1950 AAA Wheat Program Announced

County's Planting Allotment Set At 1,208 Acres

The Isoco County AAA Committee notified that marketing quotas will not be proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture for the 1950 crop of wheat to be planted this fall but that individual farm acreage allotments will be established as a basis for price support eligibility.

Earl M. Partlo, chairman of the Isoco County AAA Committee, said that the Isoco County wheat acreage allotment has been set at 1,208 acres for the 1950 crop, representing the county's proportionate share of the State allotment of 995,426 acres and the National allotment of 68,944,099 acres.

The chairman pointed out that farmers are under no legal compulsion to plant within their individual farm acreage allotments but that under the provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1948 (the Aiken Bill), farmers who plant in excess of their acreage allotments will not be eligible for price support loans or purchase agreements on any of their 1950 wheat crop.

The 1950 county allotment of 1,208 acres compares with the best available estimate of 1,670 acres for harvest in 1949 in Isoco county. The State allotment for 1950 of 995,426 acres is a reduction from the estimated 1,311,000 acres from which the 1949 crop is being harvested—the second largest acreage in recent history.

A national wheat acreage allotment must be established each year.

Though out hitting Alabaster eight hits to seven, Prescott helped their opponents run up the one-sided score by committing ten errors in the field. Only two extra base knocks were recorded, doubles by Johnny and Pat Erickson of Alabaster.

Drops First Loss to West Branch Team

Nine Game Winning Streak Broken in 1 to 0 Pitchers Duel

In a 1 to 0 pitcher's duel last Sunday, West Branch finally dropped East Tawas from the undefeated ranks, and only after East Tawas had run up a nine game winning streak.

The game last Sunday found Pete Peterson on the mound for East Tawas, and Bob Neubecker, hurling for West Branch. Both pitchers were in fine mettle, allowing the same number of hits, four. Neubecker struck out 12, while Peterson whiffed seven. The West Branch hurler walked two, while Peterson sent three to first, via the base on ball record.

To show just how effective the pitching was, only three men went to bat for East Tawas in the first, second, third, fifth, seventh and eighth innings, and only three men went to bat for West Branch in the first, second, third, seventh and ninth. Each team sent the same number of batter up to the plate—33, or six over the minimum.

Neither team got a man on base in the first three innings. C. Neubecker slammed out the first base hit of the game, in the fourth, but was stranded.

In the last of the fourth for East Tawas, Mallon doubled after two were out; Neubecker then walked Gackstetter and Coleman to load the bases. But the fire was put out when Rapp grounded out.

The only run of the game came in the fifth, when lead-off batter, Thompson, walked, L. Neubecker walked; Ferguson popped to Peterson in an attempted sacrifice, and Peterson doubled Neubecker off first, Uhler singled to left field, with Thompson holding up at third, and scoring when Youngs throw from left got by Peterson.

East Tawas threatened in the sixth when Youngs led off with a single, but was left stranded, when the next three men went down in order.

Another uprising by East Tawas was started in the ninth, when after two were out, Gackstetter and Coleman singled, Rapp popped to second, to end the game.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Dulles Rebukes Pact Detractors; England Faces More Austerity; U S Steel Dislikes Truman Plan

Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of

MONROE DOCTRINE:

Pact Fuss
John Foster Dulles, in his first speech as U.S. senator appealed for ratification of the North Atlantic pact and rebuked Senator Robert A. Taft and others opposing it. Taft's opposition was on the grounds that the treaty commits the United States to re-arm its European signers.

Dulles countered with the defense that the pact does not obligate this nation to enter any arms program which "isn't defensible on its own merits." Dulles said that the treaty doesn't give any individual member the right to get any particular thing from any other member. No particular member has any claim on any particular aid he averred. It does not require the United States to build each signer up so that it could defend itself alone, Dulles said.

ANOTHER FOE of the pact, Senator Flanders of Vermont, wanted to extend the Monroe Doctrine in place of entering the pact. He said this nation would not be obligated in details any more than in the original Monroe Doctrine.

Flanders also objected to possible arms commitments to Europe if we signed the pact. He said that if vast arms shipments are made to Europe we don't know what will happen to them in case of communist domination of nations benefited.

Senator Scott W. Lucas, the Democratic senate floor leader, said that the treaty imposes no legal obligation for an arms program, but added such a program is needed just the same.

The Truman administration seeks a $1,130,000,000 program to rearm western Europe.

ENGLAND:

More Austerity

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, has placed a new austerity program before the British people. He announced that Britain will reduce her spending in the United States and Canada by $400,000,000, or one-fourth, in the current fiscal year.

THE BRITISH financial situation is more serious than Secretary of State Acheson has made it appear. However, it is not insoluble. British difficulties cannot be attributed to the American slump. The British will benefit from declining prices here of raw materials and food. Inflated war prices are blamed for the rapid consumption of America's 1946 loan to England.

There is taking place in England, according to a recent poll of the British Institute of Public Opinion, a shift of political sentiment toward the right. A general election now might turn the Labor party out of office.

Union leaders promised to try to end London's wildcat dock strike as more soldiers, sailors and airmen went into the miles of wharves to unload ships and move cargoes of food.

Vaughan Accused

President Truman has been asked to suspend his military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

The request came from Rep. Shafer, Michigan Republican, who cited the army's suspension of two other major generals, Herman Fieldman, the quartermaster general, and Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical corps.

They were suspended pending a senate investigation of army contract handling. Shafer said Vaughan was implicated in the same case, but gave no details.

All three generals were mentioned in a recent news story which inspired the inquiry into dealings of "five per centers," those who hire out to obtain government contracts.

STRIKE RESPITE:

Steel Accepts Plan

The steel industry's biggest corporations accepted President Truman's 60-day peace plan under protest, thus averting a nationwide steel strike. The fact-finding board, appointed by the president will study the dispute over a fourth round of postwar wage increases and pensions and group insurance—and will make recommendations.

The United States Steel Corporation had asked President Truman to alter his terms for a peace proposal with the United Steelworkers, as a steel strike deadline rushed closer.

The corporation demanded that the president's proposed fact-finding board be given no power to suggest a settlement.

The union threatened to strike against four companies—U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Inland. These firms are against any fact-finding boards outside the Taft-Hartley act.

Phillip Murray's big steel union agreed to a 60-day postponement of the walkout at companies which agreed with the president's proposal. The Taft-Hartley act provides for an inquiry board with no power to make recommendations.

Earlier, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. (D., N. Y.) flayed Benjamin Fairless of United States Steel in a speech before the United Automobile Workers in Milwaukee for not acceding to the president's proposal.

"YARDSTICK"

Cancer Gauger

A "yardstick" for measuring the growth of cancer has been reported discovered.

A simple, quick and inexpensive method of gauging the growth or decline of a cancer was reported by Doctors Phillip West and Jessamine Hilliard of the medical school at the University of California.

The technique is based on an analysis of blood compounds and will measure the effectiveness of curative treatments. It is not a cure itself, nor is it a test for the presence of cancer.

FIRESIDE CHAT:

"Selfish Interests"

President Truman charged in a "fireside chat" to the nation that "selfish interests" are making budget-cut requests which threaten to "blunder" the nation into depression.

In his economic report, Truman assured the nation that it is not in a depression, despite business decline. "Political reasons" lead some people to want depression, he said. He added that depression can be avoided.

He blamed "selfish interests" for the tax cut that congress passed over his veto and for the denial of anti-inflation curbs he requested.

HE FEARED a third great blunder and warned that "to slash government expenditures now would add to the downward trend." He defended his $42,000,000,000 budget for government spending the next 12 months.

He said, "If we follow the wrong budget policy at this time and slash our expenditures, we will decrease employment, cut down investment, weaken our defenses, and injure our efforts for peace."

His speech was seen as a movement to line up popular support for a showdown fight with the economy bloc in congress which is demanding that government spending be cut to income.

He criticized those who say we are in a depression.

"Many of these persons for political reasons would like to have a depression," he said. "Others are saying that there is nothing to worry about and an increase of the number looking for work is a good thing. This attitude ignores the human suffering . . ."

"CONEY ISLAND:"

"Trivialization"

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, demanded that mankind's expanding knowledge be turned toward achievement instead of "trivialization" and formation of a huge "Coney Island."

He spoke at the Goethe Bicentennial Convocation at Aspen, Colo. He said that world catastrophe is inevitable if the "tribal self-adoration, which goes under the name of patriotism continues unchecked."

He asked for a world union of "men of good will" and said that world government is a step in the right direction to avert global suicide. He argued that "communication" with Russia is possible if other nations were sincerely willing to try.

A "moral, intellectual and spiritual revolution is the only thing that will turn the world from a downward course, he argued.

He attacked the "purposelessness" of contemporary living, made more so by technology, and declared that new-gained leisure has been used for meaningless recreations.

Of atomic energy in peace and war he said, "If we have war, we shall be blown to bits; if we have peace we shall be bored to death."

Hutchins compared today's civilization with the fears and hopes expressed by the 18th century humanist, Goethe. The theme of his speech was "Goethe and world unity."

Goethe's dream for the world was that it should be a "world of friends," Hutchins said. He advocated Goethe's "civilization of dialogue."

Injured

Among the injured in the crash of the New York-California airliner that came to grief in the Santa Susana mountains near Chatsworth, Calif., was movie actress Caren Marsh. Latest estimates place the death toll of the crash at 25 with 18 injured. The plane crashed shortly after the pilot radioed that a violent fight was going on in the plane among the passengers.

SCIENCE:

Turbine Aircraft

Research on gas-turbine engines at McGill University, Montreal, may bring about improved flying. A turbine engine is a scientific version of the mill wheel. It has many small blades instead of a few big ones, and instead of water, hot gas is used to push the blades.

THE HOT GAS is produced by a blowtorch in which fuel is burned with the aid of air scooped from the atmosphere and compressed.

Thank God for God!

Lesson for August 7, 1949

WHILE the little children are thanking God for birds and bees and oatmeal, let us grown people rise and offer some adult thanksgivings. Reading the Psalms of praise which are this week before us, we get the impression that these poets were grateful above all not for anything God had given but for God himself. Thank God for God! sings through every line.

Dr. Foreman

Suppose there were no God? He is the Creator of all; without him nothing else can be. The nature of time and space, of molecule and atom and electron, the mighty power that holds all together; the emergence of life, of mind, the possibility of thought, of values, whatever is and whatever can be, is because he wills it so. That there is energy in the atom, light in the sun, refreshment in the rain and power in the lightning—that these things can be and that anything can be, we thank God.

No Unrighteousness in Him

SUPPOSE God were not good? A vast and vicious devil, his immense mind brimming with intelligence and malice, could perhaps have contrived a universe more enormous than this corner of one which is known to us. A creative devil—what pangs he could have invented to torture his creatures!

It may be, indeed, that only on this earth is there rebellion against the Creator, and that elsewhere in God's dominions all is peace. But suppose it were true that all the evil in the world was ordained by some Creative Hatred?—all the goodness in the world only an illusion, a deception?

Suppose it were the intent of some devilish maker of man finally to destroy all his creatures, or worse still, to make every creature long bitterly for death but find none? Let us thank God for God, the God of mercy whose loving kindness endureth forever.

He Knoweth Our Frame

LET us thank God for his providence. He did not create and then forget us, nor give us so much freedom that we could destroy his majesty or bring to naught his mighty plan. Let us thank God for his infinite love and interest that spares and speeds us, his knowledge of our frame, his remembering even the hairs upon our heads. Let us thank God that being infinite he can have a care for the infinitesimal, and that not a sparrow falls to the ground without our heavenly Father. Let us thank God whose care for us is such that without his knowledge not the least of his creatures can fall asleep.

From death and disaster we and the nation and the world have been saved, time and again. Frail is the craft in which the human spirit is launched through this pathless universe; yet it holds, and will hold, because the universe is there by his almighty decree.

In spite of the chaos of men's unruly wills, in spite of we know not what rebellions in the spirit world, he sees to it that not one good is ever wholly lost.

Who Redeemeth Thy Life

LET US PRAISE God for his promise and for his faithfulness. That he has not left us to our sins nor given us up though long we scorned him; that his divine patience outlasts the hasty heart; that he spared not his own Son but freely gave him for our sakes; that none who come to him will be cast out; that the God who creates is the God who redeems, we praise him from a heart of love. As the Psalmist of old knew himself as one of the children of the Covenant, so may every man who takes God's promises and makes them his heart's own.

To take this God for my God—this is the beginning and the end of religion. To step out on his promises as on a bridge that stands secure above all the floods of eternity.

To trust his faithfulness though all the race of man were liars; to look down the vista of the years without fear, knowing that the God of our fathers will be the God of each succeeding race, that his mercy is everlasting to everlasting and that his kingdom ruleth over all—this is to know him, and this is life eternal. Thank God for God!

Years Catch the Fastest Athlete

By GRANTLAND RICE

Raw Speed

You speak of the speed of Coaltown, or the speed Citation knows.

You speak of the speed of the western gale when the young tornado blows.

But there's only one speed that matters, wherever the simooms rage, and that is the speed of the flying years that turns youth into age.

What Are Reflexes?

"Just what," writes L. M. P., "are the reflexes you and other sporting experts (thanks) write about? Are they physical or mental? Why should they affect an old-timer more than a younger fellow? Why are they so important? I would think that a veteran would have better reflexes than a younger fellow."

Reflexes are merely team play between mind and muscle. For example years ago, I was talking with Jack Dempsey.

Grantland Rice

Jack was then about through. "I know I'm as strong as I used to be," he said. "I know I can hit as hard. I know I still can take a punch as well. But I'll tell you what makes me sore. I see a punch starting. I know where it's headed for. Six or seven years ago my chin or my head would be out of the way instinctively. But today too many of these punches hit me. Even the sucker punches.

"There's another angle," Jack said. "Six or seven years ago when I spotted an opening, my fist swung in that split second. Today when I see an opening it disappears by the time my fist gets in motion. It is either blocked or it has moved out of the way. I don't believe many people know what this means to a fighter. It is only a matter of a split second. Maybe a fifth of a second. But it happens that way as you get older. The message from your eye or your mind travels slower to the muscle. Not much slower. But a fifth of a second means a lot."

There probably never was a better instinctive puncher or fighter than Dempsey when he was at his peak. Or during those days when Dempsey was hungry.

You might think that as you get older the message from eye or mind to muscle would travel faster. It doesn't. As you get older nothing travels faster except the years. The only detail an athlete picks up as he grows older is experience.

When Louis was working, after a fashion, against Joe Walcott, he would stalk the Jersey retriater and catch up with him. Then do nothing. Ten years ago, he would have knocked out Walcott in the first round, for Louis was a fast, hard puncher. But after his 10 or 11 years in the ring, Louis' reflexes were shot. He could see his opening but by the time he had the blow under way, Walcott would be out of reach.

The same thing happens to ball-players. The hitters can no longer follow the pitch and get the bat working in time. Notice how many veterans are called out on that third strike.

Ted Williams has the best set of reflexes in baseball. Ted can swing a bat on a fifth of a second's notice—when the pitch is only 20 or 30 feet away. You don't believe this is true? Ask Bill Dickey, who caught back of Williams for some years.

On Being Hungry

For several weeks inhabitants of various wayside inns around the world have been telling me this story. It concerns Walter (Good Time Charlie) Friedman, Carnera's original importer.

Good Time Charlie's dream is now to locate a seven-foot chinaman or a seven-foot Zulu—one of those who can high jump eight or nine feet. We questioned him about it recently and discovered Good Time Charlie feels that he has the answer to the next heavyweight champion.

"I'd keep him hungry," Charlie says. "I'd get him and starve him. The trouble with fighters today they are too well fed. They have been able to make a good living outside of the ring. They eat too much."

"Jack Dempsey was hungry when he was at his best. Tunney needed money when he forced himself to train for Dempsey. Joe Louis was hungry when he broke in. Willard was hungry when he started after Jack Johnson. Hungry guys are hard to lick."

"That's what's the matter with white fighters today," Good Time Charlie continued. "They are fat and overfed. So they have no ambition. Most of them can make good money without fighting."

"A well-fed man seems to have nothing to fight for."

Chiang's Friends Helpful

SIX state department stenographers were kept busy last week retyping and toning down the American white paper on China. Hastily censored out were allegations labeling certain relatives of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as crooks.

Inside reason for these sudden changes was a long and continuing argument between secretary of state Acheson and secretary of defense Louis Johnson. For three months Johnson had been building a bonfire under the state department urging it to support Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang.

Johnson is a personal friend and former attorney for Dr. H. H. Kung, brother-in-law of the generalissimo and reputedly one of the world's wealthiest men. At cabinet meetings, at super-secret meetings of the national security council, Johnson constantly, continually needed Acheson.

For a long time there was no result. In fact, when Acheson returned from the Paris conference, he ordered his staff to work out a new blue print for American-Chinese relations which was to be strongly anti-Chiang.

Acheson Outvoted

That blue print was placed before the national security council. After a vigorous debate the vote went against Acheson—about 5 to 1. Those voting no were Johnson, the treasury department and heads of the armed services. They favored continued support for Chiang Kai-shek's regime no matter how graft-ridden.

Swinging the decision against Acheson were two factors:

1. A statement by Mao Tse-tung, leader of Red China, that he was a Moscow-loving Communist;
2. First indications that Chinese Reds planned rough treatment for American personnel, as later proved by the beating up of U.S. Vice Consul William Olive.

Instead of Acheson's proposed hands-off policy, the joint chiefs of staff recommended a ring of defenses around Red China. This ring will consist of the Japan-Formosa-Philippines island chain, plus Siam, Burma, India and one small part of south China where Chiang Kai-shek will be defended to the last ditch.

General MacArthur has cabled his vigorous support of this general idea—which, incidentally, will cost a large and so far unestimated amount of money.

Pegler Probe

Young Congressman Jack Kennedy of Boston was elected as a fighting, aggressive champion of labor. He is also the son of Joseph P. Kennedy, ex-ambassador to London, an admirer of columnist Westbrook Pegler.

And when Pegler called labor leaders "despots, criminals and Communists" at a congressional hearing, young Kennedy resigned from the subcommittee, after first protesting the manner in which Chairman Andrew Jacobs of Indianapolis was grilling Pegler.

"Why don't you let somebody else ask some questions?" asked Kennedy. "Representative Sims (S.C.) would like to ask a few."

"You've got your ideas and I've got mine," shot back Jacobs. "You'll get your turn after I get through."

New York Politics

Former Gov. Herbert Lehman and New York boss Ed Flynn have been playing cat-and-mouse over who will run for Bob Wagner's senate seat.

They held two secret huddles, during which Flynn tried to get Lehman to announce immediately. Flynn didn't say so but, if Lehman announced right away, the way would be clear for Flynn's friend, Brooklyn Borough President John Cashmore, to be Democratic candidate for mayor of the world's largest city.

Lehman, however, knows he'll have a tough fight to win the senate seat in November, so he wants a strong candidate on the ticket with him for mayor—and not John Cashmore. That is why he refused to announce until assured who his running mate will be.

New Fashion Ideas Freshen Wardrobe

By Ertta Haley

NEED some sparkle for the wardrobe? A slight amount of remodeling, a bit of new trimming, or a flash of color will rescue many clothes from their route to the back end of the closet.

Some women feel that it is simply not in their power to create a practically new garment from an old one, even though they sew well. It's a matter of imagination, they say, and leave it to those who obviously have some creative talent.

True, imagination is a good thing to have when renewing the wardrobe, but it's dispensable with all the aids we have on hand. You may need just a quick look at what the stores are showing, a glance at some of the new styles and a session with a pattern book.

A sense of what is fitting, however, is essential. If you do any sewing, you understand about fitting. Even if you always buy

Patio Costume

Rustling cotton taffeta with a moire finish makes its appearance on the style horizon in a sophisticated costume for resort wear. Carolyn Schnurer designs a strapless bodice and a separate wrap-around skirt with fullness concentrated at the side. Over it she poses a triangular stole. The costume also bids for future honors at home in the winter evening scene as well as for summer.

Change Plain Dresses With Neckline or Color

Every once in a while we look at a dress and wonder how we could ever have chosen something so plain or severe. This is easily remedied.

Lace yokes are being used extensively on the new fashions and may be readily inserted on a plain dress which would give it the proper background.

Patterns for yokes may be purchased either as such, or they may be part of a dress or blouse pattern which intrigues you. Use only the yoke for the old dress.

These yokes may also be made in sheers or contrasting solid colors, if you prefer them to lace. Whatever fabric is chosen, it should be in keeping or good contrast to the dress material.

Plain dresses can be given the scoop necklines with little alteration, and then be worn with some of the luxurious new costume jewelry.

For a softly feminine change to a plain dress, you might like to bare the neckline more, which would be in keeping with new fashion trends. Then add a ruffle for trimming, and use some of it on the flap pockets at hips, or on the sleeves.

Another idea for adding dash to a plain dress in the classic style would be to use plaid ruffling for a plunging type neckline, with similar ruffling for the sleeve trim as well as the skirt ruffle, especially where extra length is needed.

Many dresses can be made entirely new looking with the addition of a bolero in a gay and contrasting shade when the original dress is dark.

Avoid Boredom in Marriage

ANNE AND Alan Wilson are a deadly bored with their marriage, and just about have decided to break it up. Nothing is specifically wrong, and everything is wrong.

"Alan is a smart man," writes Anne, "and I'm stupid; I know it. I'm a good cook, I keep my apartment clean and comfortable, but I can't talk politics or business; when I try to, Alan just looks at me patiently and looks back at his newspaper, without any comment."

"We have two children; I know we both adore them, I know we'd both die for them. But living with a stubborn, spirited boy of 4 and a delicate girl of 6 is something else. Alan and I are both nervous people, and the children naturally are nervous, too. There is a good deal of crying and disobedience in a sort of nursery way; not scenes and beatings and loud voices, but difficulties in getting them to go off to bed, or Alan asking 'What on earth is Shirley crying about now?'"

"We try to control our nerves, but we don't seem to be talking the same language these days. Alan showers, dresses, goes off to business; I don't see him again until six o'clock and then he hardly speaks. Then it's the newspaper, radio, dinner, and he is either 'dead tired' and goes to bed, or he is going 'over to Joe's for a minute.' All wives, busy with dishes, homework, mending, know that 'minute.'

"Long for life, vitality, interest, occupation," Anne ends her letter. "I'm doing my job as well as I can, but it's not enough for me. It's not enough for Alan. These

They bought "Hideaway" for $5,000. A tumbledown white cottage, an acre of apple trees, five great oaks and a stream. Yes, and it was at the end of a train and a bus trip, for Jim, with half a mile of country road at the end of that, and there was a wood stove in the kitchen, dangling electric lights of the 1900 period in the rooms, and the bathtub was tin. But—

Well, you ought to see it now. Paint and glass and a floor furnace have done wonders.

The Sandersons eat their own tomatoes and corn and fruit all summer. Winter mud for the car and summer dust—well, of course.

But there are three hard, noisy, sunburned big boys on the place now, in the place of coughing little fellows from the city, and they help. There are a man and a woman there now, discussing changes and improvements and plans, living every moment.

Make a change, Anne. Give the children country freedom and their nerves and rebellions will disappear like mist.

Sketched here is one of the newer ideas of this quaint revival, a raglan sleeve, convertible collar combination with flap pockets that repeat the line of the turn-back cuffs. It's especially adapted to the heavier weave of linen because of its unusual tailoring details. You'll want to be sure the buttons are handsome such as large smoked pearl affairs that repeat the overtones of the popular natural colored linen.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Guilt Feeling Makes Duffers

By Lawrence Gould

Can a sense of guilt make you miss golf shots?

Answer: Yes, although you probably don't realize it. After struggling with the elusive game for forty years I am convinced that when you miss a two-foot putt, a guilty conscience is the explanation. For success at golf (or any other sport) implies you're doing two things, both of which are "wicked" from a childish standpoint: proving how "good" you are, and getting the better of someone else. The more you want to do either, the more childish memories of being told you mustn't tend to make you flinch and punish yourself by "missing."

in the true sense, in which happiness means more than egotistic pleasure, "Only the happy man is good." Educating children to serve the state rather than teaching them to live so as to realize their own best possibilities marks the difference between Nazism and democracy.

Is it sometimes good for you to be "shocked"?

Answer: Yes, write Drs. Leland Bradford and Paul Sheats of the National Education Association in the magazine, Society. Training supervisors often fail because the trainee has a "vested interest" in certain types of behavior and does not know how to deal with any others. He should be "shocked out of his complacency" and made to realize that his standards are not universally accepted. Finding someone you respect has tastes or habits you were taught to disapprove of may help you to concentrate on things that really matter.

HAPPINESS

Should happiness be the goal of education?

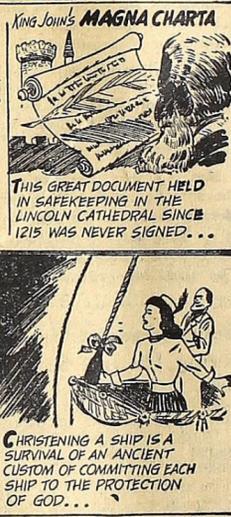

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Herman Noll of Goettingen University, Germany. True education does not ask how useful the pupil will be to the job for which he is being trained, but how useful the training will be to him in helping him become a happy human being. For

Surgery Relieves Profound Grief

By Dr. James W. Barton

I WRITE FREQUENTLY about the operation lobotomy or leukotomy, used in cases of deep grief and depression. It certainly causes a great change in the individual's outlook on life and is of great comfort and relief to the family.

When this operation was first reported, all that was hoped for was the relief from the great depression of spirits. The fact that these patients, in losing their depression, often lost their sense of responsibility did not seem very important. When further reports showed that some of these patients who had undergone operation were able to return home and be of some use to themselves and to the household, it was more than had been expected.

In "Lancet," London, Dr. G. Garmany reports the results of leukotomy present in 59 patients, three years after operation. Leukotomy proved successful in half of the 22 patients with depression, and also in half of the 10 patients with double personality (the Dr. Jekyll-and-Mr. Hyde type.) Why was there an improvement in some and not in others having the same symptoms and undergoing the same operation?

Dr. Garmany states that operation alone is not responsible for all the improvement obtained. Improvement also depends on the home environment or surroundings.

In depression a naturally good personality, never affected by fears, doubts, emotional disturbances, and of average intelligence, is absolutely necessary if good results are to be expected. Where the patient has always been affected with illusions, delusions, obsessions or other types of odd behavior, good results may be, but are usually not, obtained by leukotomy.

The thought here is that while leukotomy relieves grief and depression in most cases, restoring the mind and the emotions to normal depends to a great extent upon the personality of the individual during his lifetime and also upon his family and community surroundings.

HEALTH NOTES

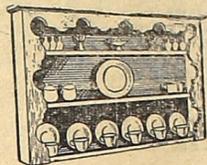

When symptoms point to lack of vitamins, eating enough of the protective foods will bring relief. The protective foods are milk, butter, cream, cheese, fruits and green vegetables.

Physicians suggest that all patients with severe sciatica and low back pain should be put to bed for one month.

Of 100 children examined with rheumatic fever, 33 per cent had mild inflammation (gingivitis) of the gums. Of 100 normal children, only four per cent had gingivitis.

Another reason why the diet should contain less sugar is that it kills the desire for other foods just as necessary as sugar or other starch foods.

Hold Temper in Court

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

May a Person Lose His Temper in a Courtroom?

A carpenter and his neighbor had an argument about the ownership of a dog, and the dispute was finally taken to court. When the neighbor took the witness stand, he was asked whether he honestly believed the dog was his. He replied: "Positively yes!" Enraged, the carpenter seized a stick and smacked his adversary across the cheek! The victim promptly filed a damage claim against the hot-headed carpenter. The latter pleaded that the neighbor's answer "made me mad," but the court decided that wasn't a very good excuse. Holding the carpenter liable, the judge said that such fiery displays of temper have no place in a court of justice.

A widow, in poor health, liked to take occasional rests by visiting her married daughter. These visits, which would occur about once a year, usually lasted several weeks. The daughter's husband raised no objections, but quietly kept a written record of the cost of each stay. When the widow died, the husband put in a special claim against her estate for "services rendered." However, the court rejected his claim, on the ground that such "services normally are presumed to be gratis."

A wooden chest, evidently lost from a passing ship, was washed up onto the seashore property of a retired captain. A beachcomber noticed the chest, liked it, and hauled it to his cottage. When the captain found out what had occurred, he sued the beachcomber for the value of the chest. The latter argued that neither of them really owned it—so the first finder could keep it. However, the court upheld the captain's claim. The judge said that the owner of the seashore property has prior rights.

Is Shaving a "Necessity" In the Eyes of the Law?

A certain town passed a "Blue Law" which prohibited all labor on Sundays except for "works of necessity." One Saturday night, a man went to the barber shop for a shave. However, before his turn came he became ill and had to go home. The next morning, at his special request, the barber went to his shop and gave the man a shave. Someone reported the incident to the police, and the barber was arrested. He argued that, under the circumstances, the Sunday shave was a "necessity." But the court couldn't see it that way and found him guilty. The judge said the customer wouldn't have been any worse off if he hadn't gotten his shave until Monday!

five small rooms are as modern, as well-equipped as any in the world, I suppose; we don't like taxes and rising prices, but we aren't in debt. There should be a good many things for us to talk about, after nine years of marriage. But apparently there aren't.

"Now the questions I want to ask you are these: Do you often hear of a situation like this? Is it my fault or Alan's? Would a psychoanalyst help us? I'm 30, Alan 34; we can't go on for 40 years like this. Can you help us?"

My answers to these questions are yes, I often hear of this situation, it arises in many marriages. No, I wouldn't go to a psychoanalyst. In your case that would be money thrown away. And yes, it is your fault and Alan's both, although it isn't an easy one to see.

In the first place, Anne, you're not stupid. No stupid woman ever wrote a letter like this. You're simply bogged down in a rut that has involved Alan and the children, too. Five city rooms, year out and year in, aren't too healthy an environment for two small children. Five city rooms doesn't afford much scope for your imagination or activity, either. Five city rooms aren't restful when a man gets home from eight hours in a close office.

Stars' Children Take to Stage

They Seek Careers Like Their Parents

HOLLYWOOD.—School is out in Hollywood and the movie stars' sprigs are getting summer jobs. As movie stars, of course.

Gloria Swanson's daughter is talking about a screen test; Charlie Chaplin's son is starring in a play; John Barrymore's boy is sweating over his movie debut. Even Judy Garland's baby is a movie veteran.

To old-timers in Hollywood, this looks like where they came in.

Joan Bennett's daughter is testing for one of the biggest parts in her mother's new picture, produced by her stepfather, Harold Lloyd says Harold, Jr., will be in his next comedy.

"His sisters think he's very funny," Lloyd said. "They never laugh at me. Oh, the trials of being a father."

John Barrymore, Jr., a 17-year-old copy of the great profile, is earning $150 a week for the first acting he's ever done.

"The ham came out in me when I was 15," young Barrymore says. "I took a walk and looked at the stars a long time. All of a sudden I knew I had to be an actor."

He's trying to see all his famous father's pictures now, he added. He'd previously seen only "The Invisible Woman."

Sydney Chaplin, Charlie's 22-year-old son, is a big hit in the "Circle Players" "Anna Lucasta." He's been acting with them a couple of years and says he'll do his first movie when they make one.

"My dad's very proud of me," he allowed. "He never misses a show."

Fifteen-year-old Melinda Markey has talked her stepfather, Walter Wanger, into testing her for the part of Rebecca in "The Ballad and The Source," which will star her mother, Miss Bennett.

"I've always wanted to be an actress like my mother," she said. She was hoping to debut on the stage this summer, she added, until the family decided to take her to Italy where the picture will be made.

Gloria Swanson's daughter, Michele Bridget Farmer, 17, has been talking with producers about screen tests ever since her mother introduced her around. She hasn't anything definite yet.

Protect Against Heat

During Harvest Season

With high temperatures during the rush of the harvest season, county agricultural agent Harold R. Clark warns farmers to guard against heatstroke and sun stroke.

Sunstroke results from prolonged exposure to the rays of the sun. Heatstroke may result from excessive heat without exposure to the sun. The effects are the same in both cases. Some of the symptoms that may appear are: hot and dry skin, face red and flushed, high temperature, intense headache, breathing hard and loud, and pupils enlarged but of equal size. Unconsciousness may follow in severe cases.

The following suggestions are recommended for treatment when an individual is stricken with sunstroke or heatstroke.

1. Move to a cool shady place, strip to the underclothing, lay on back with head and shoulders raised.
  2. Apply ice or cold cloths to head, cool the body gradually. Gently rub limbs toward the heart.
  3. After several minutes treatment observe patient. If skin becomes hot again, resume treatment.
  4. If conscious, give cool drinks, not ice cold. Do not give stimulants.
  5. Get the patient to a physician as soon as possible. Continue treatment on the way.
- With heat exhaustion, the patient is cold and clammy, unlike sunstroke. With heat exhaustion, he should be kept in a reclined position, given salt, and made warm.

How can independently-owned such low prices everyday?

Here's the answer:

It's really very simple. Your IGA store enjoys all the advantages of volume buying resulting from his combined purchases with thousands of other IGA members across the country. Then, too, your IGA retailer has learned the secret of efficient, low-cost store operation... which makes it possible for him to work on a lower margin of profit.

Wash Water
It has been suggested that 160 degree water will wash clothes cleaner than 140 degree water. Tests at the Virginia Polytechnic institute have yielded this statement: "A temperature of 160 degrees for wash water gives best cleaning results, but 140 degrees is nearly as good and is recommended because it is more economical to maintain in the water heating equipment. Temperatures above 170 degrees are not recommended except where boiling is done to sterilize white clothes."

DAIRY NOTES

by Harold R. Clark, County Agricultural Agent

CORNY—BUT TRUE

Corn, ahead this year of its usual growth for August, can well supply green feed to supplement aging pastures. Thrown over the fence, much feed is trampled as the cows race for the ears. Ground through a field chopper or silo cutter and fed in the manger or bunk, the whole plant is made available.

COMING THRU WITH RYE
Now is the time to plant Balbo rye for fall pasture and for early next spring. Balbo rye is preferred by cows to the common rye. And it does not taint the milk. The Crops Department, M. S. C., advises seeding at the rate of five to six pecks per acre, if sowed alone. Use two pecks per acre when seeding alfalfa and brome and (maybe) ladino. Ed. Smiley, M. S. C. herdsman, is very enthusiastic about the pasture Balbo rye furnished the College cows this year.

SUN-BATH??

A cow is not Bathing Beauty. She'd rather loaf in the shade than fry her hide in old Sol's rays. If your pasture lacks natural shade, can't you open up a shed for the comfort of your cows. It will mean milk in the pail.

REED'S CANARY
...August one to tenth is the ideal time to plant Reed's Canary grass. Planted later than the 10th the plants may not get well enough established before winter may winter-kill. Sow only on ground that is wet, even swampy. Fit the seed bed if at all possible. Sow 6-8 pounds per acre.

Cog Railways

The first cog railway in the world, planned in the early 1850s, still operates to the 6,288-foot summit of Mount Washington, New Hampshire. It became a reality in 1869, when its engine with tilted boiler first chugged to the top. Called the highest scenic mountain railway in the world is the 57-year-old cog road to the 14,110-foot crest of Pikes Peak, Colo. It converted from steam to diesel-electric power two years ago.

WONDERFUL NEIGHBOR

by HOMER CROY

Homer Croy blinked back tears as he drove along the country road amid the scenes of his childhood. An older, wiser man, he was going home—a prodigal son of northwest Missouri returning to places that revived memories. He remembered happy times with the Kennedys—Newt, the kindest man he had ever known; Mrs. Kennedy; their son, Harlan, his childhood playmate. As he inspected the Kennedy "manion," now a dingy and drafty ghost out of his past, he recalls the painful "welcome home" party Newt gave for the Delinskys, the "foreigners" who had just purchased the 40-acre farm behind the poor farm.

CHAPTER III

Newt grew more and more uneasy; plainly he had made a mistake.

"I guess we'd better begin," he said as if it were a funeral. "Lucy, can you favor us with a selection?"

Of course she could! That was the very moment she had been waiting for. She came out, made what we considered a graceful bow and said, "I will endeavor to recite 'Captain Jenks,'" then began:

I'm Captain Jenks of the Horse Marines,
I feed my horse on corn and beans.

In a moment we were all laughing, for no one knew better than we did what to feed a horse; how we clapped when she finished! But Mr. and Mrs. Delinsky sat unsmiling, staring straight ahead.

"What about music?" asked Newt.

The musicians took their fiddles out of their pillowcases and our guitar player unwrapped his guitar. Chairs and tables, everything cleared out now and the musicians placed near the middle door so the music could be heard in all rooms.

The caller-out said we'd open with "Miller Boy." Grandpa said "we us to dance 'Ol Dan Tucker.'" Heels flew, skirts swung.

This had an amazing effect on the gloomy Delinskys. Instead of staring straight ahead, they began to watch the dancers. Back and forth and around and around the dancers flung; the floor rocked, the house shook. Then a very strange thing happened. Mr. Delinsky began to tap his foot.

Newt went over, seized Mrs. Delinsky and said: "Come on!"

She grabbed her husband as if Newt was about to harm her. Mr. Delinsky said something guttural and Mrs. Delinsky got up obediently. The result was pretty bad. Mrs. Delinsky's strange, endless skirts swung, but always in the wrong way; and always she turned in the wrong direction.

Mrs. Delinsky came, finally, and said something to her husband. He got up slowly—didn't pop up the way she did—and joined the dancers. He swung in the wrong direction, too, and bumped into people; but, little by little, began to catch on as the beat and rhythm of the dance took hold of him. And of Mrs. Delinsky and Lizzie and soon they were sashaying forward and bowing to their partners.

"Swing Josie," said the caller-out. Finally Delinsky smiled; after a while he let out a yip! which made everybody laugh. We held their arms and we shined in the right direction. I'd like to say they were good dancers, but they were not. However, they did enjoy it, and so did we.

When eating time came the Delinskys plunged in, not bashful now. We found they could talk better than we thought. When they got stuck, Lizzie helped them out. Suddenly, without a word or invitation, Mr. and Mrs. Delinsky stood up and began to sing; the song had something to do with eating, for they would say a few words, pretend to take a bite of cookie, then sing again. It was all so new, so strange, that we clapped and urged them for more. But they sat down, looking self-conscious, as if afraid they'd been too bold. We were beginning to like them.

The odor of cookies and cakes filled the house, and there was cold fried chicken, sage sausage and cider; Ida and Lucy went here and there with dishpansful of popcorn. People in every room; men sitting on the floor. There was lots to eat. Hm!

When it was time to go Mrs. Delinsky went in and got the baby, then handed it to Delinsky to hold while she put on her overshoes. Delinsky looked so funny with his beard and with the baby no bigger than a summer squash that everybody smiled. Delinsky lit his lantern and we followed the Delinskys to their two-wheeled wagon; when the wagon pulled out we were all standing there, waving and calling to them.

Post-Mortem on

The Delinsky Party

After all had gone, we sat around talking about the party and how much fun it had been; especially about the Delinskys. They were peculiar; there was no doubt of that. But kind of likable. Newt was concerned with Delinsky as a farmer. For Newt judged everybody by his farming. If you were not a good farmer you were nobody.

"I don't think he can ever make it," said Newt. "He'll crop out. You can't farm with one horse on forty acres."

"Maybe he'll be able to get another horse and more land," said Mrs. Kennedy.

Newt shook his head. You were a born farmer, or you weren't.

Newt shook down the base-burner and poured coal in the top. The party had been wonderful. It was too bad about the Delinskys going to crop out.

The last day of the term was the biggest, the most exciting day of the school year, for it was Exercises Day. The day our parents came to see if we had learned anything. It was exciting for the teacher, too, for if she hadn't pounded anything into our heads, she wouldn't get her job back in the fall.

There is the school house—I can see it this minute! It still stands. The Knabb School. It still has one room; corn comes up on all sides. Osage hedge grows around it. It is white; never in my life, in this section, did I ever see a school-house of any other color.

There was a coal house and there was a cyclone cave and an iron pump; the iron pump had a hook made out of baling wire and on this hung the school tin cup. We all drank out of that cup.

He walks up in front, agony on his face, and stands a moment, gazing out over the scholars.

The big day came in May. Usually, on the way to school of a morning, we whooped and yelled but today on the Last Day. All dressed up not only, no "prisoner's base," no "burn out," which was our baseball game.

The girls looked awesome rigged out in their dresses. And we boys were so stiff and formal and tongue-tied in our Sunday clothes we could think of hardly anything to say to the girls we'd been going to school with all year. Now and then we'd say, "Hello" just to show we hadn't gone completely daft. Then the girl would say, "Hello" and that would end the conversation.

Everybody Is Very Polite—Today

We'd decorated the schoolroom till it looked awesome, too. There was a vase of flowers on the teacher's desk and there were so many pussy-willows and cattails that an Indian could have crept from one end of the room to the other without being seen by a paleface. Well, almost.

The teacher always kept her switches on two nails over the blackboard. But today they came down. No one was going to be fool enough today to be licked. Besides, the switches didn't seem to fit into the fine excitement of this last day of school. But next year those switches'd be back there again on the nails, right before our eyes every hour of the day.

We sit there stiff and formal; now and then a child giggles. But we don't encourage him. No monkey business today. Hours pass. At least it seems hours. Dinnertime comes. We get down our buckets from the shelves in the rear of the room and sit around politely and eat. Fried chicken. Always fried chicken on the last day of school. One by one we get up and put the bones in the coal bucket.

Lizzie Delinsky gets down her brown parcel. We smile superiorly. We go out and play as sedately as preachers; no base sliding and clothes grabbing today; nobody is patted in the back with the ball. No boy tells another he is going to knock his block off. The girls go in and out of their little building as dignifiedly as bees in and out of a hive.

The teacher comes to the door and rings the bell. A little sadness here, for we know it is for the last time. We walk in as solemnly as mourners. Not one boy tries to trip another; not a girl has her hair yanked.

"Oh!" says the teacher. "We forgot to empty the coal scuttle. Harlan."

Harlan gets up and takes the bucket and tosses the bones over the fence into Mr. Knabb's pasture.

Then puts the bucket in the coal house. Everything has to be nice today.

Bertha Scott holds up her hand. "Teacher, the flag over George Washington is crooked."

"Won't you please arrange it correctly, Bertha?"

Bertha marches forward and swings the flag into position. "Thank you, Bertha."

"You're quite welcome, I'm sure." Ordinarily the teacher would have said, "Fix it, please."

And Bertha would have mumbled something that sounded like "Elcome."

But not today. Everybody is tremendously polite.

Arch Willhoite holds up his hand. "Teacher, Roan is about to get his bridle off."

"You may go and fix it."

Arch races out and fixes the bridle. Then pumps himself a drink. We hear him throw the ground with a splash the water he doesn't drink. We all immediately get thirsty.

At last we see them coming—our fathers and mothers and the school directors—coming down the road, some walking, some driving. Mrs. Gerilda Knabb in her sidesaddle. They're dressed up, too. Everything grows more terrifying. And the worst is yet to come. We've got to take part in the exercises. Somebody is going to just about die. And I know who it is.

We hear their feet on the platform outside; they knock as if this were a private house.

The teacher goes to the door and swings it wide. "Oh, how do you do! Please come right in. We're so pleased to have you. We're delighted, aren't we, children?"

"Yes," we peep.

In a moment our guests are stiffly seated. We stare at them as if they were the Northern Lights.

Newt is head director and has on his Sunday clothes and Congress shoes. He looks solemn, for he has Responsibilities.

More people come; the people nod to each other; it would hardly do to call out to each other any more than it would in church.

There is a rattling sound and we look out. It is the Delinskys in their two-wheeled cart drawn by the horse with the big hames. They come in, babies and all, not knowing parents were not supposed to bring infants to the Last Day. People squeeze over and make room; again the Delinskys sit just as they had at the Welcome Party. They seemed not to have learned anything.

Stretched across the room, from wall to wall, is a mysterious curtain. The teacher gets up to deliver her welcome speech. She's just about scared to death, too. Our fathers and mothers study her. . . . they are thinking, "Has she made good this year? Do we want her back?"

She tells what good children we have been. We grow popteyed, for she has whaled some of us. Ah yes! "And now the scholars will endeavor to render one of our musical selections," she says politely.

She steps out in front of us and we begin to hawk and clear our throats. She raises her pointer, down it comes, up go our voices. We don't get off quite together. She smiles as if it wasn't anything. "Again, children." Now we are all off together, exactly right; pretty soon we get warmed up and make the pussy-willows shake.

The parents clap politely. Mustn't overdo it just because they are our children. Our parents didn't believe in being "foolish" over us; the Puritan influence.

"And now," says the teacher, "the 'Birdies' Ball'."

We tear into that; the robins, hopping around in the yard, stare up into our windows as if they'd never heard of a birdies' ball.

Newt's hand goes into his pocket; out come some notes. Can it be possible he is getting nervous—Newt who, to me, always seemed so self-possessed and sure of himself? But, for that matter, I didn't know that grown people ever felt jumpy and unsure of themselves. I thought it was just us children who had moments.

Newt Kennedy

Makes a Speech

The teacher says, "And now we are going to be honored by a speech from our Head Director, Mr. Newt Kennedy."

Newt gets up to make the Head Director's speech; this has to be done every year to show that the directors take an interest in the school.

He walks up in front, agony on his face, and stands a moment, gazing out over the scholars. There is pain in his eyes. I feel sorry for him and in my imagination I suffer with him. He puts his hand in his pocket, then pulls his hand out and places it behind his back. He swallows and I—following him so intently, so sympathetically—swallow, too.

He clears his throat. "Teacher and scholars of Knabb School." Pausing, he pulls a raveling out of his pocket. It falls on the floor. He continues.

Make Pleasant Work of Canning Relishes

(See Recipes Below)

Savory Relish
RELISHES go with meals just as easily as some foods team together. What's a sandwich without crisp pickles, or peanut butter without jelly? Doesn't a meat platter look bare without spiced peaches? What's a hamburger without chili sauce or catsup?

If you answer these questions favorably, you probably are planning to stock your canning cupboard with a variety of these relishes, for they are just as much a part of your food supply as are fruits and vegetables.

There's little chance of failure if you follow recipes because spices and vinegar are a preservative and make success easy.

HERE'S A FAVORITE pickle which you'll want to make, especially if there are lots of sandwiches made at your home:

- Chunk Pickles
(Makes 8 pints)
- 25 large (about 6 pounds) cucumbers
  - 3/4 cups salt
  - 3 quarts water
  - 2 tablespoons alum
  - 1 quart vinegar
  - 8 cups sugar
  - 2 2-inch sticks cinnamon
  - 2 blades mace
  - 1 tablespoon whole cloves

Wash cucumbers; place in a stone crock or jar; cover with cold brine made by dissolving salt in water; let stand for two weeks. Remove cucumbers from brine; wash and trim off stems. Cut cross-wise, into one-inch pieces. Cover with cold water; add alum and let stand overnight. Drain and wash well. Combine remaining ingredients and bring them to a boil. Pour immediately over cucumber chunks and let stand. Repeat this process for three mornings, reheating the syrup each morning, place cucumbers in sterile jars. Pour hot syrup over them and seal at once.

- Chili Sauce
(Makes 4 pints)
- 10 pounds red tomatoes
  - 1 quart chopped sweet red peppers
  - 1 cup finely chopped white onions
  - 1 quart sugar
  - 2 tablespoons salt
  - 5 cups vinegar
  - 1 teaspoon mustard
  - 1 teaspoon ground cloves
  - 1 teaspoon nutmeg
  - 1 teaspoon celery seed

Scald tomatoes, remove skins and cut out cores. Wash peppers, remove seeds and dividing membranes. Put all through food chopper. Add all remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Boil for two hours, stirring frequently to prevent burning, until thick. As soon as the sauce is of desired consistency, pour into sterile jars and seal.

LYNN SAYS:
Observe These Tips For Crisp Pickles

Salt used in making pickles should be of good quality, with not too much chemical added to it to prevent caking. Table or dairy salt, such as is used in flavoring butter, is good to use.

In making sweet pickles, do not place them in too heavy a syrup or they will shrivel. The vinegar solution should not be too strong, either, at first or the pickle will shrink.

- LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU
- Fried Pork Sausage
  - Potato Salad
  - Sliced Tomatoes
  - Pickles
  - Rolls
  - Butter
  - Beverage
  - Grapes
  - Sugar Cookies

- Spiced Peaches
(Makes 4 1/2 quarts)
- 10 pounds clingstone peaches
  - 3 3/4 pounds sugar (7 1/2 cups)
  - 5 cups vinegar
  - 4 teaspoons whole cloves
  - 3 sticks cinnamon
  - 4 teaspoons whole allspice

Choose ripe but firm, medium-sized peaches. Place sugar and vinegar in a saucepan and heat to boiling. In the meantime, slip the skins off the peaches by dipping them in hot water for a minute or two, then in cold water. Stick two or three cloves in each peach. Tie remaining cloves, cinnamon and allspice loosely in a cheesecloth bag and drop this into the boiling syrup. Add 8 to 10 peaches and cook until tender. Place peaches in sterile jars and cover with lids but do not seal. When all the peaches are done, pour hot syrup into each of the jars to within 1/2 inch of the top. Seal at once.

PLUM CATSUP is an excellent relish to use with meats and fowl.

Plum Catsup
(Makes 5 pints)

- 5 pounds plums, pitted and chopped
- 1/2 pound tart green apples, peeled and quartered
- 2 cups vinegar
- 4 cups brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon mace
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cook plums and apples in vinegar until soft enough to put through a sieve. Add remaining ingredients and simmer until as thick as desired. Pour into sterile jars and seal at once.

- Ripe Grape Jam
(Makes 12 6-ounce glasses)
- 5 1/2 cups prepared fruit
  - 7 cups sugar
  - 1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, slip skins from three pounds fully ripe grapes. Add one cup water to the pulp, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, for five minutes. Remove seeds with sieve. Grind skins and add to pulp. Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Place measured fruit into a five or six-quart saucepan, filling the last fraction of a cup with water, if necessary. Place over hottest fire and add fruit pectin; mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard one minute. Remove from fire, skim and pour into sterile glasses. Paraffin hot jam at once.

In making catsups, use a low heat and stir frequently to prevent the mixture from burning.

Food choppers may be used for catsups, sauces and relishes for cutting vegetables and fruits easily.

Cider vinegar is most frequently used for pickling since many people like its mellow flavor. Light vinegar may be used for pickling light colored fruits and vegetables.

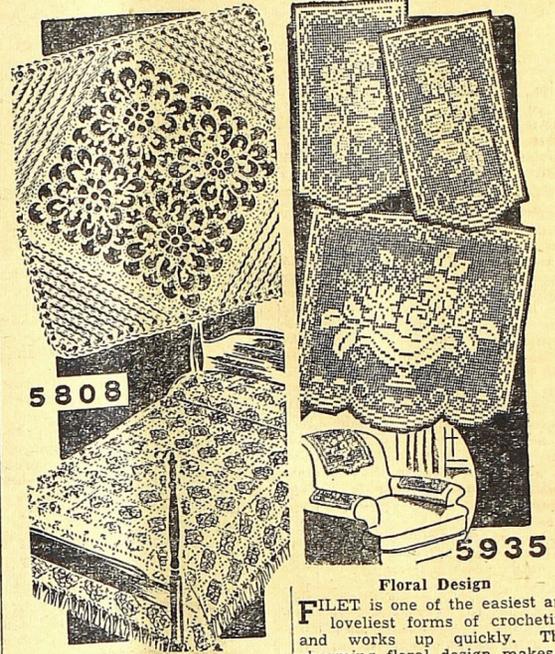

Over-mature vegetables will frequently give you tough and tasteless pickles.

Fruits which are overly-ripe should not be used for pickling as they will not hold their shape well enough to make nice pickles.

All relishes should be stored in a cool, dark place, away from drafts.

SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON

By JIM RHODY

Summer Fishing

After warm weather really has set in, the angler who pursues his sport in lakes or man-made reservoirs will find that bluegills and largemouth bass provide most of the action he receives. To catch these fish in mid-summer requires a change in strategy used earlier in the season.

During July the big bluegills move from deep into shallow waters in most of the lakes and reservoirs. At this time they are spawning, and if abundant in the lake, they may cause quite a commotion in the shallow water areas.

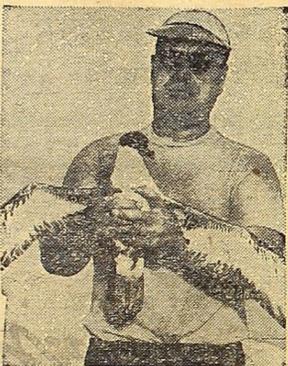

If the fly fisherman approaches these areas quietly, preferably in a boat, and drops a small, cork-bodied black bug or wet fly into the middle of the confused fish, strikes will be numerous and it is often easy to take the limit.

To forestall the cries of the not-too-well-informed conservationists, there is little criticism to be attached to taking bluegills during these periods. Conservation experts have discovered that there is little likelihood of the man with a rod and reel depleting fish population to a disastrous extent.

In fact, many such experts declare that it is too little fishing, rather than too much, which makes for small fish and poor fishing generally, particularly in the pan-fishing field. Research has indicated that it is almost impossible to overfish bluegills, therefore it is actually desirable to reduce the number of bluegills by fishing.

In July and August the bluegill fisherman who uses worms and grubs really comes into his own. A casting rod, cane pole, or fly rod equipped with a light line, seven-foot leader of six pounds or less test and a size 4 hook is the ideal rig. A couple of BB shot may be used as sinkers if deeper waters are to be fished. In late afternoon, during the period mentioned, watch for a rise of bluegills to the surface. This often happens in the early mornings. During these "rises" is when the fly rod angler gets in his best licks. The action is fast and furious and the fisherman who uses two or more flies on his leader will often take as many as two fish at a time, with a triple not too infrequent as to be amazing.

Angler Gets Bird

Walter McDonough, famed tuna angler, has had many strange catches in his angling career, but never one with feathers until he caught this "greater shearwater" while fishing for tuna off New Jersey. The bird's identity was established by the New Jersey Audubon society. The bird was hooked when a flock of them went after McDonough's tuna lure.

Use Landing Net

There are no figures at hand at the moment, but it is a logical surmise that not more than 5 per cent of the nation's anglers ever use a landing net. Once an angler has used a landing net, the chances are that it will become a "must" in his equipment. Like most fishing tackle, one can be bought for three dollars or 15 dollars, depending on your choice and bankroll. Here's why a landing net is important: While your fish is still in the water a large percentage of his weight is supported by the water—but when you grab your line to try to lift him out, line and leader must support his entire weight.

Buying Casting Line

When the average fisherman buys a casting line the chances are that he will get at least an 18-pound test line and, quite often, will insist on a 24 or even a 30-pound test line. There's hardly a fresh-water fish that swims that could break an 18-pound test line in the hands of a fair-skilled angler, and the experienced fisherman finds no difficulty in landing prize-winning heavyweights on lines testing from 9 to 12 pounds.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Avoiding Varnish Bubbles
To avoid surface bubbles when you varnish, don't shake the can; stir the contents gently with a clean stick.

Anchoring Rugs
Small throw rugs that have a tendency to slip along the floor can be anchored by attaching several jar rubbers to the under side, or shellacking the reverse sides.

Mirror Streaks
If streaks on your mirror show marked signs of stubbornness, they can sometimes be persuaded to go if you rub them with a little oil-type furnish polish.

For Shiny Faucets
When the nickel faucets in your sink become stained, polish them by rubbing with a soft cloth dipped in spirits of ammonia. Wash them off afterward with hot water and soap, and polish with a soft, dry cloth.

To Brighten Rug
For a general brightening up of a cloth rug, sprinkle salt all over it, let stand an hour or two, then take it up with the vacuum cleaner.

Wall Patching
Plaster of Paris is good stuff with which to patch walls; but unless you're nimble, it may get dry and hard before the job is finished. To prevent that, mix a tablespoonful of ordinary flour with every cup of plaster of Paris.

Hint to Waxers
Regardless of what type wax you use, be sure you don't apply too much and that you give the application sufficient buffing, application sufficient buffing. Otherwise your floor will be quick to show rubber heel marks and the robber never was captured, furniture scratches.

Rust Stains on Tile
Rust stains on tile usually will yield to kerosene, if they're not too old. Cover the spots with kerosene for a couple of hours then wash the tile with soap and hot water.

Speaks at Iosco Farm Bureau Board Meet

Oscar Anderson, Director of Farm Bureau Patron of the State Farm Bureau Services, Inc., was guest speaker at the Iosco Farm Bureau board meeting Wednesday evening.

There was some scepticism among directors and members present and the Farm Bureau was challenged as not being on its toes in continuing its organization job with the Iosco Bureau. "Where is our district representative," they asked. There were other questions too.

Mr. Anderson was ready with a prompt reply in defense of the Farm Bureau when called upon to address the board.

First of all he said that the members themselves must exert a certain amount of effort to make the organization function successfully and that if the Farm Bureau is to mean anything to any members the members must cooperate whenever he can.

Anderson agreed that the program of a farm bureau would be slowed down by the lack of help from its district representative, but he assured the board this situation was being remedied as quickly as possible.

Anderson had been called to the meeting to present facts about Farm Bureau Services, Inc. His explanation was thorough and enlightening and further discussion brought about further possibilities which will be of immediate interest to every Farm Bureau member.

The State Farm Bureau will be solicited to furnish material to the Iosco Farm Bureau for an interesting booth at the County Fair this year.

Allotments were used to adjust wheat production to needs before the war when burdensome wheat surpluses were plaguing farmers and farm prices. During the war and in the recent post war years, the demand for our wheat has been so great throughout the world that the wheat acreage allotments were, in effect, production goals which farmers were encouraged to meet if they possibly could.

But now with exports and foreign aid dropping off, wheat surpluses are again in sight for next year unless farmers adjust wheat production downward to meet expected requirements.

Iosco County farmers were notified of the 1950 farm acreage allotments by mail on July 29, 1949, well in advance of planting time. Farmers are advised that an appeal procedure is available to those who are not satisfied with their allotment. Those who wish to file an appeal should do so at once after receiving their notification of allotment through the mail. Appeals should be filed with the Iosco County AAA Committee, P. O. Box 422, Tawas City, Michigan.

Individual farm allotments were established by the county AAA committee largely on the basis of the farm production history for acreage data for the past few years. Acreage data for the past few years was gathered from farmers earlier this spring by township AAA committeemen.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Applin and family left Wednesday for Sanford where they will visit with Mrs. Applin's sister, Mr. Harry Bowland and family. They are enroute to their home in Detroit after a visit with relatives in the Tawas area.
