Defeat East Tawas 1-0 in 10 Innings

Elks to Play Return Game at East Tawas This Afternoon

Coach Mark Defiabaugh's High School baseball team got off to a terrific start in the fall season when they downed a hard hitting nine from East Tawas 1 to 0, in 10 innings. The Tawas City lads blasted out seven hits off the right hand slants of Ashley Schreiber, a young fellow who shows a lot of promise on the mound, for Coach Butterfield. His battery mate was Tommy Tate, who led both teams in the hitting department with three hits.

Barry McGuire pulled the mound duties for Tawas City. Barry was nicked for nine hits and was in trouble several times during the game, but he proved to be tough to hit in the pinches. Several nice plays were made by both infields, and Tawas City's inner defense played flawless ball the entire game. East Tawas' outfield came up with several nice catches.

Tawas City scored the winning run in the tenth, after two were out. Lanski grounded out, Gracklied out, McGuire walked. Bruce Myles singled, McGuire going to third, and when a play was made on Myles, going into second, McGuire scored.

Leading hitters of the day were Tate, with three hits and Johnson with two. Tawas City had Gracklied, McGuire, B. Myles, Kohn, Gingerich, Serschen and Lanski, with one hit apiece.

Tuesday, Tawas City lost to a hard-hitting Sterling squad, 14 to 11. With Sterling leading 14 to 5, in the last inning, Tawas broke loose with a six run rally, but fell short in their belated start. Sterling scored seven runs in the fourth, with some distance slugging featured by the Hawks. Two home runs were poked by Sterling, one in the fourth and one in the third.

Kirby-Shover

Miss Lillian Shover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shover of Tawas City became the bride of Delbert J. Kirby of Midland at a ceremony at the Zion Lutheran church recently.

The bride wore the traditional satin wedding dress with hooped overskirt of marquisette, caught up at hemline to reveal white satin ruffles. The gown was further designed with a gathered drop shoulder effect and yoke, edged in lace. Her lace edged veil was fastened with a cornet of orange blossoms and she carried a lavender orchid with white satin streamers on a white prayer book.

Miss Leona Shover, sister of the bride was maid of honor and chose a dress of orchid satin brocade and carried yellow roses and mums on an orchid muff with yellow satin streamers.

Mrs. Paul Callan and Mrs. Donald Vaner were bridesmaids. They were dressed in yellow and aqua dresses with headpieces and gaudlets to match. They carried roses and mums on muffs to match their dresses.

Patty Vaner, niece of the groom was flower girl, and wore a white satin dress similar to the brides. She wore a wrist bouquet, Donald Vaner, Jr., nephew of the groom served as ring bearer. James Leonard of Midland, assisted the groom, while Paul Callan and Donald Vaner, Sr., were attendants. Harbold and Richard Shover were ushers.

During the ceremony, Mrs. Harold Shover sang accompanied by Wilbert Mueller.

The bride's mother chose a blue crepe dress with grey accessories and the groom's mother wore a black trim dress with black accessories. Each wore a corsage of gardenias.

Guests were present from Midland and Sanford. Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Zion Lutheran school. A reception was held at the Larkin Hall in Midland. The young couple will make their home in Sanford.

Alabaster Wins From West Branch

Johnny Martin and Bob Proulx Form Battery

In another of their fall exhibition series games, Alabaster downed West Branch, last Sunday, 6 to 2, at the White City diamond.

Battery-mates in the Alabaster lineup, were Johnny Martin, pitching and Bob Proulx, catching. These two boys have played a lot of ball in the NEM League and for the past several seasons have pitched in the Minors. John was on the pitching staff of the Pampa, Texas club, and Bob caught and played third for Muskegon in the Class A, Michigan State League.

West Branch found Martin's left handed slants hard to solve and were held to four hits, striking out eleven times. West Branch used three pitchers; Walters, three innings, Oliver three innings and Ferguson the last two innings.

Paced by Bob Proulx, with a double and home run, Alabaster sent six runs across the platter. In the third, Alabaster scored twice, when J. Erickson walked, and scored on Proulx's double. Pat Erickson's single sent Proulx to third and he scored on a wild pitch.

In the fourth, John Martin singled, De Losh was safe on an error, J. Erickson singled, filling the bases. Joe Martin's single scored John Martin, and when Herriman was out at first, DeLosh scored.

In the seventh, Herriman singled and Proulx's long home run brought in the two runs.

West Branch scored their first run in the sixth when Ehinger walked, Walters was hit by pitcher, Oliver was safe at first on fielder's choice and Reminder walked to force in a run.

West Branch scored their second run in the ninth, when Walters singled, Reminder safe at first on fielder's choice, was safe at second when Herriman threw wild and scored on Steelman's single.

This Sunday, October 2, Alabaster will hook up with Tawas City in one of their never ending baseball rivalries. The game played at the Tawas City Athletic Field will feature local and minor league talent. John Martin, Texas League pitcher will be on the mound for Alabaster, and Bob Proulx, with the Michigan State League, this year, will be his battery mate. Game time 2:30.

D. I. Pearsall Dies Wednesday Morning

Daniel I. Pearsall, prominent Iosco county businessman and highly esteemed resident of Hale, died Wednesday morning.

Mr. Pearsall had been failing in health for some time and was suffering from the effects of a fall early last summer in which his hip had been fractured.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon (Friday) from the Hale Masonic Temple. Rev. L. Wayne Smith of East Tawas will officiate.

He is survived by two sons, Duell D. Pearsall, of Hale and Wylie Pearsall of Ferndale; five grandchildren; two great grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Lydia Harris of Royal Oak.

Mr. Pearsall went to Hale in 1908 when the big lumbermill was still the most important business in that community. There he entered business with Harry J. Featherstone, owner of the mill and a general store at that place. Lack of timber ended the mill in 1910, and later Featherstone went to Pontiac. Mr. Pearsall continued in the mercantile business for a number of years. He later engaged in an extensive livestock and wool business which he continued to operate until a short time before his death. Mr. Pearsall was also owner and operator of the recreation hall and a filling station at Hale. He was born October 18, 1869, at Big Beaver, Michigan.

His long business career in this county and his interest in civic affairs gave him a wide circle of friends throughout this section of Michigan.

Funeral Services Will Be Held this Friday Afternoon

Stark Family Hold Reunion Sunday

A family reunion was held last Sunday at the home of Rudolph Stark in honor of the 80th anniversary of his birthday. A veteran contractor and sawmill operator, who retired several years ago, his many friends here extended their congratulations.

Children and grandchildren who attended the reunion were: Mrs. Louis Kosary and sons, Ronald, Junior and Dwight and Mrs. Alfred Berndt of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stark and Walter Stark and son, Gerald, of Alpena, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stark and children of Tawas City.

Other grandchildren present were Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Dohn and children of Herron, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanson and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stark and daughter of Alpena, also Mrs. May Mayerhofer of Chicago.

Jury Finds Edward Anderson Not Guilty

A jury brought in a verdict of not guilty in the trial of Edward Anderson, brought before Justice H. E. Friedman last Thursday and Friday by the Department of Conservation. Anderson had been charged with fishing with nets in 90 feet of water, ten feet deeper than law permits.

Nichols Olds, assistant attorney general, prosecuted the case for the Department of Conservation. He was assisted by Prosecuting Attorney Reginald J. Barnett. B. J. Tally, of Bay City was attorney for the defendant.

Officers of the Conservation Department testified that on August 15 they had discovered Anderson's nets in 90 feet of water. That on their return the next day they found nets belonging to Albert Pemberton set in 89 feet of water.

That when they went to confiscate the nets, Anderson assisted Pemberton in pulling the nets away from the conservation officers in the patrol. Olds had also charged Anderson with assisting in interfering with an officer in the execution of his duty. In a trial a few days following the dispute on the lake, Pemberton charged with resisting arrest, had been found not guilty.

In the trial Friday Tally held that the Conservation Officers could not confiscate Anderson's nets until he had been proven guilty in court of setting the nets in illegal water.

After listening to testimony Thursday afternoon and Friday, the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty 35 minutes of deliberation.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.S. Crops at Near-Record Peak; Lewis Hints at Coal Mine Strike; Steel Industry Resists Wage Hike

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

SUPERCILIOUS SWINE UNIMPRESSED BY GI—Nominated for honors as swineedom's most snooty member, this porker at Okayama, Japan, is entirely unimpressed by Pfc. Joe McClendon, Modesto, Calif., uses an aspirator to capture disease-bearing mosquitoes in a house at Okayama. The GI's not-to-happy look is probably inspired by the realization that a hog with such a supercilious appearance might quickly instill an inferiority complex in any human being who gazed too long.

U.S. CROPS:

Near Record

Marshall plan countries, nations everywhere sharing in the largesse of Uncle Sam, would rejoice at the news that the 1949 U. S. crop forecast indicated a near-record volume. So rosy was the picture that experts held that this year's farm production would almost approximate 1948's record output.

REPORTING this, the U. S. department of agriculture said that if the crop did not top all records, it certainly would be second only to last year's figures. Since the growing season for most crops was practically over, there was little likelihood in any change in the crop forecast.

Corn, especially, was abundant, with this crop almost certain to result in some sort of controls on surpluses. The prediction for the corn crop was 3.5 billion bushels, only 3.5 per cent below last year's record, but 27 per cent above average. The new figure was only about 13 million bushels less than the forecast of a month ago.

It was believed that a corn crop of this size was virtually certain to lead the government to invoke production controls on the 1950 crop in a move to prevent accumulation of a burdensome surplus. As a consequence, corn from this year's crop is expected to move into government hands under price-support programs to join the more than 400 million bushels remaining there from the 1948 crop.

NO OFFICIAL decision on corn was likely, however, until after the October crop estimate.

The agriculture department's wheat crop estimate of nearly 1.25 billion bushels was virtually unchanged from a month previous. This would make it the fourth largest wheat crop on record. Also among the relatively large crops were rice, tree nuts, soybeans, grapes, cotton, flaxseed, sorghum grain, dried beans, sugar cane and cherries.

RELIGION:

15 Priests Held

Charging the church with using an underground communications network, the Communist government in Czechoslovakia arrested 15 priests in an effort, it said, to smash the organization.

THERE were indications that despite the arrests, the system was still working because it was needed by the church to maintain contact between its priests and their bishops.

As a point in proof of the continued operation of the system, it was pointed out that parish priests still are sending in declarations to the government that they would rather go to jail than obey a new church-control bill which the Communists proposed to enact.

PRIESTS who have been sending in these declarations say they will never accept appointment from anyone except their freely-acting church superiors.

The church has demanded that the government call off its war against the clergy if it wants to enter into any new negotiations for an agreement as to the role of church and state in the governmental setup.

PRESENT FARM AID DEFENDED

Aitken Claims Wheat, Cotton Props High

According to Senator Aitken (R., Vt.), present farm aid law provides for high price props for wheat and cotton and he declared that anyone who contends otherwise is guilty of misrepresentation. The senator was defending the flexible farm-support law he helped write in the preceding congress and which bears his name. Barring new farm-aid legislation, the Ait-

Relax, Fellows

All was serene, at least for the moment, between the American army and the American air force. The army apologized and thus ended a "battle" crisis growing out of the army's challenge of an air force claim that a mythical "enemy" armored force had been wiped out in war games in Germany.

The air force general in command, after the army blast at his claims, had threatened to pick up his planes and go home from the maneuvers.

Then the army admitted the air force was right, with the commanding general apologizing for the inability of his ground-forces empire to assess properly the sudden strikes by the air force.

COAL:

Lewis Sputters

In the North, trees were showing the first sparks of autumnal color. In the West snow already had fallen in one state. Fall was in the air and the crisp sharpness, the thinning sunlight all indicated the time was right.

And as is his wont, John L. Lewis knew it. The United Mine Workers' chief was threatening coal strike—and at a time when the threat would be most effective.

BUT AS USUAL, his threat was based apparently upon the highest ideals. There was no question of higher wages or shorter working hours. Instead, Lewis charged that southern coal operators had bled the union's welfare fund white by withholding payments.

Lewis did not mention the word "strike," but he said a continuation of the default in payments might cause "reactions deterrent to the constructive progress of the industry."

However, everybody on the sidelines in Washington construed that statement to hold a strike threat. The National Coal association advised its members that Lewis' language was a "direct threat" and added:

"No mention is made of the fact that there is no contract and no agreement to pay. . . ."

STEEL:

4th Round Unsure

Unless the situation changed drastically, there would be no fourth-round wage increase for the nation's steelworkers. Almost on the eve of the strike call, the CIO-United Steelworkers union gave up its fight for a wage hike, and called off the strike.

THE million-member union accepted both President Truman's recommendation for an extension of the strike truce and recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board aimed at solving the steel-wage dispute.

Philip Murray, union boss, told the President in a telegram that he gave up the wage increase demand "with profound regret," but agreed to the board's recommendations "in the interest of concluding a prompt settlement."

Six of the nation's major steel producers accepted the truce extension request, but no company had given an answer on the board's formula.

FINANCE:

Advice to British

If the British got nothing else out of the Washington conference on the island's financial crisis, they had received a lot of advice.

That they were not too prone to take it was evidenced by British comment in the homeland and hints by Washington newsmen that the British monetary delegation was peeved at the way U. S. treasury chief John Snyder was bossing the show.

WITH bland disregard for the fact, British comment in London was to the effect that Uncle Sam was playing England for a sucker. On the other hand, there was much criticism in the U. S. that the British had nothing but their own yen for the labor government to blame for their financial plight.

In the midst of the clamor, one thing appeared to be distinct: The major forces in U. S. agencies which might help the British were agreed that devaluation of currency was the immediate answer to Europe's financial problems. Snyder believes that, and he has been backed up by the opinion of the World Bank and Monetary Fund.

EUGENE BLACK, American president of the 48-nation World Bank, summed it up neatly. He said:

"I do not underestimate either the complexities or the far-reaching consequences of such action (devaluation), but I fail to see how it can be avoided."

SECURITY:

Cost Rising

An increase in the cost of social security to about 15 billion dollars by 1960, and possibly more than 30 billion by the year 2000, would be the net effect to American taxpayers if congress would pass the pending proposals to expand our present system.

THIS ESTIMATE was made by the Research Council for Economic Security, a Chicago organization, in a study entitled Estimated Cost of Social Security Expansion. Cost estimates are based upon the estimated population and mortality rates for future years. No allowances for variations in wage or price levels has been made.

The expanded program, all of which has been given consideration in the 81st congress, consists of four parts:

1. Increase in old age and survivors insurance benefits and coverage.
 2. The introduction of a new concept in federal social insurance, namely, compensation for temporary and permanent disability.
 3. An expansion in federal public assistance payments.
 4. Adoption of a national compulsory insurance system.
- "THE COST in terms of taxable payrolls," the council points out, "ranges from 9.7 per cent to 11.4 per cent in 1960, depending upon low-cost or high-cost estimate. For the year 2000, the estimate ranges from 13.3 per cent to 18.8 per cent of taxable payrolls."

WORLD SERIES:

Video at Movies

Everything, someone has observed, happens in Brooklyn. What was slated to happen in Brooklyn this fall would engage the interest of every baseball fan in the nation.

FOR, at a Brooklyn theater, all the World Series baseball games were to be shown, via television, on the theater's movie screen.

True, it was an experimental project for which the theater-owner reportedly paid $10,000; but other theaters had shown some interest in the plan, and it had the endorsement of A. B. "Happy" Chandler, baseball's high commissioner.

Tapped as Envoy

Robert D. Murphy, career diplomat and former political adviser to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, was nominated for post of U. S. ambassador to Belgium. He would succeed Admiral Alan G. Kirk, who is now U. S. ambassador to Russia.

PARTY LINE:

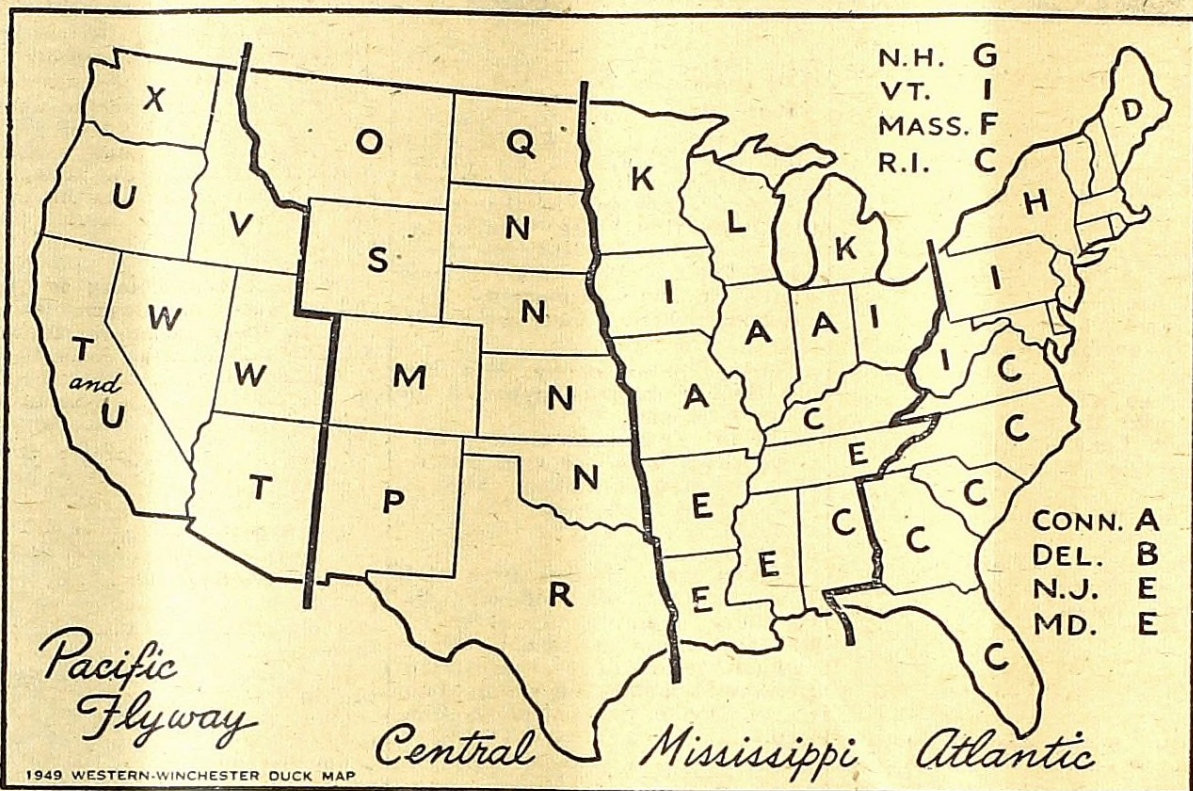

On the Farm

Communist officials, including three representatives from Moscow, held an organization and policy-making meeting at Beacon N. Y.

That's the story that fell into the hands of the senate judiciary subcommittee on immigration. It reportedly came from one Maurice Malkin, Brooklyn, a self-acknowledged former Communist official in this country.

Point Four Data

THERE HAS BEEN much discussion, both in and out of congress about the President's Point Four program of help to backward areas throughout the world, and incidentally there has been much misunderstanding and misinformation concerning the expense involved.

The head of the United Nations food and agricultural organization, however, has approached the operation of the President's program in a sagacious and common-sense manner. FAO chief is Norris E. Dodd, who is said to have turned down the secretaryship of agriculture to take the United Nations job.

Dodd is a practical dirt farmer, a career man in the department of agriculture for many years and was boomed for the secretaryship when Sen. Clinton Anderson resigned as secretary. He has just returned from a world trip investigating the world's food supply and much of his time was spent in these same backward areas where the President's Point Four program is intended to function.

According to Dodd, it takes surprisingly little money to get big results, and brains, ingenuity and "know how" will do the job better than fat hand-outs from diplomatic sources.

Said Dodd: "You don't start with vast expensive projects in order to better the lot of hundreds of millions of people now living near the starvation line. If we could bring half the world from the era of the sickle to the era of the scythe, we would have moved ahead a hundred years in one jump."

Started Experiments

He has started FAO experimental stations in China and in India. He cited an example in India where the major food staple, rice, is still planted, cultivated, harvested and threshed entirely by hand.

In Japan he discovered a simple hand-worked machine, brought it to India and the government there is turning out thousands of them for the peasants.

He cited corn yields in Italy raised from about 30 bushels to 120 bushels per acre with hybrid seed. Farmers everywhere, he said, were quick to grasp simple improvements all within their means without expensive mechanization.

An enthusiastic advocate of President Truman's Point Four Program, Dodd, said: "It is not money that counts, but training persons to train other people to adopt simple technical processes, that require nothing more than local materials and local labor to produce. Dodd sees tremendous possibilities in the Point Four program, but only if the program is not allowed to dissipate itself in generalities and demands of governments for vast sums of money before anything gets done."

It seems that the headlines emanating the "5 per center" congressional probe are coming from the statements and questions of the senators conducting the probe and not from any testimony of facts elicited from witnesses.

Farm Plan Issue

Agreement by President Truman and Democratic farm leaders in congress to a compromise farm price support measure as advocated by Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, means that the program sponsored by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan will be a direct issue in the 1950 elections.

The secretary has already warned congress that the egg price support alone this fall will cost about 100 million dollars by the end of the year and so far this year the government under the present law has taken off the market butter, eggs, potatoes and cheese costing about 137 million dollars.

The thinking here is that with the late potato crop coming on, support prices again will soar on this crop and that with farm prices dropping, the agricultural department soon will be forced to start buying pork, turkeys and chickens to hold the price support at the parity point required by the law.

Secretary Brannan maintains his plan of letting these products find their own prices on the open market, making cheaper prices, will be cheaper in the long run.

Stable Budget Urged

There are still men in congress who consider the country is going straight to the bow-wows when the budget is unbalanced and there is deficit financing.

But when an organization of business men such as the Committee of Economic Development declare that the annually balanced budget is a bad thing, that it accentuates inflation and depressions, it gives the taxpayer something to think about.

THE NICKEL'S LAST STAND

AMERICAN TELEPHONE companies are experimenting with 10-cent pay stations, which abolish the proverbial 5-cent call. Even talk is to be more expensive than ever.

In some cities field tests are being made with new phone booth dime-a-call machines. We presume the tests have two purposes: (1) to see how the apparatus works; (2) to note how loudly the user squawks.

The telephone business "ain't what it used to be and the companies are up against terrific costs. For all we know the nickel phone call is as economically unsound as the nickel bus fare, the nickel hot-dog and the nickel movie. But a bigger fight is likely, as the public has been brought up on the 5-cent phone call. It may even regard the telephone booth as the nickel's last stand.

It has seen the 5-cent piece replaced in most every field, but there is something about disassociating it from a phone booth that fills many a heart with anguish. One of the few things left in America at the old price is the nickel phone booth. It stands almost by itself as a place a man may enter without asking, "I wonder how prices have gone up in here since I was around last time."

There has always been something about the clink of a nickel in a phone booth that made sweet music, and of late it has conveyed unmistakably the soothing proof that there was still something in America not out of reach of a man in the lower brackets.

Even if you made the call and found your girl has just left for dinner with somebody else, it didn't seem exorbitant. But when it takes a dime to get the same news it will be something else again.

We can see the phone companies' point. There is not the money in conversation that there used to be. It costs twice as much to produce "number please" as it did 10 years ago. The companies say they are losing money on the transaction at nickel pay-station rates. Nevertheless we look for a hot time at hearings before the public service commissions. Elmer Twitchell is among those who will be present with some novel pleas. "I may not fight the abolition of the nickel call if the figures show it is necessary," he said, "but I will demand that a 10-cent phone booth be made twice as roomy as a nickel one."

"I want it better ventilated too," he continued. "In a nickel phone booth you are practically in solitary confinement. If I pay a dime I may even demand a soft chair and maybe television."

("A $15,000 dream house raffled off on Sixth avenue, New York, had to be sold by the owner for $1,000 because of the costs of moving and reassembling," news item.)

Want a lovely dream house? Take a chance—you must—Win it and, my dearies, How the dream will bust! Fifty cents a ticket... Give your luck a try! Who will get the building? Some fast dollar guy!

It seems to us the dream house might have been advertised as having hot and cold indifference, a fine view of snafu, crossed-up ventilation and an acre of headaches.

YE GOTHAM BUGLE & BANNER

A British parliament member said John Bull will not be kicked around by unlettered pot bellied money magicians from the U.S. . . . This is the first indication anybody could look at Uncle Sam and sing, "He's too fat, he's too fat, he's too fat for me." . . . Ye ed bears Jolson's next pictures will be called "Jolson His The Jackpot," "Jolson Follows Through" or "Jolson Takes Fort Knox." . . . The driver who killed Margaret Mitchell and who is alleged to have been drunk, speeding, and on the wrong side of the road, as well as a repeated offender against traffic laws, is charged merely with involuntary manslaughter, the penalty for which is one to three years!!!

(See Recipe Below)

Luncheon Ideas

DO YOU FEEL that your head is brimming full of question marks instead of good ideas when it comes time to think of something for luncheon?

Then tack the ideas given in today's column somewhere where they'll be sure to remind you of something guaranteed to be successful. Some of these recipes are for simple family fare while others are sheer elegant eating, suitable for guests, for a special Sunday night supper.

With a well rounded luncheon dish, you need only a big vegetable or fruit salad, chilled to icy crispness, to make the main course complete. Your dessert might be pie, cake, ice cream, or simply fruit and cookies.

Keep your pantry shelves well supplied with staples, as well as such items as dried beef, deviled ham, noodles, evaporated milk, rice and condensed soups so that you can whip together these recipes without trips to the store at the last minute. In this way you'll be well prepared to meet family meal problems as well as those which arise when guests drop in.

THIS deviled swiss puff is truly new and different, easy to prepare and fun to eat. When made in the individual casserole skillets as shown in the picture, it will be a real success at a ladies' luncheon. Savory deviled ham is used in the recipe, but you might also try liver sausage or another favorite meat spread.

The cheese mixture may be prepared, except for the baking powder, a day in advance of use, in case you are rushed for time in meal preparation. Remove the mixture from the refrigerator an hour before using so that it will be soft for easy spreading. Add the baking powder just before using.

Deviled Swiss Cheese Puff
(Serves 4)

- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese (processed)
- 1/4 teaspoon onion juice
- Dash of tabasco sauce
- 3/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 6 tablespoons deviled ham
- 2 tablespoons evaporated milk
- 4 slices tomato
- 4 slices bread

Heat the 1/2 cup evaporated milk in top part of double boiler. Mix flour with water. Stir into milk and cook until thickened, about five minutes. Add the beaten egg, cheese and seasonings and continue cooking until cheese is melted and the mixture thick and creamy. Set aside to cool. Blend ham with two tablespoons of evaporated milk. Spread the slices of bread with the ham mixture, then top each with a slice of tomato. Blend baking powder into cooled cheese mixture. Spread the cheese mixture thickly on each sandwich. Place sandwiches in individual shallow casseroles or in a shallow baking pan. Place under broiler. Using moderate heat, broil until cheese is

Making Cooking Easy In These Simple Ways

Use the pastry blender for mashing eggs for egg salad or sandwich mixtures. It works easily to make the eggs coarse or fine, as you like.

Get the full taste from green peppers for a salad or any other dish, by grating or shredding them, instead of chopping.

Add a few banana flakes to hot or cold cereal just before serving. They add delicious flavor.

puffed and slightly browned on top. Serve at once.

Note: American cheese or pimented cheese are also good to use in the above mixture to replace Swiss cheese, if desired.

A BUDGET MEAL that is a tempting dish can be turned out of dried lima beans, seasoned with onion, mace and powdered sage, the latter to point up the sausage topping. Double-rich evaporated milk poured over the beans for baking adds richness to the dish as well as keeping the beans admirably moist.

- 1 cup dried lima beans
- 2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon mace
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon powdered sage or poultry seasoning
- 1/2 pound small pork sausages
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- Shredded green pepper

Wash beans; soak for several hours or overnight in four cups water. Drain; cook beans in the two cups of water until tender. Add onion, sugar and seasonings to the beans. Place the sausages in a skillet and cook until the links are browned. Use the drippings to grease the baking dish. Turn the bean mixture into the dish. Pour milk over the beans. Arrange browned sausages over the top. Shred a bit of green pepper over them and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 20 minutes.

FRAGRANT and steaming chicken baked with rice boasts a sophisticated flavor combination spiked with green pepper, onions and slivered almonds.

Chicken Baked with Rice
(Serves 6)

- 3/2 cup uncooked rice
- 1/4 cup green pepper, chopped
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds, if desired
- 1 1/2 cups diced chicken
- 1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed mushroom sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Few grains black pepper
- 1 cup evaporated milk

Cook rice according to favorite recipe or directions on package. Mix with green pepper, onion and almonds. Arrange layers of rice, chicken and soup in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Season with salt and pepper. Add milk and bake in a moderate (350°) oven until bubbling and browned, about 30 minutes.

When you purchase ice cream which has been frozen too hard to serve, place the container under hot water for just a few seconds, and it will slice readily enough for serving.

Poached eggs will not spread if you stir the water vigorously in one direction, to create a whirlpool, before you drop in the eggs.

Before scalding milk for a recipe, butter the bottom of the pan you use, before pouring in the milk. It will not scorch or brown so easily.

Star Dust
STAGE SCREEN RADIO
BY INEZ GERHARD

NOW that it's over, Robert Q. Lewis can draw a long breath and look back with pride on the terrific job that he did from August 1 to October 1. He took over for Arthur Godfrey five morning shows a week on CBS and one television show, lasting an hour, on Wednesday evenings. Godfrey's popularity made him a difficult man to fill in for, and Lewis was bound to be a target for a lot of criticism, just because he wasn't Arthur. Now they're saying that there couldn't have been a better man for the job. Lewis did his best, of course, but he wasn't worried; he's done too many outstanding shows of his own for that.

Sonny Tufts carried a container like a knitting bag to the "Easy Living" set at RKO every day; it held a two-quart thermos of half-milk, half-cream and another filled with soup and sweetbread mixture. It was his daily lunch.

In 1943 Curt Massey dropped out of the Westerners to become a solo star in his own right. He has been featured on a score of network programs, starred on many more. But last June he got what he wanted when "Curt Massey Time," starring Massey and Martha Tilton, became a summer replacement for Herb Shriner. It's been signed by CBS as a year-round feature.

The father-son team of Walter and John Huston, which won three Academy awards last year, will be reunited in Horizon Pictures' next for Columbia. "Reminiscences of a Cowboy" will co-star Walter Huston and Montgomery Clift. John Huston will direct, and, following tradition, will be seen in a small part. It should be good; everything John Huston does succeeds.

The cigarette company now sponsoring "Ladies Be Seated" and "One Man's Opinion," with Walter Kieran, has shifted them from Mutual to ABC; they replace "Against the Storm," daytime serial, and "Queen for a Day."

Cathy Lewis, "Jane" of "My Friend Irma," is back again after a long illness. Marie Wilson ("Irma") told me "sometimes I get sort of annoyed at Cathy, but I could forgive her anything, she's such a wonderful actress!"

"Count Three and Pray," a story of wartime pilots who returned to civilian life to find little demand for their services, will be a co-starring vehicle for Glenn Ford and Barbara Hale at Columbia. He has just returned from a location trip to France for "The White Tower," she has been making personal appearances in connection with her latest picture, "Jolson Sings Again."

Speaking of Marie—her recent personal appearance chore in New York in connection with the filmed "My Friend Irma" was so successful that Paramount now has her making a four-week tour; she returns to Hollywood each week to broadcast.

Paramount's "The Heiress" is what the trade respectfully calls a prestige picture which usually means that it's a fine production but won't make a dime. "The Heiress" is different. It is an excellent picture and it should make plenty of money. Olivia de Havilland, Miriam Hopkins, Montgomery Clift and Ralph Richardson give performances that could not be improved on.

Since his appearance on the stage in "A Streetcar Named Desire" Marlon Brando has been sought by every leading film company. Stanley Kramer Productions got him. He will be seen in "The Men," a story of wounded war heroes.

Judith and Jane Sackett, identical twins, made their last screen appearance at the age of eight months, jointly portraying a baby boy in "Reaching for the Sun." Now, at the age of nine, they are making a come-back. They are playing twin children of neighbors of Dick Powell and Evelyn Keyes in "Mrs. Mike," a Samuel Bischoff production for United Artists release.

ODDS AND ENDS... John Gibson, "Ethebert" on "Crime Photographer," recently played eight radio programs in one day, by scrambling in and out of taxis and dashing in and out of studios all over Manhattan... Paramount has taken up its option for six months on Dick Keene, who recently appeared in "The Lie" and the Bing Crosby starrer, "Riding High"... Marking a milestone in fan magazine technique, Radio Mirror devotes its entire October issue to CBS shows.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: Our wallpaper is coming loose above our radiator. We papered three years ago this spring. We took all the old paper off and then gave the walls a good coat of glue sizing. Could you suggest something we could use that will not loosen the paper? (We have vapor heat.)

ANSWER: As you say the paper loosened above the radiator, but evidently did not loosen anywhere else, I make the guess that the heat was in the radiator at the time of papering, and the heat dried out the glue size too quickly so that the paper did not make a good bond. If you are planning to repaper, make sure that the radiator is cold at the time you paper that part of the room.

QUESTION: Our dining-room furniture has white spots on the legs, probably caused by striking the legs with shoes. Is there some way I can touch them up? I do not want to refinish the entire piece unless I have to.

ANSWER: I suppose the pieces are made of a white wood, such as maple, and the varnish has been scuffed off. I believe you will find it more satisfactory to do a good job rather than touch up the pieces with preparations for hiding the damage. However, perhaps you would rather do it this way. If so, ask your hardware dealer for one or two of the new products made for concealing scratches and other blemishes on furniture or ask at a furniture store.

QUESTION: There is a corner crack in our bedroom wall and the ceiling has cracks. We have used a preparation for fixing cracks, but after a severe winter the cracks show up again. Is there any other material besides paper that would be pretty and not crack down at the corners? Our room is finished in calcimine. Would that have to be removed if covered with other material?

ANSWER: A corner crack needs a somewhat different treatment from a crack in the straight wall. The plaster should be removed down to the lath on each side of the corner for a distance of 4 to 6 inches. Then a metal corner lath is nailed in place and that part of the wall then is replastered. If you cannot get corner lath, you may be able to get metal lath in strips 8 to 12 inches wide. Bend the strips at right angles to fit the corner and fasten in place. It would be advisable to have a plasterer do the job for you. The ceiling crack can be "undercut" to make it wider at the lath than at the surface. The plaster crumbs should be cleaned out and the groove wet with water. It then can be filled with patching plaster almost to the top and allowed to dry. It will shrink a trifle in drying. It then should be filled to the surface and smoothed level with the surrounding plaster surface.

Hide Signs of Wealth

In every Bantu language there is a word to describe the action of a man who, owning a considerable herd of cattle, plants them out among his poorer relatives and neighbors so that he will not appear too prosperous. Everybody knows that they are his, and just how many he has, but he must avoid any appearance of ostentation. Similarly, it is not considered advisable to own too good a house or lands that are too well cultivated. Fear of exciting the envy of the chief is one of the motives that govern this attitude of mind, which always has been a powerful brake to the progress of Bantu agriculture in South Africa.

Wilber News

Mrs. JOHN SYME
Word was received here, the last part of last week, of the death of Mrs. John Syme, who passed away at her home in Detroit last Thursday.
Mabel Clute was the daughter of the late John and Charlotte Clute, and for several years her home was in Wilber. Here she married John Syme, more than 50 years ago, and after a few years spent in Wilber, they moved to East Tawas, later going to Detroit. Those left to mourn her loss are: the husband, John, and two sons, Earl and William, also three grandchildren. Interment was in a Detroit cemetery.

A birthday party was held for Judy and Sandra Dorey at the home of their parents last Saturday. Judy was seven on September 27, and Sandra, whose party had been postponed because of measles was three last June 25. Besides Judy, Sandra and Linda Dorey there were ten other little folks: Dean and Patty Kobs, Barbara and Harold Alda, Lucinda and Jerry Brussels, Richard Abbott, Francis Harris, Sharon Schreiber and Lois Alda. There were also ten ladies present. Sandwiches, ice cream and cake were served and the little girls received some nice and useful presents.

Way Back When
Train robbers made big headlines in early days but they were never so costly to the railroads as tramps and bums. This was so not because the tramps and bums rode without paying fares, but because of their thefts of and damage to freight, and also because tramps and bums were likely to become clients of a whole army of shyster lawyers whose specialty was suing railroads on account of injuries to men who, to be genuine with, had no right to be where they were when injured.

The reports reveal crimes against women much more numerous after dark, with night-time purse-snatchings 79 per cent of the total and assaults 57 per cent.

Do Farmers Want the Brannon Plan?

"Do Farmers Want a Brannon Plan?" is the question asked by the first discussion pamphlet prepared this year by the Michigan State College Cooperative Extension Service according to Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent.

This is the first of a series of farm policy topics which will be presented to Michigan farmers for discussion this winter. A meeting will be held soon, for all leaders interested in using this pamphlet in their groups. A discussion of the topic will be held and supplies of the pamphlets will be distributed for use in local groups.

Agent Clark stressed that the material is available to any group interested in using it. Last year, labor unions, civic groups and women's clubs used the material in addition to members of the three major farm organizations.

Some topics for later publication are: "Who Sets Farm Price?" "Will Co-ops Solve Our Marketing Problems?" "Are There Too Many Farmers?"

The material will be available at the county extension office.

Use Cover Crops for Erosion Protection

The humane society doesn't make people put a blanket on the soil nor does the soil grumble about not being covered. But Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, says that the results show up in poor soil condition later.

Cover crops are usually thought of as protection from wind erosion, he states, but big losses occur from leaching also. A living cover crop will collect some of these erosion losses and retain them for future use.

Agent Clark agrees with Leonard Braamse, Michigan State College soil specialist, who states that rye is a good cover crop. The regular rosen ryre gives good soil protection. If spring pasture is needed, rye is recommended.

A seeding of one and one-half bushels is sufficient. Commercial fertilizer will help get a quicker protective cover. Two hundred pounds of 2-16-8 or 4-16-8 or 3-12-12 on light sandy land is the recommended application.

Improves With Water
 Cotton is the only textile fiber that does not lose strength when wet. In contrast to other fabrics, cotton actually gains strength when exposed to water. Laboratory tests show that cotton is approximately 25 per cent stronger wet than dry. Other textiles show loss of strength varying from 10 per cent up to 65 per cent.

In April, 1947, two-thirds of the farm houses still had no running water and four-fifths were without modern bathrooms.

Farm Bureau Merits Discussed
at Sept. Meeting

Tracy Vary, Roll Call Manager introduced Arlo Wasson, District Manager, at an informal meeting of the Roll Call Planning Committee Thursday, September 22 at the William Herriman home.

A community group representation was made up of the county secretary, director and discussion leader.

Mr. Wasson used slides, also shown at the State Farm Bureau Rally, September 8, to illustrate his discussion on conducting a roll call in the county. He endeavored to inform the county officers of the importance of gaining new memberships for Isosco county. He explained the merits of Farm Bureau by its past performances and promising future.

To prove that farmers must stand together, Mr. Wasson reviewed the Brannon plan which will be an important issue this fall. The Brannon plan, he said, was a step toward our working for the government, instead of the governments working for us. That is regimentation for many hand-outs by government spoils free enterprise. Our country is a land of opportunity if we keep it that way.

He was pleased that meetings on the Brannon plan were being made possible by Harold C. Clark, county agricultural agent, and urged all Discussion Leaders to attend them.

Mr. Wasson gave some excellent advertising suggestions to the committee and helped set up an advertising schedule. It was also decided how much of the Roll Call Manager's budget would be used for advertising and other membership campaign expense.

Stanley Powell, of the Michigan Farm Bureau Legislative committee, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of Isosco county Farm Bureau at Hale Community Building, October 19.

The Reno No. 1 Community Farm Bureau met September 21 at 8:00 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Robinson with ten members and eight visitors in attendance.

The election of officers was the topic of the evening. Officers were elected as follows:
Discussion Leader Frank B. Smith
Chairman Vernon Anderson
Vice Chairman Vern Papple
Sec. and Treas. Mrs. Lyle Robinson
Member County Women's Committee Mrs. Glendora Clemens
Recreation Leader. Nate Anderson
Publicity Chair..... Evelyn Roberts
County Committeeman

Lyle Robinson
The next meeting will be held at the home of Nate and Vernon Anderson, on October 19th.

MSC to Sponsor Ram Truck in Iosco

The Michigan Purebred Sheep Breeder's Association in cooperation with the county Agriculture Agents and the animal husbandry extension department of Michigan State College will again sponsor a Ram Truck.

With the present high price of lambs, no one can afford to use an inferior ram. On the other hand, purebred breeders should not be expected to carry ram lambs over to yearlings at a price only a little more than the market as a fat lamb. The Ram Truck stops, serving Iosco county, will be at West Branch, October 5, 1:00 P. M.

Flock owners who need a ram this fall are urged to contact the county agricultural agent and place their order for the breed of ram they want. They should also indicate the age of ram they prefer, the number of ewes in the flock, whether grade or purebred, and the price they wish to pay. A ram will be carefully selected for them and delivered to the location nearest to them at which stops are being planned.

Pygmy Buffalo
Pygmy buffalo, about the size of a St. Bernard dog, are found on Celebes, a main Indonesian island.

WONDERFUL NEIGHBOR

by HOMER CROY

A prodigal son of northwest Missouri, Homer Croy drove along a country road amid the scenes of his youth. As he revisits familiar places, he remembers happy times with the Kennedys—Newt, the kindest man he'd ever known; Mrs. Kennedy; their daughters, Ida and Lucy; their son, Harlan, his boyhood pal. He recalls the "foreigner," made with gypsy horse-traders and how Newt rectified his neighbor's mistake. He remembers attending the school debates, the spelling bees, the ciphering matches held in the chaletauqua tent. Then he recalled when he and Harlan first talked about "going" with city girls.

CHAPTER XI

One day as Harlan and I were out cutting hedge we began to talk about that tipping. City men were doing this all the time; and so were city boys. But no farmer in the world ever yanked his hat off just because he met a woman. And no farm boy ever swooped off his hat just because he met a neighbor girl. She would have thought he was daft.

Harlan said, "Let's tip our hats to a girl."

Harlan had a great deal more confidence and self-assurance than I had. He was the "sport" of the neighborhood.

"Do you mean to one of the girls around here?"

"I mean," said Harlan firmly, "to a city girl."

The idea was so exciting that we had to stop and sit down and rest. There we sat, with the long sharp blades of our knives covered with sticky juice from the hedge sprouts, talking it over.

"Do you think we'd dare?" I asked.

"Of course we can," Harlan made it seem nothing at all.

"Suppose she snubs us?"

"She won't snub us," said Harlan. I looked at him admiringly, wishing I had his confidence and his dash. "Suppose we don't see a girl we know, what then?"

"We'll keep on till we do," said undefeatible Harlan.

We got the jug out of the shade and swigged down a drink. Pretty soon the knives were slashing again. Harlan worked on one side of the hedge and I worked on the other. The fallen sprouts made two green paths. As we slashed we talked back and forth.

"If she snubs us, people will see and laugh," I said.

"She won't snub us," said Harlan. We decided to go to town Saturday and try the idea. We met dressed up, but were not quite so confident. There was a vast difference between talking a thing over along a hedge fence and being in town with the right thing on us.

"We could walk past the jail," I said. Country people liked to walk past the jail and see desperate criminals looking out the windows.

"We're goin' to hunt up a girl an' tip," said Harlan, the slave driver.

City folks walked on the west of the square; farmers walked on the other side of the street, next to the horses. We made for this side of the street, me hoping to God there wouldn't be a city girl on the farmer side. There we walked, our hearts thumping and us feeling that everybody in town was watching.

Plenty of farm girls; we spoke but we didn't tip. I began to wish to heaven we had never got into it. "Harlan," I said, "let's put it off till sometime when there're not so many people around."

"We said we would and we're goin' to," announced Harlan.

We marched back again, me peering ahead and hoping no city girl would be on this side.

Thank God; there wasn't. Maybe Harlan would weaken. But he did not.

"Let's go on the other side and try it here," he said.

Among all the city people who already seemed to be staring at us! I would as soon have walked on coals.

Our Courage Comes to the Fore

City people here, talking of things we knew nothing about. Harlan and I walked briskly among them. And then we saw coming toward us a city girl—Grace Langan who worked at the library. How pretty she looked, how fashionable. Inferiority laid hold of me and a sudden desire not to be seen by her gripped me. I wanted to edge over to a store window and pretend I had suddenly discovered something overwhelmingly interesting. But Harlan would not let me and we plunged straight toward this exquisite creature. A craven thought came to me; maybe I could discover that one of my shoes had become unlaced and make a dive at it. She came closer, she saw us, and then—oh, then—she smiled and spoke. For one terrified moment I stared at her, paralyzed; then my hand shot up and snatched my hat off and I murmured, "Howdy-do."

We walked on, still trembling a little. But we had done it! Actually gone through with it exactly as we had said we would.

For some time after this, I was still self-conscious when I met a city girl, but I always managed to get my hat off.

One evening, as Newt was getting ready to go out to chore, he saw somebody coming down the road. The highway in front of the house was a kind of motion picture. People moved along it, they disappeared from sight; others came into view. When a member of the family saw someone, he always let the others know. Then, one and all, the whole family would go to the window and look down the road. Who would be first to identify the rig? or spot the person?

Sometimes the person would stop and call out the news. Sometimes Newt would go out to the rig, rest one foot on the hub and stand there talking. When the man drove on, Newt would come back and tell the family the news. The family couldn't have got along without their road which brought them so much pleasure. The road, the base-burner, the ice cream freezer, the dinner bell with its sweet sound—how much satisfaction these brought to farm life.

Movers were not of as much interest as neighbors, for we would never see them again. Nobody ever waved at movers. And movers never waved at anybody. They just plodded past. They didn't own land; they were not important.

Sometimes renters passed. That was different. They did not have

For one terrified moment I stared at her, paralyzed; then my hand shot up and snatched my hat off, and I murmured "Howdy-do."

canvas-covered wagons; they had their household plunder in open-topped wagons and were merely moving from one farm to another. They did not own land, but they were treated with respect. Some day they might own land and be important.

It's the Daveys, Nebraska-Bound

This was a covered wagon. As it came closer it was to be seen that the top was bright and new; and the canvas was not sagged between the bows.

"They've got a nice stepping pair," allowed Newt.

It was indeed true; the horses were moving along at a lively clip.

Then, to the amazement of the Kennedy family, the man waved. Now and then some eccentric would do this. But a farm family would hardly wave back. Must not be too free and easy with shiftless unknowns.

"They're all waving!" said Mrs. Kennedy.

That certainly was true, for the woman was waving and two or three children were fluttering their hands excitedly.

"Maybe something's the matter."

But as the mysterious family came closer, it was seen they were merely having a good time.

The man cupped his hands. "Hello there!"

Newt waved, but not too heartily; they were still movers.

"Why!" it's those people," said Newt. And it exactly was; out they piled and came hurrying toward the house, leaving the wagon standing in the road. In a moment everybody was shaking hands and talking excitedly; in fact all talking at once.

Mrs. Davey displayed a little girl. "Here she is!" she said proudly.

Mrs. Kennedy took the child into her arms, deeply stirred. "The darling!" she said—Mrs. Kennedy who was not one to show her emotions easily. And now as the family got straightened out on the porch, she could hardly take her eyes off the child. She said such things as "I think she's just darling," "I like her so much," "Are you going to give her to me?"

Mrs. Davey beamed. "I guess we'd better keep her."

After the first excitement of reunion, Tom Davey said, "Come and see my outfit."

"I'm goin' to pick me up a cow somewhere in Nebraska. I'm travelin' too fast now."

Tom told how he was able to have such a good outfit. In Illinois he had cropped some land, made some money, and had bought a brand-new wagon, new teams and was now going back. Pausing, he moved self-consciously. "Also the woman came by some money." The awkward moment was over. "Goin' to the Little Big Horn! A friend out there has been writin' me; the finest cheap land layin' outdoors, lots of natural water, no hardpan to speak of. I'm west of the alkali. I'm going to get me a couple of sections and build up as fine a farm as you'd want to rest your optics on."

"Tom's got big plans," said Mrs. Davey.

"I shore have. An' I'll carry 'em out this time, too."

Grandpa looked at the wagon carefully, especially the fellos and brake blocks. "We never had a wagon as good as that," he confessed.

"We had oxen, double-teamed on hills and across river beds. A light wagon like yourn wouldn't offer any problem a-tall."

They stayed all night, but this time they slept in the spare bedroom; the children were scattered over the house and kept jumping up and down to get a drink. But that was all right; the Kennedys were glad to have the Daveys. In a way, they were old friends.

They all felt a tug of sadness when it came time, the next morning, for the wagon to start. The whole Kennedy family stood around the still brightly painted, hardly warped wagon.

"If we make a go of it, we'd like to have you come out and see us," said Mrs. Davey.

"We'll make a go of it all right!" said Tom Davey. "You'll see. I'm goin' to have me a big fine two-barn farm."

He took off the brake; the block fell away from the wheel. The horses, hearing the preparations, tossed their ears and switched their tails.

"Wave good-by, Ellen," said Mrs. Davey.

The little girl fluttered a hand. Changes were taking place. As a result of the King road-drag and the four-horse grader, a road was passable in almost no time at all after a rain. The roadbed was arched and shoulder-sloped. Soon our buggies and wagons and hacks were out again. Our farmers said, "Thank God for D. Ward King!" and meant it too. But wonderful as the road-drag was, it also brought troubles—cars. (We no longer called them automobiles.) No one could go to town without having two or three of the cursed things snorting and roaring past. But—thank God!—our horses didn't shake as much as they used to.

With the coming of good roads, we went on longer trips to see our kind-folks. Not merely into the next county, but sometimes two or three counties away. We would stop at farmers' houses and stay overnight. The next morning there was the ceremony of trying to pay. When our satchels were in and the horses hitched we would say, "Well, how much do we owe you for the night's accommodation?" We always knew what the farmer would answer, unless he was a tightwad.

"Nothing a-tall. Glad to have the pleasure of your society."

As we drove away, the farmer and his wife would stand watching us wistfully.

But we didn't go to the cities; we didn't feel at home in them and we knew that the city people looked down on us.

Better Roads Bring Prosperity

Better roads were changing our community ways. Spelling bees, ciphering matches and debates in the schoolhouses were hardly ever held any more. About the only time there was a gathering was on the last day of school, or when there was a box supper to raise money for somebody who had been cycloned out. But we still went to the churches. Cove oyster suppers, strawberry festivals, picnics. But the camp meeting was passing out. Hardly anybody ever rented a tent, stayed a week and joined the praying teams; we no longer heard about the number of souls that had been saved or about the great baptizings when the spirit of God had been present. People attended, but usually only for a day; sometimes they didn't even stay for the lamp-and-lantern service. They would have a fried chicken supper furnished for a quarter by the sisters of the church, then start home. It was very discouraging to the preachers. Sometimes "workers" would go out to the buggies and ask the people to stay. Some of the farmers would crawl shamefacedly out, but few of them were converted.

Our people were growing prosperous. We no longer ate cheese and crackers in the back end of the grocery, but went to the short order. But we didn't quite go to the Linville Hotel. We felt out of place there, among the city people, with the fine tablecloths and with napkins folded up and sticking fashionably in the drinking glasses. But we had our farms; we owned land

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 6. DEVOTIONAL READING: Hosea 14.

What is a Call of God?

Lesson for October 2, 1949

IF YOU knew exactly what God wanted you to do, would you do it? Of course you would. The trouble is: How does any one know what God's will is?

For example, a young man is thinking about his life's work; what shall he choose? Most young men would do what they were sure God called them to do, but what is a call?

The story of Isaiah throws some light on this problem. (We are beginning this week a three month's study of the great prophets Isaiah and Jeremiah.) True, he lived some 2700 years ago, and half way to the other side of the world; but human nature has not changed in 2700 years.

From Man about Town To Man of God

ISAIAH was a young man about town, in the small but wealthy city of Jerusalem, about 700 years before Christ. He was a personal friend of all the important people, a man of good education, with wide horizons of interest, of independent means, eloquent, polished, the sort of man who makes a good career diplomat.

He tells in some detail the story of how he came to be a prophet. The story is in Isaiah 6. Perhaps if we had been there with a camera and a wire recorder we might have been able to photograph the seraphim and take down their cries, just as Isaiah saw and heard them.

What we do know is that that experience changed Isaiah's life. Up to that time (on his own showing) he had been a "man of unclean lips;" from that time on he began to be a spokesman for the Lord. Let us try to say what the story of that life-changing vision, that call, means in terms of our own experience.

The Flame of God

FIRST there was the overwhelming sense of God's reality and power and holy majesty. No one can ever experience a call who does not take God seriously.

A God "afar off," a God who is only a problem, an idea, a hypothesis, never called any one. God alone can make himself real to man; and only a man with a real sense of a living God is going to hear his call.

Next came Isaiah's realization of his own unworthiness and sin. A man who feels equal to a great task is probably not equal to it. "Them as knows nawthin' fears nawthin'" as the Irish say. A man who feels good enough to serve God, just as he is, is not good enough. A man without a sense of sin is too full of it.

Then comes the burning coal from the altar; Isaiah feels that his guilt is gone. No one can fully do God's will with an unforgiven heart. Isaiah was not sinless at one stroke, of course, yet it is possible to turn from all known sin; it is possible to devote one's loyalty to God; and this Isaiah did.

It was only then that he heard the call: Whom shall I send? In modern and less picturesque language, Isaiah was conscious of a need he had not felt before—that is, of God's need, of his people's need.

What those needs were will come out in later studies. The point is that young Isaiah, who hitherto had lived only for himself, now saw the need of the city and the people among whom he lived.

"Here Am I; Send Me."

THEN comes the last stage—Isaiah's willing offer of himself. His great talent was the ability to use language. He could make words march and sing as few men of any race have done. But up to that time, it seems, his gift of eloquence had been used chiefly in telling dirty stories.

Now he has repented, and been forgiven, and he says to God: Use me. His voice, his knowledge, his eloquence, which he had been using against God (or at best, only for Isaiah) he was now to use for God and man.

So there is a call: A sense of God, near and commanding and holy; repentance; forgiveness; a sense of need; willingness to devote all one's gifts to that need.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Heartlessness Is a Danger
By Lawrence Gould

Can a heartless person win your affection?

Answer: Certainly, if he (or she) is clever enough. It is easier in some ways to win the affection of someone whom you care nothing about than of someone you are genuinely fond of, since wanting intensely to have someone like-or love—you may make you feel tense and awkward with him. There are egotists who gratify their vanity by "turning on the charm" until they're sure you like them and then have no further interest in you. But you're better off than they are in the long run since a person who cannot be hurt cannot be happy, either.

Their own imaginations. Compared with the average of the whole group, these students showed less neuroticism, less introversion, more skill in personal relations and a greater degree of confidence in themselves.

Can you know a person you haven't lived with?

Answer: You can never "know all about" anybody under any circumstances, any more than you can absolutely know yourself, and however long you may live with another person, you are never wholly safe against surprises. But day-by-day contact usually does reveal sides of anyone's personality which may not appear if you see him only occasionally. It's not just a case of his being on his best behavior when he's with you; it's that when we are "off guard" (for instance, at the breakfast table) that we are prone to unconscious self-revelation.

LOOKING AT RELIGION

By DON MOORE

Is a Child who has imaginary playmates "strange?"

Answer: He's apt to turn out more nearly normal than the average, writes Dr. Robert C. Wingfield, well-known psychologist, in the Journal of Child Psychiatry. Dr. Wingfield tells of tests given to 229 college women freshmen, 67 of whom recalled as small girls having playmates who existed only in

Another Cure for Alcoholism

By Dr. James W. Barton

ALL OVER THE WORLD today determined efforts are being made by individuals and organizations to cure and prevent alcoholism. Alcoholism not only ruins the life of the alcoholic but ruins the life also of his or her family.

I have spoken before of the excellent work being done by Alcoholics Anonymous, a group made up of cured and not entirely cured alcoholics. These men and women lean on, or pray to, a higher power than themselves and ask to be given the strength to abstain from alcohol just one day at a time. The cured by this organization with branches everywhere is estimated at nearly 90 per cent.

I have also mentioned the drug benzedrine sulfate (amphetamine) which not only takes away the desire for alcohol, but gives the patient a boost physically and mentally that tides him over a weak spell or hangover.

A drug, accidentally discovered by two Danish physicians, that takes away the desire for alcohol is called antabus. In the "Journal of the American Medical Association," Drs. Erik Jacobson and O.

Martensen - Larsen, Copenhagen, Denmark, report the results obtained by antabus in 550 cases up to December, 1948.

Cases were treated in open wards in hospitals and were allowed to pay short visits to their offices and homes.

"It is important for rapid mental and social restoration to bring patients back into their ordinary lives as soon as possible, so that they may learn to live non-alcoholic lives among normal drinkers.

"Antabus is cheap and easy to administer, but it is also easy for the patient to discontinue treatment thinking he can stop drinking again if he takes antabus again. The drug causes very disagreeable symptoms—great flushing of face, nausea, vomiting, dizziness and breathlessness.

"These symptoms are so severe that they prevent persons from taking alcohol."

The British "Lancet" states: "So far no harmful systemic effects on liver, heart, kidney or blood form in gorgans have been observed; nor have any untoward effects been noted."

HEALTH NOTES

Today the lives of many men and women stricken with both tuberculosis and influenza meningitis are being saved by new drugs—penicillin, sulfas and streptomycin.

A patient in bed with no exercise and a mind full of worries is not usually hungry, yet he must eat well to gain weight and strength.

Marine Corpsman Sets Unofficial Rifle Mark

Washington, D.C.—Marine Corporal Stanley F. Sanders of Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, set an unofficial National Rifle association record recently when he fired a string of 117 consecutive bulls-eyes in the Maryland state .30 caliber championship rifle matches.

Sanders' feat came about in the prone rapid fire matches on the 200 yard line. Seven shooters were tied with perfect scores on the initial run, and it was necessary to continue firing in the eliminations. The records will be posted as "unofficial" until the NRA can examine the claim for record.

Milk Diet Alone Found Sufficient For Human Needs

ITHACA, N. Y.—According to results of a survey conducted at Cornell university's animal husbandry laboratory, a diet of milk only may be sufficient to sustain healthy human life.

The nothing-but-milk-for-a-lifetime experiment was tried on white rats. They were compared with an equal number of white rats fed the best ordinary diet. Milk lacks copper, iron, manganese, and iodine. These minerals were added to the diet of the milk-fed rats.

Have No Cancer

The rats on milk have lived as long as those on other food. The survivors' ages now are equivalent to the 80's and 90's in humans. Dr. Olive M. McCay, who conducted the experiments, says:

"These studies permit two conclusions. First, that mineralized milk can serve as the sole article of diet from weaning to death. Second, the milk of the cow is not injurious when fed throughout life to a strange species, such as the rat."

Man, who drinks cow's milk, is also a strange species. It is notable in the milk-fed rats that they had no more cancer, no more hardening of arteries, or other diseases, than rats on ordinary food. This ordinary food was the diet that man eats.

The first practical result of these experiments is milk bread, baked at Cornell and sold in Ithaca. This bread is also made by a few commercial bakers and by mental hospitals for their patients. Milk bread is not in any way a treatment for insanity. It is more nutritious than the bread that most mental hospitals have been able to afford. It is made with low-cost, dried skimmed milk. The advantage in the mental hospitals is that their aged patients eat lots of bread.

Animals Like Milk

"One question that has been debated for centuries," says Dr. McCay, "concerns milk as suitable food for grown people. Many feel that milk is not a good food for the adult."

"I suppose this feeling starts from our knowledge that every animal stops nursing and eats the food of its parents. Have you ever asked yourself if this change is due to the unsatisfactory nature of the milk as a food for the adult, or as a means of protecting the health of the mother?"

"Most adult animals will consume large amounts of milk if they can get it. Cats drink milk throughout life. Great Dane dogs drink milk when they weigh 120 pounds. Barge pigs learn to steal milk from cows. We even feed it to chickens and to trout. Certainly milk must be a complete food, or chickens and fish that never taste it naturally would not thrive upon it when they can get it."

War Surplus Materials Find Many Strange Uses

LINCOLN, NEBR.—War surplus materials worth an estimated two million dollars, ranging from 10-cent bottles of disinfectant to $25,000 radar sets, have been distributed among Nebraska colleges and schools during the past 12 months.

Floyd Parker, director of the war surplus division in the state school superintendent's office, said the materials which helped the United States win the war are being put to uses never dreamed of by their manufacturers.

Parker cited some of the peace-time conversions:

Rubber-covered gasoline tanks—The rubber was cut up for stair pads, and tanks halved and used to store rugs and sweeping preparations.

Gas-mask cases—Used by basketball players to carry their gear.

Pup tents—Sewed together for drop cloths.

Radio equipment parts—Salvaged to set up school-wide communication systems.

Snow shoes—To be used in actual instruction.

Baking powder, 6,000 pounds—Home economics departments snatched at this item.

Even sample sets of false teeth can be "easily disposed of," Parker said. He added that a few schools have taken materials for new buildings and equipped them, all from surplus materials.

Requirements Recounted For Happy Marriages

CHICAGO.—Are there any special requirements for a successful marriage? Mrs. Emily B. Mudd, director of the Philadelphia marriage council says "yes."

She lists them as follows:

1. The ability to obtain and hold a job that provides enough income to support a home and children.
2. Knowledge of how to maintain a comfortable home and repair usual household equipment.
3. Knowledge of cooking, balanced diets.
4. Ability to budget income and knowledge of what is necessary for financial protection and security.
5. Knowledge of health.
6. Knowledge of sexual needs and behavior.
7. Some knowledge of child care and what planning for a baby involves.

"Oh, yes, there's one more thing," said the sick man to his lawyer who was writing out the will. "I want these men to be my pallbearers." The lawyer looked at the list of names and recognizing them as not very good friends of the sick man asked why he wanted them to be pallbearers. "They're my creditors," the sick man explained. "They've been carrying me most of my life so they might as well finish the job."

New Fire Law

Warning

A warning from conservation officials that the autumn forest fire season is approaching is accompanied by a reminder that the new fire law as passed by the recent legislature is now in effect.

Conservation Officer Arthur Letz said that under the new law a permit, which is issued free of charge, is required for all fires, except fires for domestic purposes, even though a freshly made fire break has been constructed. This includes the burning of rubbish, leaves, weeds, vines, brush, grass and other debris.

Permits may be obtained from any of the Conservation Department field offices, conservation officers, fire officers, towermen and authorized keymen, and when circumstances necessitate they may be obtained by telephone.

Each fire officer has an entire county to protect against uncontrolled fires and during a hazardous period fires without a permit are a danger to the entire community. The purpose of the permit is to prevent the sending of badly needed equipment and manpower to check false alarms when it might be sorely needed on legitimate fire fighting.

Officer Letz warned that the issuance of a permit does not relieve the holder of any responsibility regarding the control or spread of any fire he sets. The new law provides for the collection of suppression costs from any person who negligently allows fire set by himself to escape. This is in addition to the fine and costs and or jail sentence imposed under the permit law. The collection for damages to state owned land and property are also recoverable under the state law.

War on Coyotes

Airplanes are being used extensively in Nebraska for killing coyotes, and latest reports show 146 of the marauders eliminated in the past few months in Greeley county. With one plane two hunters killed two coyotes for every hour in the air. Contributions from farmers are being used to defray expenses for gasoline, oil, ammunition and a fair wage for the pilot and gunner.

Removing Starch From Iron

Starch is removed from iron either with a soft damp cloth and non-abrasive cleaner or with a very fine steel wool which can be purchased in any hardware store. Home economists recommend No. 00.

Copper Cleaner

To clean brass and copper, use a solution of vinegar and salt or a dilute oxalic acid with a fine abrasive such as whiting.

Auto Tire Chains

Speed in excess of 20 miles an hour rapidly wears the cross chain links of automobile tire chains and results in early failure of the cross links. These are the weakest links in tire chains because the rapid wear reduces the cross-sectional area of the links and the remaining section is not sufficiently strong to withstand the repeated pounding on pavements at the higher speeds.
