There's extra value in Dodge's Get-Away engine with its surging acceleration . . . its higher compression that squeezes extra miles from every gallon of gas . . . the smoothness of Dodge All-Fluid Drive at no extra cost.

Yes, you'll want Dodge for the extra value you get all the way from double-life hydraulic brakes and Safety-Rim Wheels, to the luxurious comfort of full-cradled ride and knee-level seats.

Add to these the Dodge reputation for dependability and economy and you'll discover why wise buyers say . . . "If you want extra value, you'll want Dodge."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Fashion Tips to Benefit Tall Women

By Ertta Haley

IF YOU'RE fortunate enough to be tall like many of the good models, then get rid of the slouch which you have thought would subtract inches from your height. Don't use a lot of fuss and detail in your dress in the hope that it will make people forget you're tall.

That's the consensus from experts to the tall girl. The girl with height can wear clothes beautifully and look elegant. When properly groomed, she can be the envy of her shorter sisters.

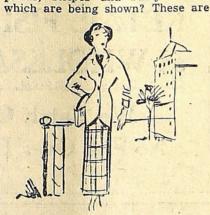

Contrasting colors and horizontal lines are recommended for tall girls, but if this same girl has a lovely slender figure, she is told to emphasize her lines by repeating in dress. This, too, is good advice because whatever the asset it should be brought out with proper wearing apparel.

However, if the tall girl has a thin angular face and figure she should use horizontal lines to play down the poor points. For example, don't expose the forehead with a tall hat that sits on the back of the head. Select a wide-brimmed hat which covers the forehead and at the same time gives a horizontal Never repeat angularity with vertical, straight or droopy lines. They'll only succeed in making you look ungainly.

Have you noticed the wealth of plaids, stripes and bulky tweeds

Tall girls need color contrast for the tall girl. The same is true of those big picture hats with large brims, weighted with large, fluffy flowers.

Feminine Silhouette Best for Tall Girl

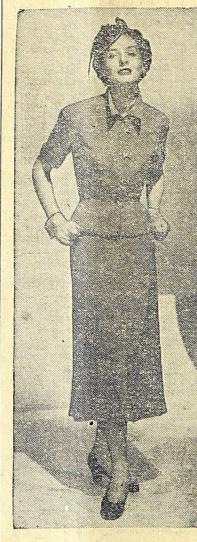

The tall girl should take a critical look at herself when choosing coats. Although she should avoid frills and fuss, she must also avoid being too masculine in her choice of clothes. Masculine clothes are too angular for her, and such details as sharp quills on hats only emphasize the angles she already has. Soft, draped lines are best. The fitted or belted coats now being shown are ideal for the tall figure. For a sport coat, choose the same basic lines, and add to it the wide revers and saddle pockets.

Wide belts help materially in breaking up any too-vertical lines. Capes, too, are for tall figures because they have the height to carry them. They have the softness and curves which the tall, thin girl needs.

Avoid Tuck-In Blouse

If You are Tall The long torso blouse is perfect for the tall girl. The brief sweater or the tuck-in, high-waist skirts should be avoided. If you are angular, wear the large ruff that comes with so many new blouses. If you are slim and tall, wear the large bows. If you are tall and heavy, wear the slimming revers. Round-shouldered girls should not wear the round drawstring neck-line for it simply accentuates the stoop. Keep the neckline flat in the back and wear a bolero whenever possible. Tall girls should not wear the tight narrow skirts. They simply emphasize height. The droopy look, too, is to be avoided. Use draped skirts, snappy pleated ones or those with the peg pockets that give a suggestive horizontal line. Tall slim girls would do well to choose swim suits with shirring

Be Smart!

If your dresses are of the very pretty, feminine variety, you'll want to choose the ultrafeminine in footwear. This may mean a lovely lattice-work of straps and buttons or a dainty cut-out pattern of scroll work. This is a good type for early as well as late summer because it adds a suggestion of formality to the costume. Polished leathers in colors as well as many blond hues are vying for attention. Reptiles, too, have taken to color in a magnificent manner all their own.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Living Can Be Made Exciting

By KATHLEEN NORRIS MOST OF US like sensation. In the singular, I mean; sensations in the plural we, of course, experience all day and every day. Heat, cold, fear, pleasure, fatigue, boredom--these sensations are no surprise.

But "a sensation," all by itself, stands for something more. We love to say, "Wasn't Mona's marriage a sensation?" or, "Lily in that hat was a positive sensation yesterday."

Thousands, even millions of women, ploughing patiently and alone through their housework six mornings a week, and without much change or excitement ahead on the seventh morning, would be delighted if a sensation came along now and then.

For instance, a telephone call from Joe, at the office; "Sally, could you and the kid meet me at the Union Station at noon? I can't talk now, but it's important. Pack man. We'll be gone some time." Another "Sensation" Or a stranger at the door. "May

Judgment Day

Lesson for May 15, 1949

FORTY DIFFERENT Christian denominations sponsor this column, although it goes without saying that not all of the millions of Christians in those denominations would agree point for point with everything that is said here. Now if the reader could interview one leading Bible expert from each of these denominations, and ask each one Dr. Foreman the same question:

'In your personal opinion, exactly what is the meaning of Mark 13?"
you might not get 40 different answers, but you certainly would get more than one.

There is no chapter in the Bible that has been the subject of more arguments than this one, ond no arguments have ever been more useless than these.

Leaving extreme views aside, let us try to discover some meanings which all 40 denominations would find in this chapter, some truths on which all reasonable Christians can agree.

A Certain Fact

IN JESUS' view one thing is certain: God's judgment on this world and on all persons in it. Christian churches have different ideas about what happens after death. We have different ideas about how the judgment is to be carried out, or where it will be held, or when. But that every man will have to give account of himself before God is something Christians believe.

Your true unbeliever is not the person who goes around saying there is no God. A more subtle and dangerous form of unbelief is in the person who takes the Christian creed upon his lips but lives as if the creed were a lie.

He repeats the Apostles' Creed: 'From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead." If those words are sincerely spoken, the believer will honestly try to please God obove all others. But the unbeliever, whatever his words may say, shows that he does not believe by the fact that he tries to please, first of all, either himself or his family or his neighbors, and not God above all.

An Uncertain Time

IT IS ONLY children who think that if something doesn't happen Now, it will never happen. Now and never are not the only times on God's clock. When will the judgment be? The disciples wanted to know, but Jesus did not tell them He did not claim to know, himself, when it would be (Mark 13:32.) What he did say was, Watch! There is a sense in which God's judgments are going on all the time. The end of your world will come in your own lifetime, whoever you are; for there is not much difference whether the world folds up and leaves you or whether you fold up and leave the world.

Death is the end of the world for every one who dies. Further, whenever a person suffers by and because of his own wrong-doing, here in this life and on this earth, God is judging him by the eternal moral laws which are the very warp and filling of the fabric of life.

There is also a sense in which God judges societies and nations. We have recently seen how terrible a judgment Germany drew down on its head. The nation that takes the sword shall perish by the sword. The nation that sets out to enslave others by force will come under the same death-sentence that cut down Assyria and Rome and Japan and Germany. But not all God's judgments are on this earth. "God does not settle all his accounts in October." There is a final accounting, and no man, in this life or any other, can escape that solemn meeting with God.

The Only Judge

TWO THINGS are sure. One is that the only true judge of any man is God. The man himself is partial, his friends are partial, his enemies are prejudiced against him. Further, no one knows all the facts but God. Only God knows what a man's motives are; only God can trace to their final end oll the consequenses that flow from a man's act.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE by Roger C. Whitman

Linoleum Over Sub-Floor

Question: Can rubber tiling or linoleum be laid over just a subflooring and must it be perfectly

Answer: Sub-flooring is usually very rough, and frequently it is put down with open spaces between the boards. A floor of this type is not suitable as a base for rubber tile, linoleum or any other type of floor covering. For best results a sheet of plywood or a hard fibreboard should be put down over the rough flooring to provide a smooth, rigid base for the floor covering.

Worn-Off Chromium Plating

Question: The rungs of my chromium kitchen chairs have become rusted. Is there any way I can clean them?

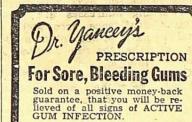

Answer: The best thing to do with worn-off chromium plating is to have it re-plated. If you can get the chairs to a neighborhood plating shop, you could have this work done. It would improve the appearance of the chairs very much. Cleaning off the rust can be done, but it will not restore the original appearance of the chairs. You can soften the rust with a rust - removing preparation, on sale in many auto accessories stores.

'Rolling Stones' Sure of Getting Mail at Lew's

SEATTLE, WASH. - The only privately owned and operated post office in the United States began its 40th year on Seattle's 3rd av. with more than 700 seafarers and rolling stones of every profession on its

The proprietor, Lew Chlarson, a retired contractor, isn't exactly competing with the United States post office. He uses United States stamps and gets three deliveries a day from a standard mailman in his cubicle lined office at the back end of Raymer's old bookstore.

"It's a post office with a personal touch," Chlarson says.

The forwarding mail service for travelers was started in 1909 by Charles Raymer, who up to that time had made a good thing of selling books on prospecting to miners bound for Alaska an manuals on fancy rope work to sailors on shore leave.

Work Became Sideline

A friend stopped in at the store one day to ask Raymer to handle his mail while he was in Alaska during the salmon season. The word was passed along and Raymer was soon licking stamps by the gross, with book selling coming in as a Lew Chlarson bought the bookstere and post office from Raymer's heirs and put his wife in charge of the book department. With the old rate of $3 per box per pear, Chlarson says he's not getting rich fast, but he maintains that there is a certain fascination in figuring postal rates to far away places. Among other remote spots, he now has customers holed up in Wee Waa, New South Wales, Medina, Saudi Arabia and Santiago, Chile.

If a box holder doesn't send in a forwarding address for a year or so, Chlarson piles the overflow accumulation in the basement. He has learned from experience not to give up any of his customers for dead.

Lost Two Got Mail

A few months after V-J day, three seamen who had been listed as missing in action by the maritime service showed up to claim their mail and got it. The trio had been in a Japanese prison camp for most of the war.

Some customers have held the same box for over 35 years, but box 13 changes hads every few months, Chlarson says.

Forwarding addresses are kept in strict confidence according to postal regulations, but Chlarson admits sadly that the rule has ended many a romance.

"Girls come in here quite a bit to find out where their sailors have gone. All I can do is tell them to write him a letter in care of the wanderers' mail service.'

After observing the trend back over the years, Chlarson concludes that "more and more people are going farther and farther away from home today.

Railroad Stops Big Train To Give Cat to Young Girl

OXFORD, LA .- A railroad stopped its passenger train at this little Louisiana town to give a girl a tomcat. The girl had baked a cake for the railroad.

The cat went to 13-year-old Marlene Wendt, replacing one which was killed by a Texas & Pacific locomotive.

The presentation was made by the engineer of the train which ran over Marlene's dead pet. Other railroaders were present.

Marlene invited the railroad men to the store owned by her father, W. H. Wendt, to try a cake with chocolate icing she had baked.

"I like the cat," said Marlene.
"He looks just like Cinder, my other cat. I'm going to name him T&P."

The girl wrote the Texas & Pacific railroad saying: "Dear sir: My cat was killed by one of your engines. He was a black cat named Cinder. I would appreciate another cat." The railroad thought that one that you have a cat to replace Cinder," the line wrote to Marlene. Employes of the railroad scur-ried around to find a cat to suit Marlene. "Cinder didn't have any white whatsoever," she had said in a second letter. "Cinder was a big pet. I mean you could pick him up any time and pet him.

The railroad finally found a suitable animal and arranged for a train to stop here for presentation ceremonies.

Keep Worries to Yourself; They're Catching, Says Doc

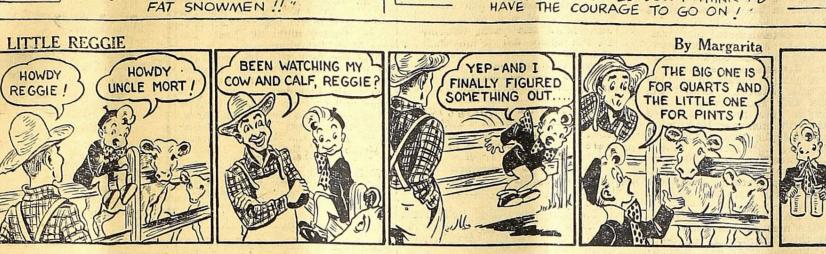

CHICAGO. — Blues are catching. That's what a Washington psychiatrist, Dr. Benjamin Karpman says. He declared that emotional tension is "something we catch," like measles, from other people.

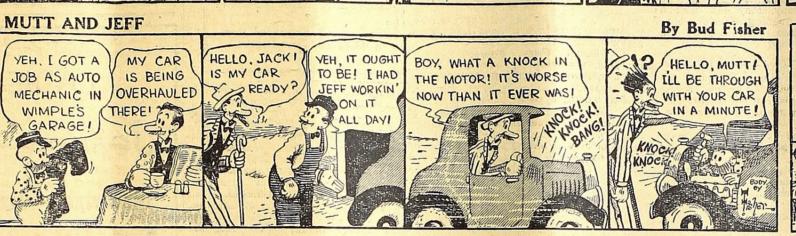

Many people, he said, driven into anxieties, depressions or other unbearable states of tension," by behavior in others.

"That," he added, "is one of the reasons why we so readily succumb to war propaganda."
