

A BETTER MOUSETRAP

"HOW ARE THINGS as of early September?" we asked the man who built a better mousetrap, this being our regular seasonal inquiry into business conditions.

"I can't quite make out," he replied, with a glance at the paths made to his door. "The paths seem fairly active but the activity could hardly be called path-beating at this moment."

"Would you say there was a slump?"

"I might think so, but Harry Truman says no."

"Does he think much about mousetraps?"

"You know Washington. There are experts in everything available. The President has aides who claim to be specialists in mouse habits and mousetrap trends in our economic system. There is a federal mousetrap commission at work now."

"Has it been here?"

"I think so. There has been a group here which acted like a federal committee. It came up the paths backward, asked where it was, and immediately wanted to know where there was a good place to eat."

"What did it do after eating?"

"It showed up every day at 11 and quit at 3, announcing after a week that it had studied my business thoroughly and would have an early report with a complete solution to all problems in the mousetrap field."

"You think it will find that you are prospering and that there is no cause for concern?" we asked.

"I am sure of it," said the man who built a better mousetrap. "The commission left in a very happy mood and announced nothing was worrying me."

"Strictly on your own," we asked, "what is the real situation in the mousetrap industry?"

"I am optimistic. It can't be that the country has caught all the mice. Hence the drop in demand for traps must be due to something else. People may be making old traps last longer. I had a fellow come in with some holes and ask that we build a trap around 'em."

"Are you operating in the red at the moment?"

"Yes, but don't let the President hear it. He would hold I am sabotaging public confidence. He may even say I want depression for my own selfish ends."

"So what?"

"Well I guess I should do some deficit-financing and expand. After all I don't want federal control of mousetraps."

The man who built a better mousetrap paused a moment and reflected.

"I shall have to style my mousetraps," he resumed. "I must bring out smarter models with startling new innovations. Streamlining might help and possibly some mechanical devices that will make it possible to bait a trap by pressing a button. This will cost a lot of money, but I can borrow it or something."

"Have you thought of turning out a trap with fewer holes?" we asked. "Wouldn't half as many holes mean that people with mice would need twice as many traps?"

"Aha!" exclaimed the M.W.B.A. B.M., showing us the door. "I knew it. You are one of those economic experts direct from the capital, Scram!"

We scrambled.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russia Threatens Yugoslav Regime; Truman Takes Arms Row to People; Excise Tax Cut Stymied This Year

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

YUGOSLAVIA:

War Clouds

Was the United States ready to go to war on behalf of Yugoslavia? That was a paramount question as the hard-boiled struggle between Yugoslavia and Russia reached the threat-of-war stage. Diplomats pondered the question: What would the United States do if Stalin sent the Soviet army to overthrow Marshal Tito's regime in Yugoslavia?

BRITISH and American diplomats, however, ruled out the likelihood of a shooting war. They regarded Moscow's threat to "take more effective measures" in Yugoslavia as only a part of the war of nerves. British newspapers took a different view. They regarded the Soviet note as the "worst threat of war since 1939."

No one outside the Kremlin could know for sure what was coming next. But the threat that began 14 months ago to upset Tito when the Communists read him out of the Communist party developed long ago into frequent shootings along the satellite borders.

Diplomats in Belgrade frankly were worried. As an example of the jittery situation, one embassy thought it had an inside tip on an "invasion" date.

THE QUESTION of American involvement was not quite as academic as it might appear. With the issue squarely joined between Communism and the west, and with the U.S. serving as the arsenal of the west, involvement as a result of any warlike Kremlin move was an ever-present possibility.

EXCISE TAX:

Not This Year

All hope for any reduction this year of federal excise taxes appeared doomed as congress shut the door on the issue. Excise taxes are collected on such items as furs, jewelry, luggage, cosmetics, transportation and telephone bills.

CHAIRMAN DOUGHTON (D., N.C.) of the tax-writing house ways and means committee issued a statement saying that he sees no prospect for a reduction in these taxes now. He gave as a reason the federal deficit threat of more than five billion dollars in the current fiscal year.

To clarify the subject for consumers, he added:

"I believe it is important to make this clear so that consumers will not postpone the purchase of goods subject to tax in the hope of an immediate reduction."

BUT HE HELD OUT hope of tax relief in the future. He said he had requested the congressional staff of tax experts to begin now a study of possible tax revisions and reductions for the consideration of congress next year. There was a hint, however, that if present excises are lowered, some other taxes may be increased—unless federal expenditures are reduced.

There remained a middle course, Doughton went on, which might provide a reasonable reduction in government expenditures, to require some increase in taxes where the increase can be borne without disturbing the economy, and to provide for a reduction in those taxes which are crippling enterprise and interfering with business expansion.

ACID TEST:

Fails For Granny

The gambling grandmother of Gardena, Calif., had a relapse.

MRS. SULA BELL STIMSON, 49, had been stricken with a compelling urge to gamble. She reached the stage where she forged checks with which to obtain funds for poker playing. She just couldn't resist the yen to see what that next card would be.

Last November she was brought into court for her weakness and was placed on probation for three years. Last April she was arrested again and a physician testified she had undergone a personality change from a normal housewife to a person afflicted with a craving for gambling.

HE SAID doses of glutamic acid had been used with some success in similar cases, recommended such treatment for Mrs. Stimson. The court agreed, and she was released to the custody of her family with court orders to continue the treatment.

It didn't work. The gambling grandmother had succumbed again to the fascination of the poker deck. The acid test had failed.

U. S. AGENCIES

Six Departments Undergo 'Streamlining'

As a result of congressional action several government agencies went under the streamline plan and some mild reshuffling came about. Some 3,900 federal employees were affected as six of President Truman's reorganization plans went into effect under terms of the reorganization act of 1949.

Summing up, here is the gist of

TRUMAN:

To The People

President Truman submitted his arms-for-Europe proposal to the people through the medium of the golden jubilee convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Miami.

DECLARING the armament proposal was the "price of peace," he termed it this nation's guarantee against war and urged approval.

The President, contending that peace with freedom and justice cannot be "bought cheaply," urged that congress immediately approve the 1.5 billion-dollar arms outlay.

He conceded the cost was "considerable," but added that it "represents an investment in security that will be worth many times its cost."

There were those in congress, however, who were in noticeable disagreement with President Truman. These included several congressmen who have been stalwart supporters of administration policy.

THE DISSENTERS argued that it was "pouring money down a rat-hole" to attempt to prevent war or adequately arm the north Atlantic pact signatories as the Truman proposal planned. Others declared the program was simply "putting small arms in the hands of constabulary of little nations." U. S. military experts agreed that even with the program operative as envisioned by the President, Russia could overrun the continent in 60 days.

Claiming this, they added that since the U.S. would have to pay for World War III anyway if and when it came, the wiser course would be to build up national defense and striking power to the point where no surprise attack on this nation could be successful.

ELECTRONICS:

Machine Has 'Brain'

The parade of "mechanical brain" devices appeared never-ending. The newest group—an automatic computer called Binac—is smaller, cheaper, brighter than the others.

It can calculate 12,000 times faster than a human being and does problems 25 times faster than more complicated machines. The inventors predicted it would usher in another industrial revolution in which machines can take over many jobs now done by man.

BINAC, built to order for Northrop aircraft company, was designed especially for complicated engineering problems such as in designing new military aircraft and guided missiles.

But Binac was not the last word in the field of mechanical "brains." A larger, general-purpose type of "magic brain" called Univac was under construction. Its first customer will be the U. S. census bureau.

UNIVAC, it was said, could even play chess, but only about as good as an average player, not an expert. It is expected that the machine also would be able to write simple melodies and lyrics because musical harmonics follow simple rules.

With Univac, according to reports, the American people will find out a lot of things they didn't know about themselves—that is, statistically speaking.

CHINA REDS:

Trading Is Out

It had a familiar ring: "You can't do business with the Chinese Communists." Remember? "You can't do business with Hitler." That certainly was true, and according to officials best informed on the Chinese situation, it was equally true of the Chinese Reds.

SLOWLY BUT SURELY, American businessmen and officials are finding out the truth of the statement. In ever-increasing numbers they are pulling out of the great centers in China. And with them goes inevitably the prospect for any important trade agreements between the United States and Communist China.

Yet there was an annoying paradox in the situation for the Chinese friends of the Kremlin. For the fact was that the Reds would have to turn to the United States if they were to obtain many things they need to fill the gaping holes in China's distraught economy.

THE American state department and other U. S. officials are incensed at the way American officials and private citizens have been treated by the Communists in China. They apparently have come to the conclusion that nothing can be accomplished by maintaining large consulate staffs in cities where the Reds have taken over. Weeks of trying to come to some terms with the Communists show nothing but failure.

To the initiate, this came as a surprise to U. S. policy makers. They had expected that as the Chinese Communists poured into Shanghai and other coastal points they would take a live-and-let-live attitude toward the Americans. They also figured that the Communists would have to do business with the U.S., inasmuch as they would have to look to the West rather than Russia for imports to meet China's economic needs.

But somehow or other it didn't work out that way.

POLIO:

Isolation Cut

Sufficient beds for polio patients in the nation's hospitals—a major problem in fighting the malady—appeared to be in sight as a result of a new approach to treatment and diagnosis in the early stages of the disease.

THIS may be brought about almost overnight and it can be done without adding a single bed in hospitals for acute cases, or training another nurse. Too, it will save millions of dollars in the cost of treatment.

All this is declared possible because of a decision by public health and medical authorities cutting the isolation period for early polio to one week—longer only if the fever lasts longer. Some states have been isolating polio patients for two weeks, some even for three or four, but the average has been two weeks.

The one week recommendation, made by 20 medical authorities, is part of a new guide for health officers of all the states. The guide is being sent to local health authorities, hospitals and doctors by the various state health officers.

POLIO patients are kept isolated when they are first ill to prevent spread of the disease, but medical studies have concluded that the disease is communicable only during the first three or four days before symptoms appear, and for two or three days afterward.

So for safety, isolation, the experts said, is necessary for only a week, or as long as there is a fever.

An international controversy has been raging for several weeks over the modesty of the French bathing suit, and this was devised to advertise the viewpoint of the Hollywood beauties—and incidentally, to advertise Miss Castle to the potential box-office public.

ESCAPIST . . . Edward C. Allcard, 34, naval architect from Surrey, England, rests in the 29-foot yawl, the Tempress, in which he sailed from Gibraltar to the United States in 81 days. The escapist from British austerity braved storms, sharks, and sail breakdowns, but arrived at City Island, N. Y., in good shape, having lost only 10 pounds. His voyage took him along 4,500 miles. He said he sailed to escape form-filling in England. "I wanted the freedom only offered by the sea," he said. He doesn't like for people to ring him on the telephone, and detests alarm clocks and routine schedule. Unlike most tourists, he expressed no opinion of America.

EARTHQUAKE . . . A portion of the ruins with which the South American country of Ecuador is strewn testifies to the power of destruction possessed by a shaking earth. Reports from the stricken area told of property damage so great that it could not be estimated, and these reports did not give the whole story—there remains the appalling loss of life. This is a street in Guano, one of the heavily damaged cities. Fifty cities were struck and the death toll reached 4,000. Ambato was the hardest hit, losing 400 of its population. Sixty children were buried beneath a toppled Ambato cathedral.

Here, some of the first members of Local 600 United Auto Workers (CIO) line up at one of the polling places. Vote was caused by company's most recent proposal which refused any economic gains for 12 months. UAW-CIO is demanding a fourth-round boost, pension plan and health and welfare program.

Shah Takes Hint

(Ed. NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is written by his old partner, Robert A. Allen.)

A HIGH U. S. OFFICIAL just returned from a tour of the Middle East reports one outstanding impression.

It is this: That, amid the welter of assassination, intrigue and autocratic rule in this ancient cockpit, the prestige and power of the United States stands out like a gleaming beacon.

The official related this episode to prove his point:

Following the attempted slaying some months ago of the Shah of Iran, he imposed iron-handed martial rule. The Iranian press particularly felt the weight of the Shah's fury. Seventeen liberal, non-Communist newspapers were suppressed and their editors thrown into jail. He also ordered them tried on charges of subversive activities.

To support these charges, articles dating back as far as 20 years were brought into court against the editors.

Despite these extreme measures, only six were convicted.

U.S. ambassador in Iran is John Wiley. An able, tough-minded career man, he has been an outstanding success in his delicate and arduous post. A firm believer in democracy and freedom of the press, Wiley, privately, was shocked by the autocratic persecution of the editors. But because it was a strictly internal affair, he meticulously kept hands off until after the six editors were sentenced.

Several days later, Wiley sent each of them a small package. It consisted of one pack of American cigarettes—with Wiley's personal card.

Nothing was written on the card. Also, there was nothing secret about Wiley's action. His chauffeur delivered the packages to the prison and turned them over to the warden to give to the editors. That was all there was to it.

The Shah, of course, was immediately informed. Also, he got the point.

The following day the editors were pardoned.

Note—Because of Wiley's penetrating and forthright reports to the state department, the Iranian ambassador in Washington is very hostile toward him. The Iranian has repeatedly tried to undermine Wiley.

No Merger

Behind-the-scenes, the widely publicized merger between Amvet and AVC has gotten nowhere. Reason is strong rank-and-file opposition in both veteran organizations. At the bottom of this are two factors: Amvet membership is much more conservative than AVC, and a confidential memorandum sent out by AVC Commander Harold A. Keats. In this document, he stresses the financial benefits that will accrue to Amvets by absorbing the 35,000 AVC dues-paying members.

AVC officials are aware that Amvet's headquarters is hard up and that its national officers draw $35,000 a year in salaries and expenses.

No Loss

A British correspondent telephoned Sen. Kenneth Wherry, Nebr., Republican floor leader, for an interview on the forthcoming international monetary conference.

"All I can say," remarked Wherry, "is that Sir Stafford Cripps is obviously coming here to promote a new loan. He wouldn't be interrupting his rest cure in Switzerland for any other reason."

The British newsman protested this view.

"Well," observed Wherry, "if he's coming over to lend us some money, I'll be glad to see him."

"Can I quote you on that?" "Certainly," replied Wherry. Then, turning to a friend, he added, "I was safe in letting him quote me. After all I can't lose any votes in England."

Deadlock

Illustrative of the snafued state of congressional business is an unpublicized but long-standing deadlock between the house and senate over the army civil functions bill.

This stalemate has been going on since June 1, with no sign of a break in sight.

Cause of the deadlock is a 590 million dollar rivers and harbors rider that the senate wrote into the measure. This huge local gravy grab was not included in the President's budget. The fund would be spent by the army engineers, which have one of the most potent under-cover lobbies in Washington.

Militant backers of the rider are Sens. John McClelland (D., Ark.), Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) and Chan Gurney (R., S.D.). McClelland is head of the Rivers & Harbors Congress, an army engineers lobby, and all three are economical.

SPORTLIGHT Stretch in Both Leagues Is Hot

By GRANTLAND RICE

BASEBALL'S 1949 stretch is now only a few furlongs away. And this next one can be a nectarine full of juice.

Oddly enough conditions in the two leagues have been somewhat reversed since last April. At that time the Red Sox and Indians were to make the American league race. The Dodgers, Cardinals, Braves, Pirates and Giants were to churn up foam in the National.

As the case is today only the Cardinals and Dodgers appear to have anything to say about the coming stretch in the National league while the Yankees, Indians, Red Sox and Tigers may all be lumped together through September in the American.

This American league September stretch may be one of the best in many years, even close to the 1948 scramble.

Past results have shown us what can happen when these stretch runs in the two leagues start. The Pirates twice have had a seven-game lead shot from under them in former years. In 1934, the Giants lost six of their last seven games to give the Cards the pennant by two games. Dizzy Dean was the spearhead of the St. Louis team.

The White Sox put on a 19-straight rally in September as far back in 1906. The Cubs picked up a 21 consecutive game streak a few years ago to blot out the Pirates. There have been any number of leads shot to pieces in late August or September.

On copy paper the Red Sox still look to be the strongest team in baseball with the upsurge of Parnell, McDermott and Stobbs, hooked to the paymaster of Williams, Dom Dimaggio, Stephens, Doerr, Pesky and others. The Yankees, Indians and Tigers are now well balanced, with Red Rolfe's hired men carrying the more effective pitching in Newhouse, Trucks, Hutchinson, Houtteman, and Gray. Dartmouth's Rolfe has done a fine job with the squad he opened with. For that matter so has Casey Stengel. From now on everything depends on how the stretch run is handled.

The Cardinals or some other club had better collar the Dodgers this summer or it will probably be too late for some years to come. Burt Shotton's young pitching staff and young team is just picking up the seasoning and experience needed and by 1950 will outclass the National league, Cardinals included.

The downfall of the Braves and the Pirates has been one of the jolting factors in the older circuit. Those who know Billy Southworth and have known him for years can't understand a group of ballplayers backing up under his leadership. He has always been too able a leader and too fine a character in the past. This has affected a ball club that never was too hot, even when it won a year ago. The Braves will be too far back of the Dodgers by 1950 to have a look in.

Old and New Ball. Baseball has had at least one mystery we have never been able to penetrate. How was it that in other years, though the pitchers could do anything to a ball except cut it in two, the batting averages of many players were so high?

The hurlers could doze it with spit-ball moisture—they could use emery—they could futz it up—they could blacken it—and there were times when they froze it.

Did he mean that the Psalmist had predicted that very occasion, or did he mean that the Psalm expressed a truth always good?

At all events, we do know that Jesus often took a Psalm, or a part of one, as a prophetic picture of himself. He knew himself to be the true King of Mankind, "the Lord's Anointed," as his use of Psalm 110:1 plainly shows.

Yet he also knew that he must pass through suffering to his throne (Luke 24:26). When the leaders of his people rejected him he was not surprised, for he thought at once of Psalm 118:22-23. When he hung on the cross, and saw the soldiers gambling for his clothes, Psalm 22:16-18 would surely come into his mind.

And can we doubt that in his last agonies, one who knew the Psalms so well would not have remembered also the later lines from the same prophetic Psalm? It begins with the tragic question—Why? But it rises to a song of triumph—"When he cried unto him, he heard!"

Jesus and the Psalms Lesson for September 11, 1949

SOME parts of the Old Testament Jesus never once mentioned. Others he quoted again and again. Could this be because some parts were more helpful to him than others? At any rate, the Psalms were one section of his Bible which he often quoted.

Worship

ONE Use Jesus made of the Psalms was in public worship. Whenever he went to the Temple he would join in singing or in listening to the great choirs singing these ancient hymns. Many of our own best-loved hymns, while not direct translations, are based on Psalms. For example, "Still, Still With Thee" is from Psalm 16; "Dr. Foreman 'God Is My Strong Salvation'" from Psalm 27; "The King of Love" from Psalm 23; "O Worship the King" from Psalms 104.

In private worship also we know Jesus used the Psalms. One of the Hebrew names for them was "The Book of Prayers," and Jesus, like many another who has loved these Psalms, found in them the natural expression of what was deepest in his heart when he turned toward his Father in heaven.

A striking proof of this comes from the story of Calvary. The cry, "My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" is a quotation from Psalm 22:1, and "Into thy hands I commend my spirit" is from Psalm 31:5.

Thus, two out of three prayers he uttered in his last moments were from the Psalms. So the reader today, pondering in a quiet moment these immortal poems, either from the printed book or better yet, as Jesus did, from the treasures of memory, may often find in them prayers which seem breathed from his own mind and to which he need only say, Amen.

Truth about God. JESUS also found in the Psalms a revelation of truth. It would be too much to say that Jesus derived his ideas of God from the Psalms. But certainly some of the great teachings about God which we hear from Jesus we can read already in the Psalms.

Jesus did not use the Psalms stupidly, of course. He would never have supposed that you could take just any sentence about God out of some Psalm or other, and quote it as the last word about God.

For instance, during his temptations the thought was suggested to him that he could jump off a high building and not be hurt; had not God promised just that in a Psalm? Now it is true that Psalm 91:9-12 does say that God will keep you from "dashing your foot against a stone" but Jesus knew that does not mean that God will guarantee to keep you out of trouble or harm no matter how foolish you are!

Christ in the Psalms. JESUS found in the Psalms also prophecies. There is a rather thin line between illustration and prophecy.

For instance, when the Jerusalem boys and girls were making such a noisy welcome for him, and the dignified priests were protesting, Jesus quoted Psalm 8:2 in defense of the children: "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise."

Did he mean that the Psalmist had predicted that very occasion, or did he mean that the Psalm expressed a truth always good?

At all events, we do know that Jesus often took a Psalm, or a part of one, as a prophetic picture of himself. He knew himself to be the true King of Mankind, "the Lord's Anointed," as his use of Psalm 110:1 plainly shows.

Yet he also knew that he must pass through suffering to his throne (Luke 24:26). When the leaders of his people rejected him he was not surprised, for he thought at once of Psalm 118:22-23. When he hung on the cross, and saw the soldiers gambling for his clothes, Psalm 22:16-18 would surely come into his mind.

And can we doubt that in his last agonies, one who knew the Psalms so well would not have remembered also the later lines from the same prophetic Psalm? It begins with the tragic question—Why? But it rises to a song of triumph—"When he cried unto him, he heard!"

G-Man Hoover Scans Career Has Served Bureau For Past 25 Years

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It was 25 years ago that John E. Hoover, a librarian turned lawyer, took command of a run down police force whose officers could neither make arrests nor carry guns.

In a quarter century, much has happened. America's criminal glossary has been swelled by such terms as "G-man," "G-heat" and "public enemy." The era of gang warfare as a national characteristic and kidnaping as a big time source of racket money have flowered and faded. The careers of "Machine Gun" Kelly, Dillinger and Karpis have boomed in the news headlines and ended at morgue and prison gates.

And along the way, "John E." has become "J. Edgar" and the sad sack police force of May 10, 1924, has blossomed into the pride of a nation which once maintained that law enforcement was a strictly local problem and no business of Washington's bureaucrats.

In honor of his silver anniversary as head man of the federal bureau of investigation, director Hoover reviewed the FBI story and told how it all began.

It is a story of politics, good and bad, of an era that created a new enforcement approach, and of a criminal punk with a machine gun and a smart wife who did a million dollar publicity job for the FBI. Above all it is the biographical tale of an unimportant federal employe who took an unimportant appointment in 1924, and, without changing jobs, has become one of Washington's and the nation's most potent figures.

TRAILS of the BOOKMOBILE

During the summer your bookmobile travelled over 1100 miles distributing a total of 1,649 books, 1,367 of which were classified as juvenile reading. Forty-two requests were delivered to adult readers throughout the county to supply our residents with their favorite authors and subjects. The story hour attracted 869 listeners for an average of 14.72 children for each period. These figures tend to indicate that the citizens of the county are enjoying and have an appreciation for the services rendered by the county library.

A word of praise should be given to those individuals stationed at rural, industrial, or resort areas who often battled high temperatures and long walking distances to receive their bi-weekly selection of reading materials. It is with pride that we publish a listing of these industrious students who have earned reading certificates for having read ten outstanding books during their summer vacation.

Iosco Farm Bureau Plan Enrollment

Arlo Wassen, District head, introduced Milton Larsen, Director of District 5, Lansing Area, to the membership committee Tuesday evening, August 30, when they met to plan the Iosco County Farm Bureau's second annual enrollment drive.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Mr. Larsen was formerly State Representative for District 10 and gave the committee the benefit of his broad experience in roll call work. He set forth important factors in membership drives and outlined the duties of the chairman, Manager and Publicity chairman. During the week of December 5, the state-wide enrollment drive for old and new Farm Bureau members begins. However, membership can be renewed any time or new members taken into groups at the convenience of the individual and be applied on the 1950 roll call.

At this time Tracy Varey, of Whittemore, newly appointed Roll Call Manager will head the Iosco Farm Bureau's second annual membership drive and will endeavor to make and break the County goal of 109 members.

The present membership is 64, the new quota set for this county is 45, making a total of 109 members to be gained by December 10. The membership chairman, William Herriman, the board secretary, Mrs. William Herriman, the Roll Manager, Tracy Vary and Mrs. Vary and the Publicity chairman Mrs. Charles Kobs, were the members of the committee to meet with Mr. Wassen and Mr. Larsen, to draw up a working budget for the Roll Call Manager. The County Farm Bureau will pay the manager 75c a member for the present membership of 64; 90c a member for the next 45 members and $1.00 for each additional member above the 109 goal.

Within the next few weeks, Mr. Vary will appoint so called "Captains" from the various community groups to aid him in the drive, and each captain will have workers. All will attend schools of instruction before the drive begins. "Farm Bureau—A force to face the Fifties!" is the State's new slogan adopted for the coming campaign.

FOLKS take a look at those bumper-guard grilles—built as a unit and proof against "locking horns"—and say "Hmmm! Nice!"

They sweep their eyes over tapering fenders, with a suggestion of jet power in their after contours—and say, "That's for me!"

They eye-measure windshields that are 48% bigger and rear windows with 56% more area—and know without being told they can see the road up closer, both fore and aft.

"What does it cost me to get this handy-sized dandy with the roomiest interiors ever found on a Buick Special?"

"What do I pay for high-compression, high-pressure Fireball power from a big Buick straight-eight engine?"

"What's the tag on that swell Buick ride, with coil springing, extra-wide rims, seats between the axles and all that?"

"And what about Dynaflo Drive—understand I can have that at extra cost—how much?"

Well, sir, the news is good. Plenty good. Because this honey's priced well under your expectations. It's a straight-eight that's priced under a lot of sixes—over the years your investment will be no more than for any other car.

So better not stop with looking. Better price it too—delivered at your door. Your Buick dealer will give you the figures, even demonstrate.

After which you'll do as others are doing—you'll get a firm order in.

TEN-STRIKE!
Only Buick SPECIAL has all these Features!

TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE • MORE ROOM FOR THE MONEY • DYNAFLO DRIVE optional at extra cost • JET-LINE STYLING • NON-LOCKING BUMPER-GUARD GRILLES • HIGH-PRESSURE FIREBALL STRAIGHT-EIGHT ENGINE • COIL SPRINGING ALL AROUND • LOW-PRESSURE TIRES ON SAFETY-RIDE RIMS • GREATER VISIBILITY FORE AND AFT • SELF-LOCKING LUGGAGE LIDS • STEADY-RIDING TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE • THREE SMART MODELS WITH BODY BY FISHER

Effect of Choke

To the beginner and confirmed wing-shot alike, the subject of shot-gun boring is always a fascinating one. Unending are the arguments concerning the respective merits and effect of one bore over another. Except for patterning his gun, the average shotgunner is never able to see what happens as a result of various bores; and, except for photos such as those here, he is never able to see just what happens when a shot charge leaves the muzzle of various-bored barrels.

Thanks to the Winchester arms company, here is presented visually "what happens" when shot charges leave the barrels of the three most popular chokes in use by American scatter-gun enthusiasts.

Despite the diversity of opinion, it is rather well-established that the ideal boring for the upland gunner is improved cylinder, if he is using a single-barreled gun, and improved cylinder and modified choke if he is carrying a double.

The hunter who goes for ducks, geese and doves will be better armed with the heavier gauges and closer-choked guns, although there is a wealth of contradictory matter on this subject.

True... it's a small thing, sportsmanship, but any man who isn't a good sport in a competition involving a fish versus a piece of bait surely is a doubtful risk in the bigger gamble of human relationships.

Why Mix 'Em Up?

If you own a farm fish pond, you may have the idea that you should raise various species of fish together in the same pond. Considerable scientific research shows that this is not true.

It is now known that the greatest production in any body of water, principally small ponds or lakes, can be attained only by having the fewest species of fish present.

The largemouth bass and bluegill make an ideal combination for such waters. The necessity of combining a fish like the largemouth with the bluegill is that the latter feeds on small microscopic organisms, while the largemouth in its advanced fingerling sizes and adult forms feeds on the bluegills. This cycle of feeding creates the best fish production in a pond.

So—why mix 'em up? For it really is not advisable to do so. Factors of food and space, plus the idiosyncrasies of each individual species of fish as to how it reproduces and lives is important to consider when trying to mix species.

Camouflaged Leaders

Camouflaged nylon monofilament leaders, tippets, coils and spinning lines are now available. They are dyed the color of the rainbow by a special process. The colors are in the order in which they appear in the spectrum, and this feature, according to the manufacturers, aids in making them virtually invisible. The leaders offered come in either level or tapered forms in a wide range of test weights. Spinning lines are made in multi-test sizes.
