Tawas City Splits Week End Games

Local Team Plays At Alabaster Sunday Afternoon

Over a sizzling Fourth of July week-end, two sizzling hot games were played at the local athletic field. In a NEM league game Sunday, Tawas City won from Hale in a 12 inning pitcher's duel, 1 to 0. And on Monday, July 4th, in another blazing game, the locals were downed by Whittemore, 2 to 1.

The Sunday game saw Tawas City's Bob Rollin and Hale's Grant Shellenbarger hooked up in a pitchers duel, which wasn't decided until one was out in the twelfth inning. First up, Libka walked; Staudacher singled, Libka going to third; Staudacher stole second; Bublitz grounded out to the pitcher; and Libka scored the only run of the game, when the second baseman booted Wegner's grounder.

Both pitcher allowed five hits, Rollin striking out six, and walked two; Shellenbarger struck out eight and walked one. The only extra base knock was a two bagger by Libka in the seventh inning. Two errors were chalked up against the locals, while the Hale men committed five miscues.

Dale Landon, Tawas right-fielder, had a busy day, with three put-outs and three assists. He caught three flies and threw men out at first, second and home for his three assists.

In another close and fast moving game, Monday, July 4th, the locals dropped a close 2 to 1 decision to Whittemore. Reg. Bublitz was on the mound for the locals and Barr for Whittemore. Bublitz allowed nine hits, struck out eight and walked two. Barr gave up five hits, struck out eleven and walked two.

Tawas City scored the first and their only run in the second on singles by Bublitz and R. Landon and scored on Case's grounder to second.

Whittemore scored a run in the fifth when Brigham reached first on an error, and consecutive hits by DeLosh and Warner. They scored another run in the sixth on a single by Newvine, Mandock sacrificed, and a single by Brigham sent Newvine across with the winning run.

'Lucky Junior' at Bay Theatre July 10-11

There's a picture coming to the Bay Theatre, Tawas City July 10-11, which deals with the most important thing in your life—health! 'Lucky Junior' is the picture, and it was produced under the sponsorship of the Michigan State Medical Society for the people of Michigan.

'Lucky Junior' was chosen as the title for this ten minute educational film because it is designed to show the safeguards available to the child of today which are far superior to those of yesterday.

The picture deals with the thoughts of a doctor who has just delivered his 2,000th baby. He recalls how he delivered this child's father twenty-five years ago, and thinks how much better chance this baby has to grow up to a healthy manhood than his father had.

As the doctor recounts to himself the advantages which today's child enjoys the picture illustrates modern protective measures—the up-to-date hospital, protection by immunization against such deadly diseases as whooping cough, diptheria, and tetanus, and services as the Disease Control programs, etc.

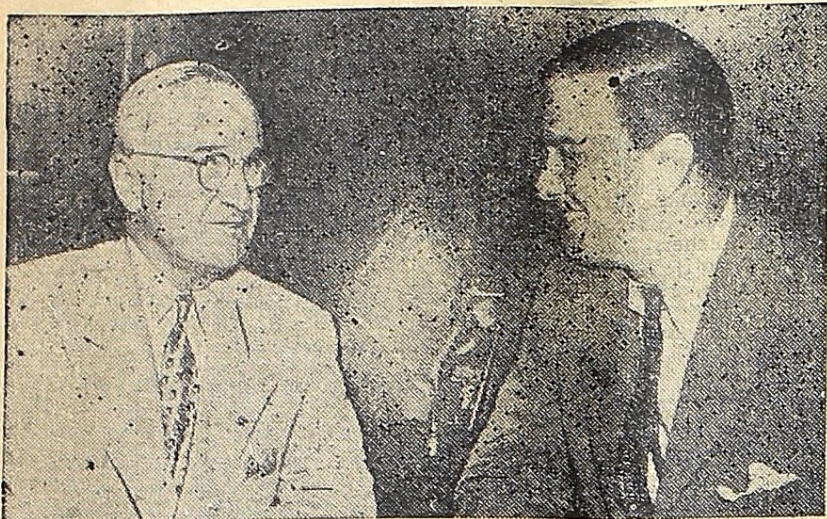

You'd be surprised at the statistics, and the picture may cause you to take action which will save the life of your child.

Mrs. Archie McCardell and children, Joe and Jo Ann spent a few days the past week with Mrs. Rose Watts. Guests the past week end of Mrs. Rose Watts and Mrs. Rollie Gackstetter were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hansen and daughters, Lola Gay and Avis from Gaylord.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Wants Welfare Department; Veterans Will Get NSLI Dividends; Big Four Agree on Austrian Pact

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

ROOSEVELT CHATS WITH TRUMAN... Another Roosevelt, Franklin D. Jr., chats in the White House with President Truman. The meeting occurred shortly after young Roosevelt was sworn in as congressman from the 20th New York district, replacing the late Sol Bloom. F. D. R. Jr., made it plain he is a Democrat and a member of Mr. Truman's "team."

WELFARE: More for Less

Signing into law a bill to reorganize the federal government, President Truman offered a major proposal. He wants a new department of welfare created with its chief officer given full cabinet rank. THE IDEA is not a completely new one. It was heard frequently during the early days of the Rooseveltian era, much oftener during the latter years of F. D. R.'s regime. While this proposition commanded chief attention of the nation's press, the President offered six other streamlining plans aimed at giving the taxpayers better service for less money. These included:

Transfer of the U.S. employment and unemployment compensation offices to the labor department.

PLACING of the two key defense agencies — national security council and national security and resources board — directly in the President's office.

Tightening up administration of the post office department, maritime commission and civil service commission.

Transfer of the public roads administration to the commerce department.

The President said the plans, which followed closely several major recommendations of the Hoover commission on government reorganization, will not "automatically" produce efficiency and cut spending. BUT HE SAID they open the door to improvements that will make the government "more vigorous" and operate more smoothly at a lower cost "over a period of time."

No one expected any reduction in federal spending, and the President's conclusions might be construed as a preliminary defense set-up for continued federal outlay at the present, or an increased level, despite the Hoover commission recommendations and the President's own seven-point manifesto.

VETERANS: Get Good News

Veterans of World War II were all set for a surprise bonanza.

The Veterans' administration announced in Washington that cash refunds totaling 2.8 billion dollars will begin for them about next January — that is, for all GI's who took out national service life insurance during the war. These were estimated to number some 16 million.

Under the new payments, announced by the VA, each ex-serviceman or his heirs would receive an average of $175 from life insurance dividends. Described as a "dividend" the money is to be repaid from two sources:

1. An eight billion dollar surplus which developed from the fact that G.I. insurance premiums were based by law on a standard mortality (death) rate table which turned out to be higher than needed.

2. Earnings from the surplus. In general, it was explained, every veteran who took out national service insurance and kept it in force at least three months will be eligible — provided the policies were not issued after January 1, 1948. No refunds are to be made on policies issued after that date.

MEANWHILE, government officials saw in the insurance dividend payments a timely "shot in the arm" for business in 1950 which

LONG SEARCH SEEN ENDED

Chlorophyll in Toothpaste Fights Decay

A new toothpaste containing chlorophyll may be the answer to the long-time search for a preventive for tooth decay. Use of chlorophyll in the new product was announced by Dr. Gustav W. Rapp, professor and research biochemist of Loyola university's dental school, and his assistant, B. F. Gurney. The new paste acts to do away with all of the conditions generally

White House Repairs Still a Question

It appeared that all the commotion about repairs to the White House wasn't quite over, although congress approved and sent to the President a money bill carrying funds for work on the White House. The money was included in a measure calling for expenditure of 671 million dollars for various government obligations.

THE HOUSE, which had passed the bill earlier, accepted a one-word amendment approved by the senate. The change would put it up to a special six-man commission whether a separate residence should be built for the first family, in addition to the job on the White House itself.

GERMANY: Partial Accord

The four-week conference of the council of foreign ministers of the four major powers had ended with partial accord having been reached. The western powers and Russia cleared away obstacles to an Austrian independence treaty and agreed to try to get along a little better in Germany.

THE RUSSIANS, however, were in there pitching right up to the final moments of the parley. The conference ended in a flurry of excitement as Russia sought unsuccessfully to make a last minute change in the announcement of the meeting's results. The Reds had promised not to reimpose a blockade on Berlin in return for efforts to revive east-west trade in Germany. This was contained in a six-point statement of principle by the Big Four to guide negotiations in Germany.

The Russians were supported in their 150 million dollar claim on Austria for German assets, and swung an uppercut at Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito by dropping their support of Yugoslavian claims on Austria. These were the points which cleared the way for an Austrian treaty which has been ordered for presentation by September 1.

DESPITE the improvement in east-west relations growing out of the conference, American spokesmen were not optimistic in evaluating results. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson had no immediate comment.

Work on the Austrian treaty, however, was termed a "substantial step" forward and of no little importance because it would free Austria and push Soviet troops farther back into eastern Europe.

It was felt that ground had been neither gained nor lost in Germany.

should serve to stimulate sales. They recalled that the terminal-leave payoff of some two billion dollars in 1947 provided a sizeable such stimulus for the nation's business.

The plan to start the checks rolling in January brought vigorous criticism on Capitol Hill as Representative Keating (R., N. Y.) demanded that congress set October 15 as the deadline. He introduced a bill to hurry the dividend payments to that date. He declared that the government had "overcharged" veterans on their life insurance, and that the money should be refunded "immediately, not a year from now."

MEANWHILE, government officials saw in the insurance dividend payments a timely "shot in the arm" for business in 1950 which

'UNIVERSAL MAN':

Johann von Goethe

From every state in the union and from many foreign lands, distinguished visitors are pouring into the historic little frontier town of Aspen, Colo., to pay honor to a man born 200 years ago.

The Goethe Bicentennial Convocation and Music Festival (June 27-July 16) is presenting an imposing roster of thinkers, writers, statesmen, philosophers, educators and musicians who will seek to re-examine and re-interpret the works and philosophy of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, the Universal Man, as it pertains to the atomic age.

HEADING the impressive list of lecturers is Albert Schweitzer, of French Equatorial Africa — philosopher, doctor, musician, theologian — acknowledged throughout the civilized world as the foremost modern disciple of Goethe.

The music festival, running in conjunction with the convocation, will feature compositions based on Goethe's works, monumental music of equal stature to Goethe, and music contemporary to him and known to have been inspirational to him.

LABOR: Bad Timing?

Was the postwar buggy ride of consumer demand and increasingly higher wages really over?

The Ford motor company thought so and said so.

CONFRONTED with a list of demands by the united automobile workers union, the company made a significant counter-proposal. Instead of pay raises and pension, health and welfare plans as drafted by the union, the company proposed to peg wages where they are for another 18 months.

Such action, said the company, would "set a stabilization pattern for the entire (national) economy at this critical time."

THE UNION, among other things, has demanded that wages be pegged to the cost of living.

Pointing out that the cost of living is down and that the market for cars might drop up to 32 per cent after this year, the company declared flatly that it would reject any change in the work contract which would mean higher labor costs — whether in the form of wage increases or pension or welfare funds.

THUS the issue was hastening to a showdown. Could industry stand firm against another round of wage increases, or would labor with its organized power so stifle industry that capitulation would be inevitable?

Indicted

There was much of mystery and charge and counter-charge in the events out of which grew the federal indictment of Preston Tucker (above). Tucker and five others were indicted by the government on charges of mail fraud, conspiracy in violations of the securities and exchange act. Tucker has retaliated with charges that the securities and exchange commission has made it impossible to continue production of the Tucker car, which was to be powered with a motor in the rear.

RED HUNT: Harvard Cool

Harvard, the nation's oldest university, was having nothing to do with any Communist-hunting.

There was a reason, officials said. They felt that to do so might be a danger to the university's freedom and to its academic integrity. AND, Harvard held, American freedom is the school's "true glory," as it once told a man who tried to "buy" it for 10 million dollars.

The Harvard policy statement in connection with Communist-hunting activities was put this way: "There will be no harassment of professors for engaging in open and legal meetings. There will be no apparatus of inquiry and 'closer watch'."

"The harm done by the effort necessary to discover even a single clandestine party (Communist) member would outweigh any possible benefit."

PROMISES: Made for Housing

House Republicans indicated they were tired of the federal housing wrangle. So, they promised, they'd introduce a housing bill to substitute for the administration's program.

It was said to include a plan for privately-owned homes and some low-rent property. In fact, the substitute measure would embody most of the administration's slum-clearance ideas.

UN CHAPEL WILL HAVE NO ALTAR...

'Divers Are the Ways to Approach God'

By H. I. PHILLIPS

'DIVERS ARE THE WAYS...'

"The chapel of prayer in the new United Nations headquarters will have no altar or windows. A shaft of sunlight will come through the roof. A huge marble slab, memorializing the war dead, will be the only object in the simple, cylindrical structure." — News Item.

No altar. . . .

No stained-glass windows. . . . No man of Sorrows with His example of love, sacrifice, sorrow and ultimate victory that has stirred millions through the centuries. . . .

Just a shaft of sunlight beating in from above to symbolize hope, truth and an omnipotent power. . . .

Yet here can be the Universal Temple, the Cathedral of the Earth, the Prayer Room of All Races, Creeds and Sects, all communing with a Supreme Being in the realization that without it they are as video puppets!

A shaft of sunlight! Nothing more! Yet in it the Christian, Jew, Confucianist, Buddhist, Mohammedist and Zoroastrianist may know the mysteries of faith, see the holy of holies and seek the inspiration and guidance desired by all men.

In it, the Christian will see the manger at Bethlehem, hear "Holy Night," perceive the shepherds watching their flocks by night. . . . know the cleansing beauty of the Sermon on the Mount. . . . feel the horror of Golgotha. . . . thrill to the Resurrection morn!

Here may the Jew commune with Moses and his ancient prophets, the Turk turn to Mohammed and the Indian seek guidance from his separate gods. In this simple chamber may all hear the timeless voice!

May this be a "room at the inn," a manger, a temple and a mosque, breathing the true essence of divinity.

Here may troubled men, charged with a great duty in an hour of frightful peril, subscribe to the words of Sri Ramakrishna:

"As one can ascend to the top of a house by means of a ladder, a bamboo, a staircase or a rope, so divers are the ways to approach God, and every religion in the world shows these ways. Different are the ways that lead to the Temple of Kalighat; similarly varied are those that lead to the House of the Lord."

"There will be no windows. . . . Yet on these walls and in these shadows may men of all faiths find truth, charity, brotherly love and respect for the eternal verities.

Here, denied all symbols, may they hear the flutter of wings, stir to distant trumpets, and mark, "Thou shalt not kill" in a dozen tongues.

"A marble slab will be the only object in the room. . . ."

In it may the envoys see the devotion of the gallant dead, the sufferings of the widow and orphan.

May its rugged simplicity picture the kid in the sandlots suddenly defending a bloody barricade and echo the schoolgirl's laughter suddenly changed to words of comfort in a field hospital.

This is the indispensable structure, the all-important chamber. This is the simple, unadorned place without which all the elaborated council chambers will be as a field without sun or rain.

This is the cornerstone!

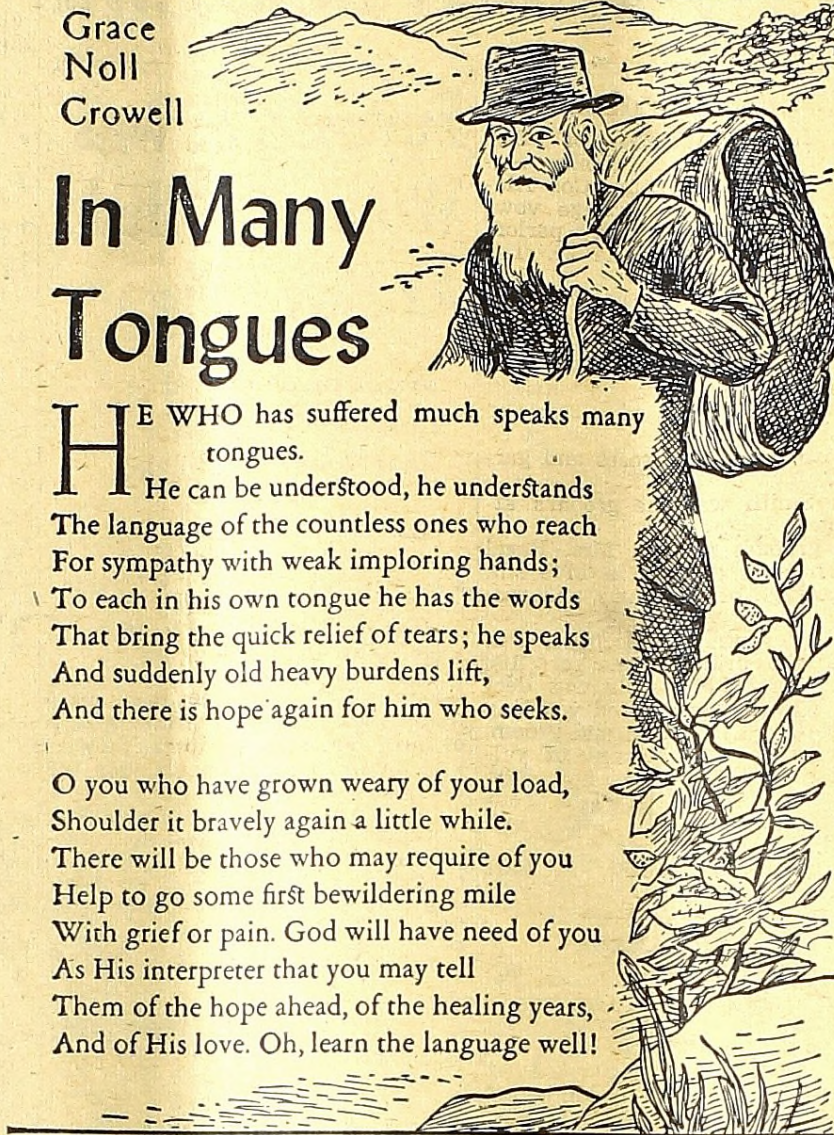

GUFF STUFF

"The President insists that congress has flagrantly ignored the November mandate of the voters." — News item. . . . That ol' Forgotten Mandate, ag'in.

It seems only yesterday that a channel swimmer was somebody in the water, not somebody shifting the television stations.

Ye Gaiham Bugle

One of the most perfect video skits we've seen was a recent one by Boris Karloff which opened with a three-quarters close-up of him in his most terrifying form. He was wielding a hatchet and exclaiming, "Remember, you must strike straight and hard! You must strike often! And you mustn't miss a single stroke. . . . In the surprise finish, he was revealed as a scoutmaster instructing Boy Scouts on woodmanship.

In Many Tongues

HE WHO has suffered much speaks many tongues.

He can be understood, he understands The language of the countless ones who reach For sympathy with weak imploring hands; To each in his own tongue he has the words That bring the quick relief of tears; he speaks And suddenly old heavy burdens lift, And there is hope again for him who seeks.

O you who have grown weary of your load, Shoulder it bravely again a little while. There will be those who may require of you Help to go some first bewildering mile With grief or pain. God will have need of you As His interpreter that you may tell Them of the hope ahead, of the healing years, And of His love. Oh, learn the language well!

course she is exceptional as the only child in America who has her own network show. But what makes all she does especially remarkable and courageous is the fact that charming little Betty has been totally blind since birth.

The harpsichord which Eugene Ormandy bought in Vienna for Dr. Frank Black, conductor of "Harvest of Stars," with James Melton, couldn't get used to New York weather. Went out of commission and spent a year being repaired.

"The Adventures of Sam Spade" moves to NBC in September (same time, same star, Howard Duff) after being heard on CBS since September of 1946. Before that the show had put in a couple of months on ABC.

Stacey Harris, radio actor, will make his screen debut in "Postal Inspector." Harris started his acting career with Burt Lancaster on the Broadway stage, then turned to radio when Lancaster turned to Hollywood.

William Bendix finally had to wear make-up in "The Big Steal." On location in Mexico he picked up such a deep tan that his face had to be lighted to the shade it was in the scenes filmed earlier in Hollywood.

The Fiction Corner

IT WAS ETHAN PRYOR'S laughter that first attracted Abigail to him. When Ethan laughed every one else laughed. The sound had that mirthful, appealing quality that was infectious. It was good to hear. It gave you a feeling of well-being.

This all happened in 1929, when Ethan's retail antique business was netting him $15,000 a year. It was easy to laugh then. They were a jolly couple.

In 1931 Ethan's retail antique business dropped off from one-half its top amount to one-third, then to one-quarter.

That year passed and the next. The Pryors didn't find it so easy to laugh. They gave up their seven-room apartment and moved into a less expensive one.

In January of 1934 they moved to a single room in an unfashionable part of the city. Ethan was barely making enough to keep them from starving.

Abigail hunted for a week and eventually won for herself a job. It wasn't much of a job. She sat behind a glass window all afternoon and evening selling tickets for a stock company performance. The stock company wasn't doing so well. It looked as though it might fold up any day. But it paid $15 a week and would have to do until she could get something better.

Inspired, a little ashamed, Ethan went job hunting himself. He hunted a week, two weeks, without success. He began to brood. Abigail did her best to cheer him up, to get him into a happy frame of mind.

"Let's hear the old laugh ring out, darling. A pleasant frame of mind is half the battle." She sat on the arm of his chair. "Tell you what. Let's celebrate. Let's take $5 and go down to Tony's. We can have a gay time for a change."

THEY WENT to Tony's. They drank wine and ate a big dinner. They danced. They sat and watched the floor show. It wasn't a bad floor show. Among other things there was a comedian. The comedian was sad. He wasn't funny. But Abigail laughed. She laughed as though she thought he was tremendously funny.

Ethan looked at her. A fond light came into his eyes. She was trying to be gay. She was doing all she could to bolster up his spirits. He could at least help.

Ethan laughed. It was the old time, mirthful, appealing laughter. It rolled out and filled the room. Others heard it. Others laughed. They couldn't help it. They laughed with Ethan. The comedian was inspired.

After the show a man came up and sat down at Ethan's and Abigail's table. Abigail introduced him as the owner of the stock company show where she sold tickets. His name was Jones.

"Listen," said Mr. Jones. "We'll pay you $5 a night to come and laugh at our show. It's supposed to be a funny show. You can put it across."

Ethan scratched his chin. He looked at Abigail. He said: "Well, I dunno. For $40 a week I might consider it."

"Sold!" said Mr. Jones. Ethan looked at his wife when he got home. "You planned it!" he accused.

"Sure," said Abigail. "When you have something it should be cashed in on. You can laugh your way to riches, my dear."

Times were getting better. People were buying antiques. By the beginning of 1936 he was doing quite well. That summer he enlarged his shop.

"Well," said Abigail, happily, "I guess we laughed our way through that depression all right."

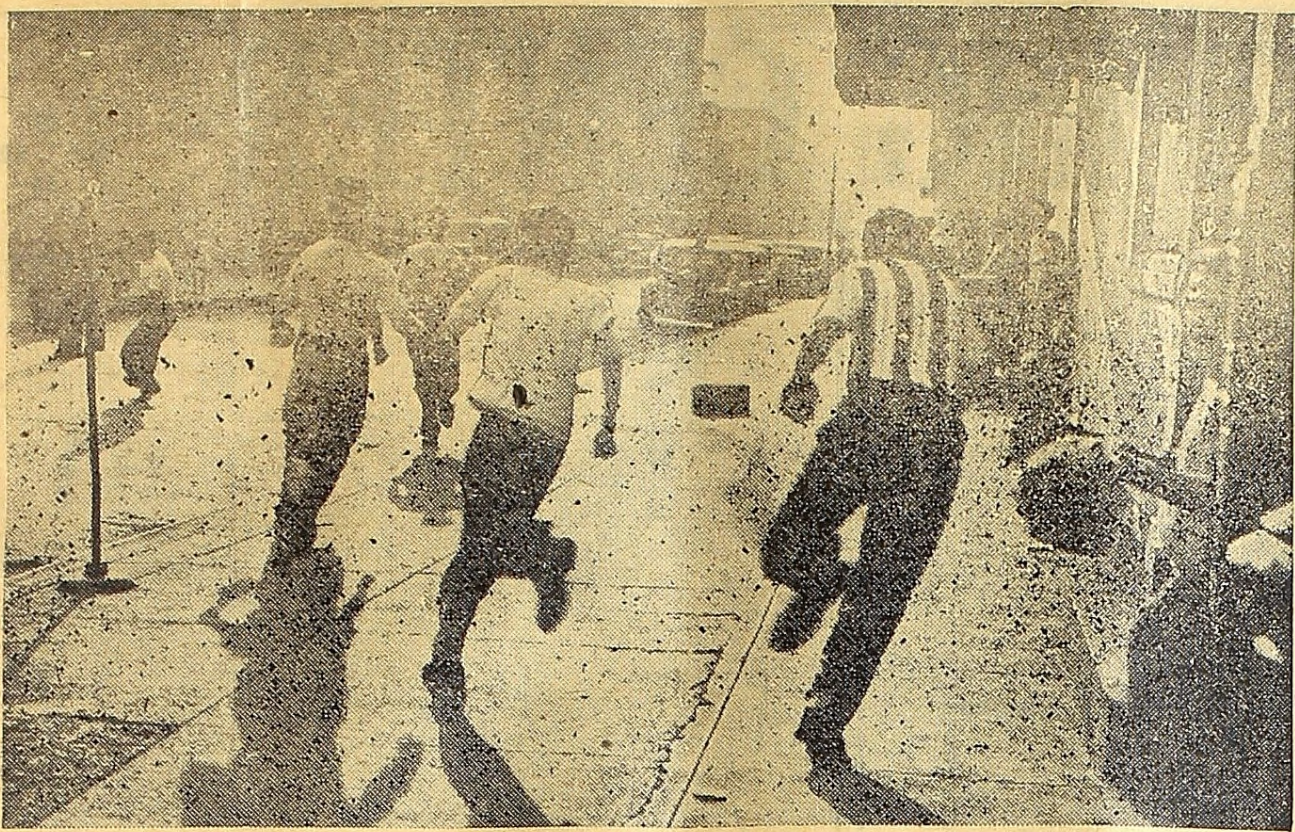

Ethan kissed her. Then he threw back his head and began to laugh. He laughed loud and long. "There!" he said. "That laugh isn't going to cost any one a cent. From now on I laugh because I want to and free of charge. Honey, I love you."

"Ditto," said Abigail.

DRAMA ERUPTS IN BIG-CITY BATTLE . . . With the enemy on the run, members of battling factions race through the streets of New York's Harlem section. Armed with rocks and sticks, they pursue the "enemy." A man at left scrambles out of the way of the violence that impends. A cameraman who happened to be on hand, snapped this "front line" photograph as the small-scale war broke out between rival factions of youths and men in teeming tenement streets. The fight, allegedly between Spaniards and Puerto Ricans, started at a swimming pool and quickly boiled over into adjoining streets.

CONEY ISLAND "BURIED" IN PEOPLE . . . Like a gigantic ant colony, with the tower of the "parachute jump" thrill ride as its core, New York's Coney Island teems with thousands of Gothamites seeking relief from Manhattan's torrid streets and canyons. The sands are literally buried in people as blue skies and soaring mercury brings them out to the tune of almost 800,000 to take advantage of the cooling ocean breezes and water. The heat wave which sent these throngs flocking to the beach had hit a peak of 89 and was only .8 degrees off the city record of 89.8 set in 1933.

NOW LADY LIBERTY HAS SEEN EVERYTHING . . . It was the ghost from an evil past that glided into New York harbor recently. When he was plotting world conquest, Adolf Hitler often must have had a notion that some day he would sail into New York harbor on his palatial yacht "Grille." Well, half of the notion came true, anyway. Here is the "Grille," from whose deck Nazi Admiral Doenitz broadcast the news of Hitler's death. The vessel passed the Statue of Liberty, not as the carrier of a conqueror but only as a reminder that the would-be conqueror is gone. Present owner of the yacht, George Arida, will put the craft on exhibition here for various charities.

WORKING IN THE SALT MINES . . . The Dominican Republic's biggest salt mine is Las Salinas (The Salts) in Barahona province. It penetrates Salt Hill, a peak of almost pure salt extending for a length of 10 miles and towering 1,100 feet. It is estimated to hold some 75 million tons. Salt can be extracted in 50-pound chunks that are 90 per cent pure. Photo shows workmen removing some of the salt from the mine in barrows. Since the Dominican Republic has set in motion a plan to raise the output of salt from Barahona province mines to 200,000 tons annually, Salt Hill has assumed a major degree of importance in the country's economy.

Marching Songs
Lesson for July 10, 1949

WE did not win all the battles we fought with Japan. The day of a certain naval defeat near the Philippines, an American "baby" carrier, left to its fate, was doing its best to get away from the pursuing Japanese. All afternoon it dodged and twisted. Enemy destroyers and planes were hot on its trail, and it was a "sitting duck" in case they really got the range. No one on board expected to live. The only question in anybody's mind was: How soon will they get us? But late in the afternoon, for some reason never explained, the enemy gave up the chase, and the American ship slipped off into the protecting night. The next day, as the men gathered for a special service of thanksgiving, the chaplain read the 124th Psalm. It came as a new Psalm altogether to those men, even to those who had known it by heart:

"If it had not been the Lord who was on our side, when men rose up against us, then they had swallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled against us; then the . . . proud waters had gone over our soul. Blessed be the Lord, who hath not given us as a prey to their teeth."

"Let Me Write A Nation's Songs"

THE POWER to thrill has not been lost by the Psalms, as the men on that carrier found out. The group numbered 120 through 134 in our Bibles are known as the "Pilgrim Marching Songs," and were originally used by the Hebrews as they went year by year up to their capital city of Jerusalem and to the Temple which was the center of their religion. Then as now, the Hebrews were a singing people. A nation that cannot sing, a nation without songs, is a dismal country indeed.

Difference among various countries is symbolized by their songs, or the lack of them. The Chinese, for instance, have no song that draws them all together in the same way that Englishmen are united in "God Save the King" or as Frenchmen once were by the "Marseillaise."

When it comes to pass, as once it did in the United States, that one part of the nation will sing one song (say, "John Brown's Body") while another part will not sing that song but another one (say, "Dixie"), then civil war is at the gates. Only people who will sing together can be trusted to live together.

Singing Church

IN the long caravans, marching up the rocky hillside trails to Jerusalem, the ancient Hebrews put their faith into stirring words set to music. So it is always. All over the Christian world, wherever and whenever the singing is good, religion is warm and vigorous.

Where the heart is full, there will be song. Revivals of religion are revivals of singing. To this day a stranger in a strange city, looking for a church home, is most likely to settle down in the church where the singing is the best.

It is not an accident that the Moravian church is at the same time the church that makes more of Easter than some other churches, it is the church where at funerals the music is never sad but joyous, not mourning-songs but triumphant hymns of Christian faith.

Patriotism and Religion

READ these marching Psalms through—the reading time is only a few minutes—and see for yourself how the ancient Hebrew men of God united their praise of Him with love for their country. To this day, in our Christian hymns, patriotism and religion are often combined. The English national anthem, "God Save the King," is a prayer; so is "America the Beautiful." National hymns have a rightful place in a book of public worship. For while patriotism, by itself, is a poor substitute for religion, still a man who will not love his country lacks something of being a good Christian, and on the other hand a man without faith in God makes a very poor citizen.

Pity Never Akin to Love

By Lawrence Gould

Is pity really sometimes "akin to love"?

Answer: Far from it. We get the idea that it is from the fact that when we are little, our mothers appear to give us more affection when we are sick or unhappy, but to try to win someone's love after you have grown up by making him sorry for you is a serious mistake. If he feels you're blaming him, he'll hate you for it, and if he does not, you'll ultimately bore him. The English psychiatrist, Dr. Laura Hutton, truly says that "In the long run most of us are attracted by happiness in others, not by unhappiness"—or "hard luck."

staying single than a cripple should be blamed because he "won't walk." There is no worse marriage than the sort in which a girl has forced herself to take a husband she does not love "so as not to be an old maid." Single life is infinitely better.

Is being an "old maid" a disgrace?

Answer: Certainly not, though the notion seems to "die hard." It's each person's business to adjust to life on a basis that accepts his or her limitations, and a girl who has been so conditioned that she is afraid of marriage or cannot accept the role of wife and mother should no more be blamed for

Can dull parents have bright children?

Answer: As a rule they have quite normal children, and what level of intelligence these children attain depends upon the conditions under which they are brought up. In the Journal of Genetic Psychology, Dr. Harold M. Skeels and Miss Irene Harms report the continuing success of the "Iowa Experiment," in which children with "inferior social histories" were given for adoption to superior foster parents. Though in many cases one or both of the children's parents were rated as "morons," the children have average intelligence or better.

KEEPING HEALTHY
Preventing Deaths from Appendicitis

By Dr. James W. Barton

SOME YEARS AGO the physicians and surgeons of Philadelphia made a determined effort to cut down the death rate in appendicitis. Within one year they reduced it to less than half of what it had been.

How was the death rate reduced by more than one-half in this short time?

These physicians had learned from their own experiences three definite truths. First, that the sooner the operation was performed the better; second, that no food should be given; and third, that no pain-killing drug should be used until the cause of the pain was found not to be appendicitis, as this drug masked or hid the symptoms.

When a pain occurs in the abdomen, even as high up as the stomach, many think that a dose of castor oil or of Epsom salts is the best treatment, as it clears away poisons or wastes. This would be good treatment in most cases but for the fact that appendicitis is such a common cause of pain in the abdomen.

HEALTH NOTES

When the ankle or any other joint is sprained (not just strained), the injured part should be placed in hot water and kept hot for an hour at a time until swelling disappears. The joint then should be bandaged and placed on a chair if the patient is sitting or on a pillow if lying down. After a few days' rest, the joint is gently moved (without weight on it), and massaged toward the heart.

Some years ago I tried to count up the number of causes of headache. When it ran over 100, I stopped. Some researchers report over 200 causes.

Myalgia in the back of the neck and in the chest muscles (sometimes mistaken for pleurisy) can be caused by an infection in the nose and throat, with a resultant rise in temperature and pulse rate.

Effective July 2— NEW LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE RATES for calls within Michigan

INCREASED RATES for long distance telephone calls between Michigan points, effective July 2, 1949, have been authorized by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Last December, Michigan Bell requested rate increases for both local telephone service and long distance service within Michigan so it might continue giving the kind of telephone service the people of Michigan demand.

The Public Service Commission's order provides only for that part of the application which requested an increase in long distance rates (including rates for teletypewriter exchange service messages) within the state. But it will provide urgently needed revenue until the Commission is able to finish its investigation of the complete request and rule on it.

Your Long Distance operator gladly will give you the new rate to any Michigan point.

HERE'S WHAT THE NEW RATES MEAN

Initial-period rates for DAY STATION-TO-STATION calls are increased 5¢ to 15¢, depending on the distance.

Initial-period rates for NIGHT STATION-TO-STATION calls are increased 5¢ to 30¢, depending on the distance.

Initial-period rates for DAY PERSON-TO-PERSON calls are increased 5¢ to 30¢, depending on the distance.

Initial-period rates for NIGHT PERSON-TO-PERSON calls are increased 5¢ to 45¢, depending on the distance.

Rates for each additional minute, which are approximately 1/3 of the initial-period rate, are increased proportionately.

The initial period for 10¢ calls on the new rate schedule is 4 instead of 5 minutes; and for 20¢ calls, 3 instead of 4 minutes.

Rates for teletypewriter exchange service messages between Michigan points are increased proportionately.

FARM NEWS

Michigan Farm Family Progress Day—July 27

Several thousand people are expected to attend Statewide Farm Family Progress Day to be held on Wednesday, July 27, by the Farmers Home Administration at Michigan State College in East Lansing. Those invited as guests of the college include agricultural leaders, FHA families, and their friends.

The event will conclude and climax local Progress Day meetings that have been conducted by 30 FHA County Supervisors covering all 83 counties of the state. The local meetings started last December, reports Roswell G. Carr State Director, and the final one was held on June 21 at Menominee. Altogether about 5,000 persons were present—with individual attendance ranging from 40 to approximately 600.

The object, like that of the forthcoming State event, was to encourage better farming and better living among FHA cooperating families and to recognize those who have made exceptional progress. Three to six families were selected in each county by USDA County Council members as having made the most outstanding advancement in farm, family, and community living—since becoming associated with the Farmers Home Administration, or its predecessor agency, the Farm Security Administration. The following families were selected from this area: Neil Ronger, Iosco county; Emery Green, Roscommon county; Elwood M. Caverly, Earl Fox and Peter S. Rohl, Ogemaw county.

These local Progress Day winners throughout the state totaled about 281, and included veterans and non-veterans, young couples and older couples, families "starting from scratch" and those starting somewhat higher on the agricultural ladder. All will receive recognition at the State meeting with individual certificates of achievement being awarded them in a special ceremony.

The County meetings were the first of their kind ever held, says State Director Carr, and the State Meeting will be the first such occasion too. "We believe it will be the biggest and most significant event of our FHA history in Michigan," he added.

Of the estimated 190,000 farmers in the State 2,700, or one out of seven, has had assistance from the since the Government's program of Farmers Home Administration aid to small farmers started in 1935. About 5,500 of these are still on the program, currently buying or operating farms through agency supervised credit.

The all-day meeting at East Lansing will be divided into an indoor program in the morning with Mr. Carr presiding, and an outdoor program in the afternoon, including an educational tour of the College of Agriculture.

HAWLEY SPEAKS AT FARM BUREAU MEETING

A special meeting of the Board of Directors was called to order on Friday evening at the Grant Hall. All formality was dispensed with and the meeting was immediately turned over to Wesley Hawley, head of State Farm Bureau membership department.

Mr. Hawley made a special effort to meet with the Board again in order to explain in more detail the background of Farm Bureau and the responsibilities of the Board of Directors. He began first by reassuring the Board that "the Iosco F. B. is moving along about as fast as can be expected" and that the community bureaus should not be discouraged, because to date, nothing spectacular has happened. Those things will take care of themselves as the organization matures.

To answer the question "What is Farm Bureau?" Mr. Hawley stresses the need of organization among the farmers. To illustrate fully, he quoted from Proverbs, 11-14 "Where no council is, the people fall, but in the multitude of counselors, they are established." Proverb 30-24 "There are four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceedingly wise." Here Mr. Hawley explained, that although farmers are but 18% of the population of America, they can be exceedingly wise, and one way is our Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau is a Machine
Like a tractor, Farm Bureau is also a "Farm Tool." The tractor prepares the soil, sows the seed and harvests the grain, this tool has a material value of $2000. The F. B. prepares the members, sows thought and harvests good living. This tool has a human value of $10.00.

Farm Bureau is a voice and an insurance. When a member participates in his community, he has a voice in the State Legislature and congressional committees. Mr. Stanley Powell, represents us at Lansing, Roger Flemming in Washington.

To be wise and informed of current interests and discussion topics, Hawley stressed with much emphasis that everyone read the monthly Farm Bureau paper. He suggested, too, that the article entitled "Do You Know," henceforth be put into a scrap book for present and future reference as it will include information about Farm Bureau History. The important issue before everyone of us now, Mr. Hawley said, "is whether we want Big Government or not." The Brannon plan will be a turning point to socializing American. For this reason the Farm Bureau will fight it to the last! He said that the plan was made completely political. He warned that the farmers not be blinded by Brannon's "guaranteed price" and then asked, "where is the money coming from?" He asked that the Brannon plan be studied thoroughly by community Bureaus and that each come to a conclusion.

The Oleo vs. Butter issue was reviewed again and a plea for more petition signers made. Time is short and dairy men must hurry to protect their industry.

Mr. Hawley gave a brief resume of the Mid-West training school which convened in South Dakota. Here there were conferences on membership and community work. 2300 people enjoyed the wonderful experience of gathering to exchange ideas and came to the conclusion that they needed to go back home and build stronger community Farm Bureaus.

At this point Mr. Hawley called on Mrs. Vary to report on the Women's Activity committee. Mrs. Vary gave a thorough report and spoke enthusiastically about the part the Farm Bureau Women can play in building a better social, state and material government. Mrs. Vary gave an inspiring account of a day spent at the Women's Camp at Interlochen and thus illustrated how much good, farm bureau officers can get from attending training camps for themselves and for the benefit of the home groups.

A fine program has been and is being planned for future a meeting of the Women's Activity group. Mrs. Vary requested that 100% representation from community farm bureau groups be made. Upon conclusion of Mrs. Vary's report, Mr. Hawley explained the responsibilities of the Farm Bureau Boards. The proper functioning of committees was greatly stressed and a basic outline given that each committee chairman could fit his needs.

A district meeting to be held at Gaylord on July 7, in the evening, was announced by Mr. Hawley. "Goals," will be set at this meeting. The following committee chairmen should be represented: Membership, Executive, Roll Call Manager; Junior Farm Bureau; Women's Activities; Community.

The meeting came to an informal closing with the Board agreeing to meet on its regular meeting night, June 29. Mrs. Howard Rempert, Mrs. William Herriman and Mrs. Charles Kobs were hostesses for the evenings refreshments.

The regular meeting of the Iosco County Board of Directors was set for Wednesday, June 29, at the George Waters home.

Harvest Time is Hazard Time on the Farm

Harvest time is hazard time on the farm, warns Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent. When machinery with sharp cutting mechanism, high speed shafting, belting and gears is used during the busy harvest season, the chances of accidents mount.

Records of the National Safety Council show that accidents to farm people reach their peak during this season.

The first precaution for safe operation of harvesting machinery is inspection and repair. Seats, controls, steps, hitches and brakes and similar features should be checked and repaired if defective. All shields and other safety guards be in place before a machine is taken to the field.

One of the principal causes of operating mishaps is failure to stop machinery before oiling, adjusting, or unclogging it. Loose or floppy clothing which catches in revolving machine parts should not be worn.

The agent warns that small children are definitely out of place around harvesting machinery.

Since tractors are in constant use during harvest, operators must always be on the alert and never take chances. Be careful around ditches, embankments or on the highway. Avoid excessive speeds. Never operate a tractor after dark without good lights.

Farm Safety Week Plans Scheduled
National Farm Safety Week, to urge elimination of costly and unnecessary farm accidents, is to be observed from July 24 to 30 this year. Agricultural leaders are now planning to stress all phases of farm safety during the week to help cut the annual toll in lives, injuries and money.

Its Life-Span Has Never Been Measured!

Now and then, a person who is about to take delivery of a new Cadillac inquires as to the period of time he may logically anticipate using it.

Our answer is that we do not know—for the life-span of a Cadillac car has never been accurately measured.

There is evidence in abundance that, with proper care and reasonable usage, the life of a Cadillac is far beyond all normal requirements.

Recently, for instance, four Cadillacs of the 1942 series were retired from the testing fleet of one of the great tire manufacturers. The four of them had traveled a total of 2,599,413 miles, averaging almost 650,000 miles per car. None of them was retired for disability. Each went into general service after leaving the testing fleet.

Yes—you can look forward, when you buy a Cadillac, to almost any period of ownership you may eventually desire.

But, of course, the endurance of a Cadillac is only half the story. The manner in which the car performs is equally vital to the owner's satisfaction.

Not only can you keep a Cadillac for a long, long time—but your enjoyment of it will endure throughout the years.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Buying Right Swim Suit May Help Figure

By Erlta Haley

WHEN SUMMER COMES around, many women gaze with dismay at the figures and say, "I just can't plan to wear a bathing suit this summer."

There are some figures, of course, which a bathing suit cannot disguise, but then neither can clothes. However, many of the new bathing suits are designed to do a lot for the figure, whether it's good or bad.

Don't discard the idea of wearing a suit because of some figure faults which can be much minimized by a good suit.

Trying on a suit is the best way of deciding just what each one does for you. Just as in buying dresses, several mirrors that give a view of different angles, can help you to decide on the most effective suit.

Young and Slender Choose Two-Piece Style

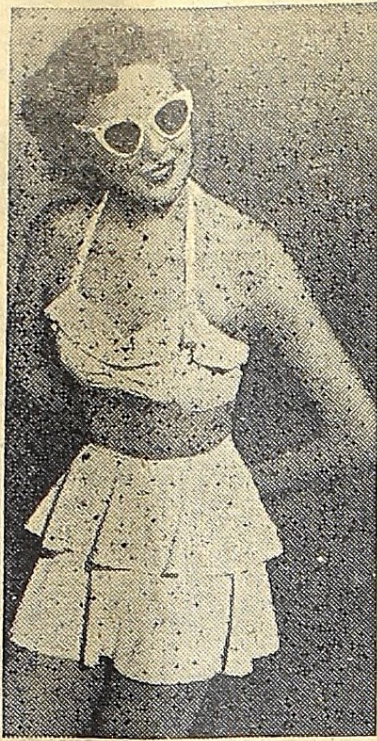

Those who have a good figure that can stand inspection may wear the two-piece suit. The figure should be flat and firm because the midriff which is bare cannot hide flabbiness in the waistline.

Two-piece suits are available in many styles and colors, and they have become a real favorite with women who like to get plenty of sun. They're comfortable to wear and the styles are stunning, provided, of course, you have the figure for them.

Rayon knits are cooling and are so constructed as to hold their shape. Cotton suits of this type are available in lovely designs and colors.

Snug trunks and a trim bra in the

Tricot Tiers

Crisp white in doubled tiers gives an interesting look to this new summer bathing suit. The smoothly fitted halter bodice carries out the tiered motif of the skirt, thus giving the wearer an attractive look. The bathing suit, made of avisco tricot knit rayon wears well and new methods of manufacture make the fabric run-proof, with a minimum of stretching.

suit that is designed to fit the body closely, and thus does not hamper activities in the water.

A wool maillot, slim and elegant, cut low in the back, skin tight to the fit, will cut the water like a knife. There's no full skirt to balloon out like a jelly fish in the water and hamper swimming.

The slim, clean-cut silhouette that has been absent from the beaches for several years is coming back this season. The combination wool and latex suits that not only help mold the figure to better lines, with their control built right in the suit, are an invaluable aid to the girl who needs some support in her suit.

Intense colors are favored in these suits as well as in other clothes, although you can still get them in black, white and navy, if that's your choice.

Princess Style Suit Also Favored

The short girl who tends to be somewhat plump will probably want to choose one of the many princess styles which are being shown extensively this season. This will give her the long, unbroken lines which her short figure needs to make it look dainty.

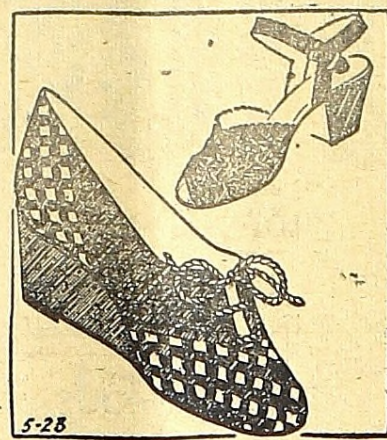

The princess styles come with or without straps, the latter in a very cleverly styled boned bodice.

Colors chosen should be solid so as not to break the figure and thus make it look shorter. If there's a desire for some decoration, you can get this in neatly by choosing a suit that is ruffled in a contrasting color on the bodice and on the skirt.

Mature figures show off to best advantage, not in a full skirted suit but in a fitted suit, preferably wool.

Suits are designed for all mature figure problems, some giving more support than others, depending upon what each figure needs.

Be Smart!

Raffia, superb in color and in its adaptability to unusual weaves, is the newest material to make its bow in summer footwear. This fiber is giving expression to ever so many novelty effects, suited for casual wear at the beach, in town or resort. It's equally smart with solid color cottons and linens. You'll have a splendid choice of colors as well as styles, all easy to keep sparkling with a damp cloth.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Widow's Marriage, Fool's Project

"I AM 36, widowed and with three children, girls 12 and 7 and a boy of 10. My 12 years of married life were ideal. Gene left me comfortable and the children are fine specimens. My mother died five months ago, and since then I have been bitterly lonely. I am writing to ask your advice about marrying again."

"I wouldn't be asking your advice," continues this very odd letter from a Texas woman, "if I knew whom to marry. But I don't. This town has no interesting free men in it. I have played about occasionally with men I wouldn't or couldn't marry, and have found no satisfaction in nightclubs, dancing, and shallow relationships of that sort."

"Do you know, and can you put me in touch with, two or three men anxious to marry a handsome, well-fixed woman who loves a good time, keeps a comfortable house, and needs a sympathetic companion?" And "Dot," to call her that, goes on with a list of the qualifications she would expect in her new mate. He must be 40, he must have exceptional references and he must like a good time.

Selfish, Inexperienced

It is incredible to me that a woman so placed could be as completely inexperienced and childish as selfish as "Dot" reveals herself to be in this letter. I answered her personally, and at once, but I haven't much hope that my very forceful warning will have any effect.

My reason for quoting her letter and her problem lies in the rather pitiful fact that, every year, thousands of women deceive themselves with the fond thought that a second marriage will give them the happiness, the dear companionship

This is the most promising view. But very often the picture is far darker than this. Dick wants to help handle the business of his bride. He knows of investments that will double that comfortable income of hers. She mustn't be afraid, women are all too timid, she can make herself a very rich woman. What can Mother say? "I married you, Dick, but I have no faith in your judgement."

So she goes to the bank with Dick, and Dick takes her to a champagne lunch and assures her she has shown good judgement. And that, many times, is the end of her money, and often the children's money, too.

Letters aren't often as childish as the one I quoted in the beginning of this article, but all women have a way of bringing arguments into line when they plan the deep injustice to their children that a second marriage almost always involves.

And if this is the case in what Mrs. Wiggs called a "sod" widow, it is doubly the case when it is a "grass" widow who is concerned. Then children's delicate nervous system may be actually destroyed by the palpable efforts of Mother to show that she does love them.

Only she has to love Uncle Dick, too, and Uncle Dick isn't always quite—well, you see, darlings —. The darlings don't see anything but one complicated, nerve-racking mistake piled on another, for the excellent reason that that is what the situation becomes. With no children, or with motherless children needing her, or perhaps with one grown child, the experiment often is a success. But with girls of 12 and 7 and a boy of 10—well, no sensible woman need go out of her way to invite that sort of trouble into her home.

"... I have played about ..."

that death has taken away. They will not recognize the simple truth that one happy marriage is more than the normal allowance, that their memory of Tom and his tenderness has been softened and exaggerated by time, and that their chances of finding a real mate in this sort of a risk are not one in a thousand. Loneliness and vanity and hope rise triumphant over all arguments, and every year we can all count among our friends the widows who want to try again.

In all this, their children are the first victims. Mother has told them sweetly, pleadingly, that they must be nice to Uncle Dick who is going to come to live with them, and take Daddy's place. And for awhile how jolly Uncle Dick is with young Stan, how pleasantly he teases Carol and spoils Baby Sally.

Jealousy Enters

But inevitably his newly-married jealousy begins to complicate everything, and the children are the first to feel it. Mother is torn between Dick's demand that she go with him on a three-day trip, and the claims of the feverish, bewildered sick child upstairs. Dick says impatiently that kids don't die of upset stomachs, and Mother agrees with him. But she doesn't go off in any very gay spirits, just the same.

The delicate attentions, the compliments, the murmured intoxicating promises all have faded out of Mother's life now; she is a harassed, overworked woman, with claims pouring in on every side—claims that she simply can't meet. She loves Dick, but she didn't expect, in marrying him, to have to give up all other loves completely.

Festive Affair Honors Barnum

Connecticut City Grateful to Showman

BRIDGEPORT, CONN. — This city went all out with a three-ringed din kept up several days in honor of the late Phineas Taylor Barnum, the legendary showman who in the distant yesteryear said: "There's a sucker born every minute."

From early afternoon into late evening, the music blared, the banners flapped and Bridgeport's men, women and children frolicked and danced in scores of streets, in community houses and in the armory at the Big Top Ball.

All this was a reminder to young and old that P. T., as the souvenir program proclaimed, did for Bridgeport what a catalyst does for the chemist—start all the good reactions and bring about the desired results.

It was Bridgeport's first annual Barnum festival which will be repeated every year coinciding with the arrival of the big show, Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus. The circus arrived for a two-day stand to bring the festival to a climax.

Barnum might have been born in Bethel, 23 miles away, on July 15, 1810, but the guiding fathers want the world to know that Bridgeport was his preference. It was here that P. T. wintered his "Greatest Show on Earth," the small wagon affair that became the forerunner of the circus which inherits the slogan.

Incidentally, ever mindful of getting the house packed, Phineas away back said: "Give 'em what they want," and proceeded to do just that. He imported the famed Jumbo, the elephant from England, and he discovered a midget, Charles S. Stratton, in this town, named him Gen. Tom Thumb and shared his fame. When inspiration was at a low ebb, Phineas had a mule painted with stripes and exhibited as a zebra.

Russians Claim Capture of First 'Baby' Whale

MOSCOW.—The crew of the Russian whaling ship Slava reported from Odessa that they made the first catch on record of a live baby sperm whale during a hunt in the Antarctic.

Unfortunately, the crew members said, they had no proof since the ship's biologist ordered the whale set free because he required more than a ton of condensed milk daily to stay alive. The crew's report said:

The whale, which was as long as a Moscow trolleybus, at first resisted all attempts by the huskiest members of the crew to catch it. Finally, with the aid of a winch and rope, the whale was brought under control. When an extra heavy rope broke when they tried to pull the baby whale aboard it was decided to tow it back to Odessa alive. But the ship's biologist ordered the whale's liberation because it required daily more than a ton of condensed milk.

Difficult Problem

Catching a baby whale is more or less like taking a fingerling trout, in that it violates sound conservation practices. Dr. Harold Anthony, chairman of the Department of Mammals of the New York Museum of Natural History, said:

Declaring that the capture of a whale calf is also extremely difficult, he suggested that the baby caught by the Russian whalers had probably been turned loose on that account. The young whale could not have been kept alive in any event, Dr. Anthony said. Even had the Russian factory ship been prepared to furnish the estimated ton of condensed milk a day, and to devise a formula and to induce the infant cetacean to take it, the baby would have suffered most probably from over-feeding, he indicated.

Explaining that there are gaps in scientific knowledge of whales, because their submarine habits make observation difficult, he said: "A young whale would require several hundred pounds of milk a day, but I doubt that it would require a ton."

Has Collection

The Museum of Natural History has a collection of young whale specimens, including a cast of an infant sperm whale that found its way into the Gowanus canal in Brooklyn about 15 years ago, presumably by following a ship after becoming separated from its mother. Whaling literature lists calves 40 to 50 feet in length found following their mothers and presumably subsisting on milk.

The conservation of whales, made necessary by the great efficiency of modern methods of killing them, is the subject of an international convention signed at London in 1937 and revised in 1938. This agreement provides for an observer on factory ships to see that the conservation provisions, including non-molestation of calves and their mothers, are carried out.

Russian ships, however, are presumably not bound by the convention, since the Soviet Union is listed among the nations that abstained from signing in 1938.

Tides Said Slowing Up Planet, Extending Day

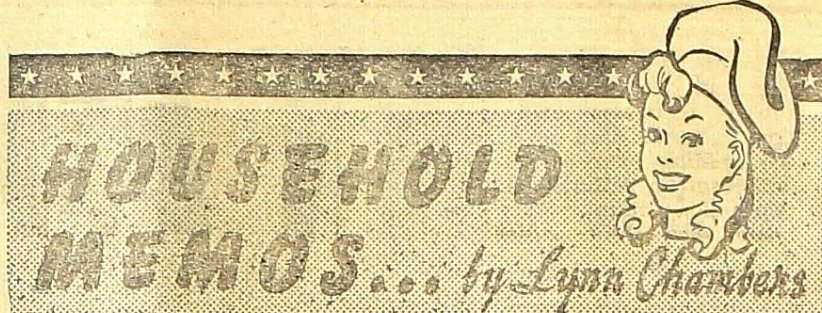

WASHINGTON.—Tides raised by the moon in the earth's liquid core are slowing the planet's revolution and increasing the length of the day. This thesis is advanced in a report prepared for the official organ of the British association for the advancement of science by Dr. W. M. Elsasser of the University of Pennsylvania.

It long has been known that the length of the day is increasing by a minute fraction of a second each year. This generally has been attributed to the frictional drag of tides in shallow seas, the Bering sea alone accounting for almost half the effect.

However, it also is known that the core of the earth is liquid in a strange form—iron at an enormously high temperature but under tremendous pressure. But it would respond like water to the pull of the moon, Dr. Elsasser says.

These internal tides act like brakes on the earth's rotation, he explains. This theory, he says, satisfies the observed rates better than if the retardation were ascribed to the drag of sea tides alone. The theory assumes that the core of the earth is rotating somewhat more slowly than the shell and that there are areas of tidal turbulence, essentially storms inside the earth.

The idea of drag due to internal tides receives support from long-time records of changes in the earth's magnetism in local areas, recently published by the terrestrial magnetism department of Washington. These indicate a different rotation rate for the core and the crust and a gradual displacement of the latter from East to West. It is almost as if there were two rotating planets, one inside the other.

Follow Rules for Fruit and Berry Canning (See Directions Below)

Can Fruits Well

SUCCESSFUL fruit and berry canning is comparatively simple, but good results depend upon your being well-informed of the proper methods as well as accuracy in carrying out certain given directions.

If you canned fruits and berries last year and had some spoilage then check over the tips I'm giving and see where you slipped. True economy depends upon having success with every jar you've put up.

Lack of success in putting up fruit and berries may not have been due to any canning procedure. Your first essential job is to select sound fruit and berries. Fruit or berries must be firm and ripe. Over-ripe material may be used for jams and jellies but should never be canned whole.

Discard bruised berries or fruit as well as those which are specked. The fresher the fruit or berry, the better is your chance of canning successfully. If you have your own orchard or garden, then you can go right out and pick the produce and rush it into the kitchen for canning. This is the ideal way to can.

Blanching Means Removing Skins

IT'S sometimes desirable to blanch fruit, or peel it. This process means dipping the fruit, such as apricots, peaches, etc., in hot water for a minute or so, then in cold water. The skin will slip off easily with just a slight pressure of the fingers or palm.

If you're blanching a bushel of fruit, do it in small doses. Letting the fruit stand in either the hot or cold water for more than the required minute will make it too watery.

Hot Water Bath Best for Fruit Canning

FRUITS and berries, generally packed hot or cold into the jars and are then processed by the hot water bath.

The open kettle method, whereby the fruit is cooked in a large kettle on top of the range and packed while boiling hot into sterilized jars, is preferred by some people.

After packing in the jars, the

LYNN SAYS: These Canning Tips Will Help You

To make one quart of canned fruit, you'll need two and one-half pounds of fresh apricots. The same weight of peaches and pears will also give a quart of canned fruit.

Two medium sized pineapples are needed to yield a quart of the canned product.

When packing fruit into jars in its raw state (cold pack), add syrup to within one and one-half inches of the top of the jar.

pressure cooker may also be used for processing. The pressure cooker, however, is not as essential to canning fruits and berries, as it is in canning vegetables.

Precooking is recommended on the chart above for such fruit and berries as are watery. This method gives a better pack.

Wash Fruit Thoroughly, But Avoid Soaking BACTERIA lurk in soil, and for this reason, it's necessary to wash fruit and berries thoroughly. However, this does not mean that you allow the fruit or berries to soak in water. They may become waterlogged and give you a very watery pack once the fruit is in the jar.

Whole fruits should be washed under gently running water and placed in a colander to drain as soon as washing is over. Berries may be dipped in and out of fresh, clean water in a basin and then placed in a colander to drain. Running water may break the berries apart.

How to Choose The Best Syrup

IN THE CHART, it is suggested that you add syrup to the fruit or berries after it has been packed in jars. In some cases, it is advisable to pre-cook the material in syrup before packing in the jar.

For the small soft fruit such as sweet cherries and berries, use a No. 1 or a thin syrup made as follows:

Use three cups of water to one cup of sugar and bring to a boil. The medium, or No. 2 syrup is used for peaches, sour berries, rhubarb, cherries or gooseberries. It is made by using two cups of water to one cup of sugar and bringing to a boil.

The heavy, or No. 3 syrup is generally used on large sour fruits that have to be made extra sweet.

Scum should be removed from the syrup after cooking, before pouring the syrup on fruit.

Corn syrup and honey may be substituted in whole or in part in making the syrup. All honey, and no sugar, will change the flavor of the fruits as well as make it slightly darker.

From three to three and one-half pounds of strawberries are needed for a quart of canned material since they have a high percentage of liquid.

One and one-half to two pounds of cherries or plums will yield a quart of the canned product.

To sterilize jars for canned foods, wash them first in warm, soapy water. Rinse thoroughly. Cover jars with warm water and allow to come to a boil. Boil for 15 minutes. Let stand in water until ready to use.

THE READER'S COURTROOM Passenger Resents Fare Play

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

If the Railroad Agent Sells You The Wrong Ticket, May the Conductor Put You off the Train?

A railroad traveller paid for his passage to a distant city, but the clerk of the depot accidentally gave him a ticket good only to a nearby town. When the train came to this town, the conductor insisted that the passenger either get off or pay more fare. The man flatly refused. At last, the irate conductor dragged him bodily out of his seat and pushed him off the car. Afterward the man sued the railroad for damages. He maintained the conductor should have taken his word for the fact that he had already paid his full fare. However, the court disagreed, ruling that the man should have paid the difference then and settled the matter later with the depot clerk. Not all courts take this viewpoint.

"Is a Wedding Valid if the Bride Just Nods Her Head Instead of Saying 'I Do'?"

On the complaint of her husband, a woman was charged with adultery. At the trial, she claimed that she could not be guilty of that charge because she was really not married at all! Blandly she explained that, at her wedding ceremony, she had not said "I do" but had merely nodded her head. The court decided the wedding was valid.

May an Accident "Victim" Collect Damages if Not Hur

A widow lived alone near a railroad track. One morning while she was sitting peacefully on her back porch, two freight trains collided and one of the cars toppled over into her back yard. Although not physically injured in any way, the woman sued the railroad for giving her such a scare. However, the court denied her claim.

How Rough May a Policeman Be in Arresting a Drunkard?

A policeman was summoned into a cafe to arrest a drunken patron. The officer told the man to "come along," but the drunk just sat there motionless. Angered, the policeman snapped a handcuff on the man's left wrist and then ordered him to lift his right. When the drunk stubbornly refused to comply, the officer slapped him three times on the face with his billy—then led him away to jail.

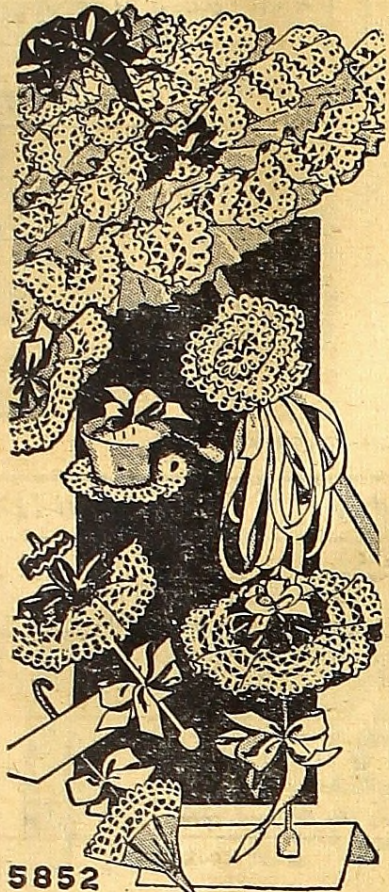

GWAN - I GOT ME RIGHTS

As soon as he was released, the man sued the officer for using unnecessary roughness. The officer insisted that he had a right to "get tough" in such cases, but the court decided that he had gone much too far. Denouncing his action as "a vicious exercise of brutality," the judge ordered him to pay damages to his victim. The judge pointed out that citizens are not required to "jump at the snap of a policeman's finger."

Fatigue Causes Depression
Continued depression without apparent reason often is due to fatigue. Persistent efforts to secure sufficient sleep on good quality bedding every night usually will result in better spirits. If the depression continues, however, a doctor should be consulted.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

AROUND THE HOUSE

Consider the mop. Floor mops, as a rule, are somewhat neglected when it comes to washing. Give your mop a good bath in boiling soapsuds every week or so. Soda added to the water will loosen the dirt wonderfully.

Wash line technique. When washing heavy blouses, shirts, etc., hang each one separately on a wooden clothes hanger and then on the line. They will dry more quickly and in better shape than when pinned directly to the line.

Dry in no time. A quick way of drying stockings is to squeeze them as dry as possible, then roll tightly in a turkish towel for five minutes. Hang in an airy place and they will dry in a jiffy.

Deposit rubbers here. A wooden box or carton placed inside the kitchen door to be used as a receptacle for rubbers and galoshes on rainy days will save the home-maker much linoleum cleaning.

On the bias. Try cutting the thread on a slant when threading a needle. It will point the thread and make it much easier to thrust through the eye of the needle.

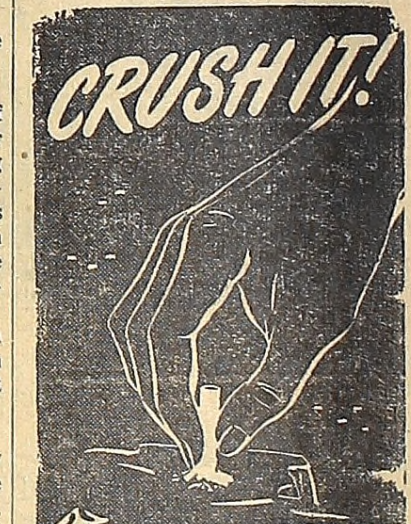

Time enough. In making percolated coffee, allow the brew to percolate for only five or ten minutes after the water begins to be amber in color.

Hubbie—"You look tired, dear. Why don't you go to the mountains for a nice rest?"
Wife—"Oh, I don't know. I don't think the mountain air would agree with me."
Hubbie—"Well, it would be the first thing that didn't."

Teacher—"So you want to be older so that you can do many things that your brothers and sisters do, eh?"
Small boy—"Yes, ma'am."
Teacher—"Well, who is the oldest in your family?"
Small boy—"Daddy is, but he got a head start."

"You should be ashamed of yourself," reprimanded the father as he gave his son a dressing down for not having advanced beyond the errand-boy stage at his place of business. "Why, when George Washington was your age he was hard at work as a surveyor, earning good money."
"Sure," replied the youth in a swift counter-attack, "and when he was your age he was President of the United States."

"I don't agree with your theory of prenatal influence," said the young lady as she sipped her tea. "Take my case for example," she said. "My mother was accidentally hit with a phonograph record just before I was born, but it has not done me any harm, any harm, any harm."

Value of Shrubs

Shrubs on the farmstead are needed in abundance to partially hide foundation lines of buildings, define boundaries and screen unsightly objects. Then, too, shrubs lend themselves well in supporting landscape lines at house corners and give reasons for turns in drives or walks.
