WE WISH YOU A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Gives 1949 Activities of Tawas City

Projects Completed Include Blacktopping Streets and New Garage

The year 1949 was quite active for the municipality of Tawas City. In addition to the routine business of keeping up streets, and city services including, waterworks system, sewage system, garbage disposal and the many other services, several important projects were completed during the year. Some of the accomplishments listed by William Mallon, superintendent of public works, are: Municipal water well No. 3 at Spruce street. Total depth 101 feet; capacity 80 gallons per minute. Installation of 663 feet of 4-inch water main connecting new well to distribution system. During the year 15 water connections and 15 sewer connection were installed. The sewage disposal system was adequately developed to meet State Health Department standards. Tawas City was one of 45 cities placed on the honor roll of the State Health Department. In the street improvement 10,400 gallons asphalt were applied to streets, 500 tons of stone, 2,000 gallons of road oil, 245 tons of bituminous aggregate, 110 yards of road gravel. The city built a 36x50 addition to the municipal garage, giving a total of 3024 square feet of floor space.

Here the following equipment is housed and maintained: 1-Dodge 2 ton dump with 10 ft. blade; 1-Ford 1 1/2 ton dump; 1-Ford 1-ton pickup; 1-International wheel tractor, with attachments: snow bucket, material bucket, mowing machine; 1-Anderson 1 way Snow Plow; 1-power driven Asphalt Roller; 1-rubber tired 4-wheel trailer; 2-Public School buses. Tawas township made a contract with the city for housing and maintaining fire fighting equipment purchased by the township. Fires During the Year The Tawas City Fire Department reports the following number of fires during the year: Four homes, one at county jail, one business place, one auto and three grass fires. Building Permits Forty-six building permits were issued during the year. They were as follows: 11 commercial, including new buildings, alterations and repair; 17 residence; eight others, including garages and storage sheds.

New Ice Fishing Regulations

Instructions on Marking Fish Shanties

The conservation department points out to ice fishermen that the law requires all shanties be "properly" marked with owners' names and addresses. Tacking a board (with the name and address thereon) to the shanty does not comply with the intent of the law, the department's law enforcement division emphasized. The writing must be on an outside wall of the shanty and in letters of insoluble material not less than two inches high. This year, a shanty must be removed at any time during the ice fishing season when unsafe conditions prevail. Last year, there was a grace period of 30 days before the angler was legally obligated to remove the shanty, after the ice became unsafe or the shanty actually went under. Under the law, the department may remove and store or destroy such structures and assess the costs of same to owner in addition to penalties which may be assessed for violation.

Court House Closed Monday

As next Monday will be the legal holiday for New Years, offices in the court house will be closed on that day.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leslie and Arlene spent the week-end in Cagpac with relatives.

'The Best Is Yet to Be'

Sheriff Asks for Cooperation

The Sheriff's Department appeals to people of Iosco County to officers of the county to help suppress the breaking and entering of tourist cabins and also the homes of our citizens, who are wintering in the south. In the winter of '49 there were numerous B & E's in the county. Mostly being in the inland lake areas, but also everywhere, where there are summer homes. A number of cottage owners threatened to dispose of their summer homes because of this vandalism. Your Sheriff's Department budget, has not the man hours or money to run a weekly patrol of every place in the county, but we are going to check when ever we can, to help preserve our tourist trade. You can do your part, by advising your tourist neighbors not to leave such things as rifles, shotguns, target pistols, cameras, binoculars or other valuables in open sight of windows to tempt anyone. If you ever notice a place broken into, immediately report it to your Sheriff's Department, or to the State Police. If ever you see suspicious automobiles loitering, if possible get a description of the persons, autos, and license numbers. Ivan O'Farrell, Sheriff.

Hale Lodge Names New Officers

Officers elected and installed by Hale Lodge No. 513, F. & M., are as follows: W. M.—Kenneth Salisbury. S. W.—Howard Atkinson. J. W.—Frank Iles. Treasurer—George Dodge. Secretary—DeForest Quick. S. D. Harry Carter. J. D. William White. Stewards—Sherman Peters and Harold Hawkins. Chaplain—Ira Scofield. Marshal—Lloyd Murray.

VINE FARM BUREAU DISCUSS BRANNON PLAN

Vine Farm Bureau held the regular meeting December 7th at George Prescott, III residence. The meeting being an open meeting, several guests were present as well as ten members. Those from out of town in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ernst and son, Robert, of Mt. Clemens, Miss Alice Burgeson of Detroit, Mrs. R. C. Pochert and Mrs. Lawrence Mackey of Owosso, and Ruth Alstrom of Bay City.

The group entered upon a discussion of the Brannon Plan and Mr. Wasson, very nicely explained the plan as the Farm Bureau organization see it.

Following this discussion memberships were renewed and we were very happy that every one renewed their memberships. Also two new memberships were taken, namely Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Clendis Bridges, whom we would like to welcome to our group.

Some Shanties for Perchville

"Tawas Perchville," the city on ice, will open January 7. This is to be a colony of fish shanties built by the various business places of the Tawas. The whole idea behind this project is good-will and promotion for our area. The shanties are painted in various colors and advertising is painted on the exterior, making each unit representative of a place of business. The businesses having shanties will be listed at the Chamber of Commerce office and visitors wishing the use of the shanty will be directed to businessmen owners for the key. A small deposit will be made for the key, being refunded upon return of the key. This new town probably will never have any incorporation papers drawn up for it, but should have quite a population when ice fishing gets under full swing. Eight shanties are now on display in front of the Barnes Hotel, and include shanties by: Gordon Everett, Gould Drug, E. D. Jacobs, Barkman Lumber Co., Dr. O. W. Mitton, Holland Hotel, Tawas Electric, Nunn Hardware and Mooney Ben Franklin Store.

John Burgeson Observes 87th Birthday

John Burgeson, pioneer Baldwin township farmer, observed his 87th birthday anniversary December 17.

About 30 relatives gathered at the farm home which was decorated in Christmas style. Mr. Burgeson received some nice gifts and the evening was spent in playing cards and visiting. A bountiful lunch was served.

Those from out of town in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ernst and son, Robert, of Mt. Clemens, Miss Alice Burgeson of Detroit, Mrs. R. C. Pochert and Mrs. Lawrence Mackey of Owosso, and Ruth Alstrom of Bay City.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

The International meeting will be held next Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Schaff as hostess. Mrs. P. N. Thornton will be co-hostess. The program will be international with letters being read from women in foreign countries. A talk on the situation in Europe, especially Rumania, and also the communist regime will be given by Mrs. William Krumm, Jr.

Retires After 43 Years With D. & M. Ry.

Hugh Leitch Made Last Run as Conductor On No. 1 Saturday

Hugh Leitch of Alpena, veteran Detroit and Mackinac Railway employee, ended his 43 year career as railroadman last Saturday when he made his last run from Bay City to Alpena on Detroit and Mackinac passenger train No. 1. Leitch started as brakeman on log trains in 1906 and was later transferred to freight trains. Among the things recalled by him from his long career as railroadman was working on trains operating during the devastating fires at Metz and AuSable. The removing of people from the area and taking supplies to those who remained. For the past 12 years he had been on the passenger run between Bay City and Alpena. Leitch is succeeded by Conductor William Berry. Harvey McMurray is also conductor on the Bay City to Alpena run. Well known Detroit and Mackinac passenger conductors of former years were William Wilkins, Bill Bunker, Con O'Neil, James Nesbit, John Troy, John Splett, Gene Parmaleau, John McLeod, Frank Kitter, Pat O'Brien, John McRae, Malcolm Morrison, Arthur Wilkins, William Bean and Con O'Brien.

Iosco Women Winners In Crosley Contest

An Iosco woman and a former Iosco county woman were winners in the recent national Crosley Shelvadore refrigerator contest. Each woman won a fine Shelvadore for Christmas.

Mrs. John Newberry of Wilber township, and Mrs. George Byrd, wife of former Tawas City shoe repair shop operator, now of Wayne, Michigan, were the lucky contestants.

The two women submitted 25-word statements as to why they needed new Shelvadore refrigerators.

Mrs. Byrd writes that it was easy to make such a statement as she really needed a new refrigerator.

The contest in the Northeastern Michigan was sponsored by Dillash-Johnroe Appliances of Bay City. The three judges in this area were: Mayor Elfred A. Cederberg, L. N. Whitman and Prosecuting Attorney Charles C. Legatz of Bay City.

New Dodge Cars To be Shown Here

On Display at Bronson Garage January 4

The new Dodge cars which will be introduced January 4 will have a fresh styling appeal, new low body lines and many refinements in design, according to Arnold Bronson, who has returned from a dealer preview meeting in Detroit.

Mr. Bronson said that pictures of the new Dodge cars, specifications and full details on body types were released December 27 and the new cars will be on display in his showroom on January 4.

"Dodge's production and retail deliveries this year have been the highest in Dodge history," he said. "We're confident of doing a better next year with the new improved models. They're beautiful cars. I personally believe they are the finest values we've ever had."

Mr. Bronson cordially invites everybody to his gala open house January 4 through 7.

DAUGHTERS of ISABELLA

The Daughters of Isabella will hold their regular meeting January 5. Plans for the annual card party February 16 will be arranged at this meeting.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Supreme Court Decision Declares 'Home Rule' Rent Controls Valid; Five Million Receiving Public Aid

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

RENT CURBS: Home Rule Okayed

The 'home rule' rent control law—which allows states and cities to decontrol their own areas—was upheld by the U. S. supreme court in almost record time. The court's ruling came in less than a week after oral arguments were heard.

THE LAW was enacted last summer by congress and is due to expire June 30, 1950. It had lost in its first federal court test when a U. S. district judge declared it unconstitutional because it delegated powers of congress to the states and local governing bodies.

Tighe Wood and the justice department by-passed intermediate courts and appealed the finding directly to the high court.

While there had been no general statements to the effect, there was a widespread impression that many states and local areas had withheld decontrol action because of the pending suit.

IN ONE INSTANCE, a Kentucky county area had restored rent curbs after lifting them had resulted in what was termed "unreasonable" rent increases.

However short private building had fallen of its goals, there was no argument that the housing shortage had eased somewhat and it appeared that congress might find it relatively easy to abandon all rent curbs when the present "home rule" act expires.

But in view of what had happened in some isolated areas in rental charges, congress might leave the way open for restoration of controls wherever landlords displayed a tendency to gouge tenants.

ECONOMY: Over a Barrel

More than 500 national leaders, talking of the need of economy in operation of the federal government, may have felt themselves more over the barrel than around it when they met for a "cracker barrel" discussion of the problem.

It was a real cracker barrel, bearing the legend "citizens' committee for the Hoover report," set up amid the handsome appointments of Washington's Shoreham hotel.

DELEGATES HEARD Herbert Hoover, chairman of the committee appointed to study means of streamlining the government, praise the accomplishments of his commission and of the committee now seeking to get the commission's proposals adopted.

After pointing out the federal expenditure of more than 43 billion dollars and a deficit of more than five billion have been announced for the current fiscal year, he declared:

"I believe it may be much greater in the next fiscal year. We may be turning two Frankenssteins loose in the land. Their terrifying names are 'higher taxes' and 'inflation.'"

HOOVER POINTED OUT that six months have passed since the commission he headed finished its reports on congress, and on economics and improvements in the executive branch, and, in the meantime, the "recommendations have had a magnificent support by the press and public."

All of which was true. The rub seemed to be in getting congress and the President to go all the way suggested by the Hoover commission in effecting more government economy and efficiency.

LABORITES: Ousted by Aussies

For the second time within 11 days proponents of socialism in the British commonwealth had been ousted by the voters. Advocates of free enterprise threw out Australia's Labor government, an action which paralleled the election verdict in New Zealand.

WERE THESE IMPORTANT portents or did they signify nothing? If one chose to place the events alongside the current difficulties experienced by the British Labor government, and attempt to evaluate them correctly, the answer would be that socialism appeared to be on its way out in the British commonwealth.

On the other hand, the foes of the free enterprise system everywhere, would doggedly stand on Labor's claimed progress over the years, and attempt to take the stand that those voting out were doing so simply because they did not know what was best for themselves.

ROBERT GORDON MENZIES, Australian Liberal leader who will now be restored to the prime ministry he held from 1939 to 1941, called the turn in an earlier comment on the Australian situation: "The Socialists were brought to power in New Zealand, Australia and Great Britain in that order. The dramatic (New Zealand) result seems a happy omen that they will go out in the same order."

BUDGET: How Much?

While President Truman sunned himself at Key West, Fla., posing for newsmen, busying himself with affairs of state even though on vacation. American taxpayers were particularly interested in the visit paid him by John Snyder, secretary of the treasury.

THE REASON, of course, was the forthcoming budget message which the President was preparing to deliver to congress. Until that time, no U. S. taxpayer would know just what the administration had in mind concerning taxes.

Everyone knew that the President had publicly stated he would need some 12 billion dollars more in revenue if the budget were to be balanced, but everyone knew, too, that there were many senators and representatives who would not go along with any such proposal.

It could also be regarded as significant or not that there had been no recent declaration from the President concerning taxation or any need for tax increase.

WHETHER THAT MEANT the President was prepared to recede from his original tax proposals was purely a matter of speculation, but such a course was probable, inasmuch as some of the President's cabinet members had been saying publicly that a reduction in taxes, or holding them at the present federal level would be good for U. S. business and the nation's economy.

And, as a rule, cabinet members don't comment on such controversial subjects until their remarks have been cleared previously with the White House. Henry Wallace didn't follow that procedure and now he's an ex-cabinet member.

INJUSTICE: Charged to Census

Twenty-three Republican congressmen wouldn't be alone in their attack on that phase of the 1950 census which will require every fifth person over 14 years of age to disclose all the facts about his income.

The Republicans banded together in a blast of criticism at the census bureau's planned procedure in an action following attacks earlier by Representative Brown of Ohio and Hinshaw of California upon the bureau's 1950 questionnaire.

THAT CRITICISM charged that the "Truman administration is perpetrating an outrageous discrimination against small-income people . . ."

Brown had demanded of Philip M. Hauser, acting director of the census, that he cite "legal authority" for the income questions. He charged that such inquiries are unlawful.

In the meantime, a spokesman for the census bureau told newsmen that "only a few" of the citizens asked the income question are expected to object to it. He explained that those who decline to give the enumerator the information personally would be permitted to mail it to the bureau in Washington.

The Republican critics' view was:

"IF A PERSON earns more than $10,000, all he has to do is say so, without giving the amount, and the census taker is satisfied. But for all people earning under $10,000, the questionnaire stands as written . . . This is a raw injustice."

As an added basis for its position, the census bureau stated the figures about income will be confidential, not even open to tax collectors or the FBI. That being the case, what good will the figures do anyone and why does the census bureau insist on having them?

NOT IN THE BAG, YET . . . Victory over the swollen Skagit river was far from won as these workers placed sandbags at a weak point in the dike. The crew of volunteer workmen were from Mt. Vernon, Wash. The raging river reached its crest while they frantically fought to restrain it. While one group (foreground) unloaded sandbags from a truck rushed to the scene, another crew farther up the road filled new bags. The river, on the verge of flowing over the dike, is at right.

MARY HAD SOME LITTLE LAMBS . . . They followed her to the International Livestock Show in Chicago, wagging their value behind them—they turned out to be the dearest (in price) in the history of the show. This is the grand champion load of pure bred Southdown lambs to which Mary Butterfield, Chicago, is giving her special attention on behalf of their new owners, Swift and Co. The purchase price was 73 cents per pound, an all-time record for the show. If all lambs brought this on foot, lamb chops would soar in price and mutton would be dear. Maybe they didn't follow Mary to school, but at them prices they don't need educating.

REFUGEES FROM RED CHINA . . . A hastily-improvised hospital in Hong Kong harbors these refugees from the advancing Communist hordes in China. All of the refugees in the hospital have lost arms and legs. The city is a British crown colony, and the refugees had to gain British permission to enter the stronghold. Most of them were left in camps and abandoned towns when the armies of the Nationalists were forced to retreat before the Red tide. The Nationalists were unable to provide medical attention or transportation for the unfortunates. The army of refugees has over-crowded Hong Kong, but business goes on as usual.

BRITISH DOCTOR: Change of Heart

Dr. E. F. St. John Lyburn had made no bones about how put out he was about England's socialized health program. The first British doctor to announce publicly he would operate it, he was also the first to announce he was going to quit it.

But the doctor changed his mind. He's returning to the program. But, he said, there was a reason. His patients asked him.

TIME MARCHES ON . . . Just on the off chance that anyone is wondering what a 1901 calendar looked like, here is an example, albeit partially obscured by young lady in a bathing suit that definitely is not 1901 style. This also might make you think, as the world moves on toward 1950, that it's been a long time since things have been as simple as they were at the beginning of the 20th century.

New Year Is Age-Old Rite

Celebration Goes Back to Antiquity

The history of the celebration of New Year's Day takes one far back into antiquity, and encompasses many peoples, lands and customs. It is only in relatively recent times that the New Year has been ushered in on January 1.

This holiday has been a mobile one and various races have marked it at various seasons. For example, the ancient Persians and Egyptians celebrated New Year's September 22 at the autumnal equinox, while the Greeks did so at the winter solstice on December 21. The vernal equinox, March 22, marked the beginning of the year for the Jews.

The famous Pope Gregory, in 1582, instituted what has since been known as the Gregorian calendar. Europe during the middle ages had observed New Year's on March 25, but with the advent of Gregory's far-reaching time-recording system the day adopted for the beginning of a new twelve-months was January 1.

All countries did not adopt the change at once, but the Christian world accepted it generally in 1752 when the British Parliament finally established New Year's Day as January 1.

New Year's customs always have had a joyful theme. Few tears mark the death of the old year.

Everybody Works FOR 52 DAYS

New Year's Day ushers in for Americans an average of only 52 working days.

No, that's not a misprint. The figure 52 is right, for all the rest of the days are holidays somewhere in the nation. And, to carry the hypothesis further, if all the legal holidays now observed anywhere were adopted generally, the average working week would be only one day for labor, and six for rest and play.

For after you leave out the Sundays and legal holidays which will occur during the year, there remain 52 days on which no one can find any excuse—except laziness—for not working.

Unlike almost every other country, the United States has no national legal holidays. All the public holidays in the various states have been declared so by state legislatures.

The President's Thanksgiving Day proclamation, for instance, makes the day he designates a legal holiday everywhere in the U.S. and its territories simply because every state and all the territories have passed local laws declaring that whatever day the President designates as Thanksgiving Day shall be observed.

All over the world January 1 is celebrated as New Year's Day except in England, Northern Ireland, Wales, in the Mohammedan countries of Hejaz, and in China.

Founding Fathers Joined In Spirit of New Year's

New Year's Day long has been celebrated enthusiastically in the United States, and from colonial times to the present it has been a day of great significance.

The spacious days of colonial America made an especially vigorous and zestful setting for the celebration of New Year's Day and the founding fathers were not behind hand in entering into the spirit of the occasion.

WAR VETS: More Benefits

Slated for delivery after January 1 were increases in benefits for disabled U. S. war veterans, dependents and widows. The veterans administration reported that checks of some two million recipients were about to be increased.

THE LARGEST GROUPS to receive increases, the V.A. said, included nearly two million veterans with service-connected disabilities from 10 to 100 per cent.

This group includes World War I and II veterans disabled in service and other veterans disabled in peacetime service since July 15, 1903.

The old rates of payment range from $13.80 to $138 a month for war service, and from $11.04 to $110.40 for peacetime service.

THE NEW RATES are 8.7 per cent higher—respectively, $15 to $150 and $12 to $120.

About 58,000 widows receiving compensation because of the service-connected death of a veteran and who have one or more children also will get increases.

JOBLESS BENEFITS

Security Payments Continue to Increase

Officials in the federal labor department's bureau of employment security were expressing concern over the increase in the number of U. S. citizens exhausting their jobless benefit rights.

According to latest figures in the department, more than a half-million ran out of their rights to further employment compensation payments during the July-September quarterly period. There were persons who still didn't have jobs after running through all the unemployment insurance payments to which they were entitled. The number of benefit weeks varies from state to state.

The puzzling factor was that these exhaustions came at a time of high employment, and give an idea of future problems.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET Butterflies, Beetles, Cyanide Make a 'Surprise' Vengeance

By BILLY ROSE

When Martin Quint, 71, married Ellie Reynolds, 34, their friends in Nyack didn't give the union much chance of success. Five years later, however, they were ready to admit they had been wrong—Ellie was doing a good job of taking care of Martin, and as for the old coot—well, he was a lot friendlier than anyone had ever thought possible.

On their fifth anniversary, Martin sent Ellie to New York on an errand, filled the parlor with gifts and paper curlicues, and invited a dozen neighbors in for a surprise party.

The plan was for a lookout at the railroad depot to phone when he saw Ellie get off the train, and then they would turn out the lights and hide. When Ellie walked in and turned them on again, everyone would yell, "Surprise!"

Billy Rose

Well, what happened was a surprise, all right, but there was no yelling. As the front door opened, Quint and his guests heard Ellie whisper, "Sssh! He might be awake."

"I don't like this sneaking around," said the voice of a man. "Why don't you ask him for a divorce?"

"Think I'm crazy? He doesn't figure to live much longer, and I'm pretty sure to get the savings and insurance. Thanks for taking me home. See you Tuesday at the regular time."

Then Ellie closed the door and switched on the lights . . .

AFTER THE embarrassed guests had left, she said to her husband, "I suppose you want me to pack." "Why should I?" said Martin. "It's only human nature for you to take up with someone nearer your own age."

"Don't you want a divorce?"
"Not unless you insist on it. All I ask is that you stop seeing the young man as long as I'm alive. If you'll agree and put it in writing, I'll fix it so you'll get every cent I've got."

And that's how it was arranged. An agreement was signed and locked in the wall safe, and the couple went on living together.

Of course, the neighbors gossiped a lot, particularly when it was whispered around that Ellie was still seeing the young man, but their talk seemed to make no impression on Martin. Instead, he busied himself with a new hobby—the study of insects—and spent most of his waking hours in a spare room over the garage, mounting butterflies and beetles on small exhibit boards.

"I wouldn't mention this around," he told his wife. "As it is, people think I'm not quite all there."

One evening, just after Ellie had brought him the usual glass of warm milk, Martin began to have convulsions. Ellie phoned the doctor that her husband was having a heart attack, but by the time he arrived the old man was dead. The doctor examined the body, then called the coroner, and an hour later the corpse, together with the empty milk glass, was taken away.

EARLY THE following morning, a detective rang Ellie's doorbell. "I have a warrant for your arrest," he said. "According to the coroner, your husband died of cyanide poisoning, and the drugstore in town reports that you bought a bottle of the stuff two weeks ago."

"That's right," said Ellie. "Martin used the cyanide to kill the insects he was studying. There are hundreds of specimens in the laboratory over the garage."

"I never heard of his being interested in bugs," said the detective. "Can I see this laboratory?"
"Ellie led the way up the garage stairs and opened the door. There was nothing in the room but a few bits of junk and an old bicycle.

"I'm sorry, but you'll have to come along," said the detective. "You're the only person who figured to profit by Mr. Quint's death."

"I swear I didn't do it," said Ellie. "Both Martin and I knew he wouldn't live long, and we signed an agreement which explains everything. It's in his study."

She ran into the house, opened the wall safe and took out a brown envelope, but when she tore it open there was nothing inside but a piece of blank paper.

Blank, that is, except for one word penciled in a childish scrawl—"Surprise!"

The Fiction ★ BENNY WISES UP ★

Corner

By Richard H. Wilkinson

BENNY got a big kick out of eavesdropping on the sheriff. It smacked of adventure and the wild life he loved. He got a bigger kick when he heard Sheriff Conrad mention Slick Dearborn.

Slick Dearborn was the smartest outlaw with whom Conrad had ever had to contend. He was Benny's idol, for he represented the dangerous freedom of which the boy had always dreamed. One day three weeks ago Benny had seen Slick in the Faraway Saloon, and something about the worshipful look in the youngster's eyes had attracted the outlaw's attention.

Benny had been almost speechless with gratitude when the outlaw spoke to him. They had a long conversation, and when it was over Benny knew a sense of importance that was almost the fulfillment of his dreams.

Ear glued to the side of the building, Benny held his breath while Sheriff Conrad and his deputy, Joe Hicks, carried on their low-voiced conversation.

At 4 o'clock that afternoon Benny drew rein in the secret canyon where Slick was hiding. He gave the secret whistle that he and the outlaw had agreed upon, then waited breathlessly.

Minutes passed and nothing happened. Benny moved down the canyon ways and whistled again. Suddenly two men emerged from behind a boulder. One of them was Slick Dearborn. Benny shouted at them.

"Slick, I just heard the sheriff and his deputy talkin'." They found out it was you who held up the bank last week, an' they know you're hidin' up here an' they're comin' to get yuh."

"You come with us," said Slick shortly.

"Nemmine keepin' guard," Slick called, and the other outlaw slid back to the ground. "We gotta get out of here and git fast. Kid, did anyone see you leave town?"

"No, sir. Not a soul. I done jest like you told me."

"Good. You're comin' with us." The second outlaw came from behind a screen of bushes riding one horse and leading another. Slick swung aboard the extra animal.

There came the sound of a shot. The second outlaw uttered a scream, clutched at his breast and plunged from the saddle. A second shot followed, and Slick's mount went to its knees.

SLICK SWORE VIOLENTLY as Benny crawled up beside him. "You damned little rat! Thought you said nobody followed you out of town?"

"Honest Slick—"

"Shut up!" Suddenly Slick seized him around the middle and leaped out of plain view of the two coming up the canyon. The pair reined in, holding their fire as the outlaw, using Benny as a shield, began shooting rapidly.

Sheriff Conrad and Joe Hicks, sensing the bandit's purpose, flung themselves from the saddle and scurried for shelter.
Benny suddenly understood the purpose he was serving, suddenly knew that Slick was using him as a means of protecting his own hide.

"Slick! Slick! Lemme go. They'll blast me down in cold blood!" "Shut up, you rat" Slick brought the barrel of his gun down crushingly on the boy's head. Benny gasped, struggled feebly, then went limp . . .

When Benny opened his eyes he found Sheriff Conrad and Joe Hicks bending over him. "Feeling better, kid?" "Ye-ess. I'm all right. Where's Slick?"

"Taken care of." Sheriff Conrad eyed Benny intently. "Listen, Benny, you better get home before your maw begins to worry. You can say you helped us run down Slick Dearborn. Fact is, you did. When we saw you talkin' with him three weeks ago we figured somethin' like this, which is why we did some talkin' so you could lead us to where he was."

"Gosh!" said Benny. There were tears in his eyes. For the first time in his life he realized what a perfectly swell guy Sheriff Conrad was.

EVELYN KEYES bobbed up all over New York while on location for Columbia's "The Killer That Stalked New York"—during a traffic rush on west 47th street, in Pennsylvania station, in a tiny historic graveyard on the lower East Side. Just before fleeing through the graveyard to escape a detective, she had to scramble up and down a wobbly, rusty fire escape on a tenement. She did it over and over, for hours and hours, while bitter winds blew. Wound up with hands filthy and scraped and clothes full for further use. Meanwhile Paulette Goddard was urging her to come yachting in the Caribbean!

Jimmy Durante plays his first dual role in "The Great Rupert," the George Pal production in which he co-stars with Terry Moore and Tom Drake. But you may not recognize him. Jimmy always has yearned to drive a circus wagon, so he gets his wish. At his own insistence, he was permitted not only to drive the wagon, but also to appear behind a luxuriant beard.

Mary Jane Higby also has been doing a stint in a dual role. The heroine of "When a Girl Marries," "Joan Davis," has been menaced by a tough waitress bent on blackmail. And the tough waitress—Mary Jane Higby.

Ever so often a radio or picture star is stopped by a policeman while speeding to an important engagement. The policeman recognizes the star—and doesn't give him a ticket. Anyway, that's the story. But Jay Jostyn, doing 45 miles an hour in New Jersey on the way to NBC, was stopped, recognized as "Mr. District Attorney"—and given a ticket!

A new canine star is looming up—Chinook, who will be featured in Monogram's "The Courage of Captain Plum." Kirby Grant will star, and the picture, set to start January 11, will be filmed at Bartlett's Cedar Lake, Big Bear.

Praying into Tomorrow

Lesson for January 1, 1950

FOR THE BENEFIT of those who may not be familiar with this column, and perhaps of some who are, a little explanation may be helpful. This column is not expected to take the place of Bible study, nor to be a substitute for the quarterlies and other helps which are furnished by the various denominations. All this column can do is to offer some thoughts which the lesson Scripture has suggested to the writer.

Dr. Foreman

Reading this Dr. Foreman column will not make a Bible student out of you; only the direct study of the Scriptures can do that. Forty denominations cooperate in this feature. If it helps the reader, we shall all be glad.

Limitations of space keep this from pretending to be anything like a complete analysis of the lesson. For those are not at all familiar with the Bible, it is hoped that this column may arouse interest so that the reader will go and see for himself what the Bible says.

What are Sunday school lessons for? In the words of the 77-year-old International Sunday School Lesson committee, the "ultimate end sought is the acceptance of the Bible as the very Word of God." Practically this means Bible study which "will help growing persons (you have not stopped growing, we hope?) increasingly to know its content and to understand its message in the light of their own experiences and relationships."

The writer of these lines shares in this purpose and this hope, and wishes you a Happy New Year!

The Early Church

FEW PERSONS in their right minds would want to go back down into their babyhood, yet the first years, indeed the first months, of any one's life are immensely important.

So it is with the Christian church. Few sensible people would want to return to the days of the church's infancy in the first few months and years after Christ's resurrection. And yet that was a vital era. For the Sundays between now and Easter we shall be looking at the early Christian church.

Very early, that is; so early that the name "Christian" was quite new, and even the word "church" was not often used. We shall find that as those untold Christians faced their world, they met with many problems similar to those with which the church of today has to grapple.

How they did it, how they succeeded and how they sometimes failed, is not a mere story of the long-ago, but is valuable as we think about our own times.

Praying Into Tomorrow

TASCENON AND the great event of Pentecost were among the most fateful in all Christian history. The church, if we can call by that name the little group of a few dozen friends of Jesus who lingered together in Jerusalem, did not profess to read the future. But during those ten days of suspense they did three things; they waited, they prepared, they prayed.

They waited because Jesus had told them to wait . . . wait for power, he said. What the power might be like they did not yet know. No doubt some of them had business of one sort or another back in Galilee; but Jesus said, Wait—and so they waited.

They also prepared, by setting apart a witness to take the place of Jesus. And above all, they prayed. Tomorrow for them was darkly uncertain, Jesus had dropped hints about persecution; they were not naturally supermen.

Yet in the midst of vague fears, and facing a tomorrow which was one large question-mark, those early Christians—much less well-informed and "worldly-wise" than we—did the wisest thing they could have done: they spent their time in prayer. A praying church is on the way to power.

So as we begin a new year, the best thing Christians can do is not to make all the noise they can, but quietly to wait in God's presence.

Eggs by Million Stored by U.S. In Cool Cavern

ATCHISON, KANSAS. — More than 600 million eggs that nobody wants are getting the best possible care in what is said to be the world's largest uniform temperature refrigerator, a limestone cavern at Whiskey Creek, two miles from here.

Reduced to powdered form, they constitute only a little over one-quarter of those bought by the government under its price support program for eggs, the cost of which is nearing the 100 million dollar mark.

The government is required to maintain the price of eggs at 90 per cent of parity which is the price deemed fair in relation to the cost of things the poultrymen buy. The support price for eggs is 35 cents a dozen.

Recently the nation's hens have been producing about 5 per cent more eggs than the public has bought.

CCC Buys Surplus

The difference, after drying, is purchased by the commodity credit corporation to an accumulated total now of about 2.33 billion eggs, largely unsalable, either at home or abroad.

Meanwhile, the eggs must be stored, and a great quantity of them has come into the Atchison cave.

They come principally by rail from some 50 drying plants in Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Oklahoma and Texas. Some of these plants were built after the price support plan went into effect.

At the drying plants the eggs are bought from poultrymen at 35c a dozen. They are then handed to a line of women, who break each individual egg into a cup and smell each one individually—one bad egg spoils a whole batch.

They are then sent by a conveyor to a heating chamber and sprayed from there into a drying chamber, after which they are put into barrels or, more rarely, cartons.

Case Makes 10 Pounds

A case of eggs, 30 dozen, makes 10 pounds of egg powder.

On a sample day, the storage cave here contains 694 freight car loads of egg powder. Since a car can carry an average of 136 barrels, the total in barrels—stacked three and four high, with wooden "pallets" between—comes to about 94,000.

This far from fills the 16½ acres of the cavern.

The rest, except for about an acre covered by limestone pillars, 178 of them, is given over to prunes, raisins and dried milk.

There are 21,677 tons of prunes—641 carloads—1,961 tons of raisins, 48 tons of milk and 9,741 tons of eggs.

The areas where the prunes and raisins are stored, in stacks reaching almost to the 12 foot ceiling, are filled with a pleasant odor. The eggs do not smell.

Neither does the cave, which is clean, dry and evenly cold.

St. Bernard Dogs Resume Old Keg-Toting Chores

PARIS, FRANCE—After a lapse of nearly 50 years, the dogs of the hospice of St. Bernard in the Alpine snows are to be equipped again with the little kegs of liquor to wear in their rescue work. The St. Bernard dogs, famous in story and cartoon the world over, were relieved of the liquor barrels in 1900.

In the last year, so many persons have been lost in the Alps that the monks of the hospice have decided to restore the liquor. It is not brandy, and never was, but marc, a cheap distillation of grape skins or a sweet beverage distilled by the monks from herbs grown in the valley below their monastery.

Sometime ago a party of 30 Italians seeking to enter France, where they hoped to find employment, were stranded in the St. Bernard pass and were rescued by the dogs. When two monks carrying flasks to revive the half frozen travelers arrived later, some of the party were in bad condition.

The dogs used now are not of the St. Bernard breed, but a cross breed, part bulldog, part terrier and part Pyrenees shepherd.

Elizabeth, Philip to Get Hunting Lodge in Africa

LONDON, ENGLAND. — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will get a $5,600 hunting lodge in darkest Africa.

A government announcement said Kenya colony in British East Africa had decided to build the lodge as a wedding present for the couple who have been married some two years.

The lodge will stand on the lower slopes of 17,040-foot Mount Kenya. There is good fishing in the river just beyond the front yard and big game is not far away.

The building project is no "hurry-up" job. The London announcement said there was no indication at present of any projected visit of her royal highness to Kenya.

WOMAN'S WORLD

New Bridal Gowns Showing Less Fullness

By Ertta Haley

GIRLS WHO THINK they'd prefer to be June brides instead of January brides simply because the dresses look prettier, should take a look at some of the bridal fashions now being featured! They may find that there's nothing left to be desired in the new gowns, and the fabrics probably have more splendor than summery ones.

If she's found the man of her dreams, planned the little home of her dreams, be she a winter bride or a summer one. Today's bride just like those of yesterday pictures herself in creamy white satin with a train. Designers are well aware of this desire, and they have indeed used their best tricks to create gowns to match those of the dream world.

White satin, is of course, the traditional fabric for the girl being married for the first time, but other fabrics vie with it in fashion importance. Even though you may have your heart on the satin, take a look at some of the other luxurious fabrics and their styles if you want to choose the dress of your dreams.

The other materials include white velvet which is soft and shimmering because it's transparent and very queenly. Then there's white brocade for real dramatic beauty. You might even choose pastel satin which is shown mostly in blush pink and ice blue.

Many of the lovely bridal gowns this season combine satin with lace, much of the latter being imported and comparable in exquisiteness with great grandmother's wedding veil.

One fabric may look better on you than the one you've imagined. The best way to tell is to try on different types, and then decide.

Slimness of Line Is Main Feature

The main impression which the new bridal gowns give is that of slimness. This does not mean that yardage has been sacrificed. You'll be thrilled with the luxury of the gowns, with their opulence of fabric, but the over-all effect will be that of trim lines.

The effect of slimness is achieved partly by keeping the neckline smooth and giving the skirt restrained fullness with wide unpressed pleats. Another way in which this is done, is to point or elongate the bodice into the skirt.

In either event, the waistline remains small looking, which should make all the girls happy.

Winter Bride

For the girl being married this season, nothing could be lovelier than this white transparent velvet dress with a pearl beaded yoke by an elegant York designer. The elegant bodice features a tiny collar and buttons run down the back. Buckram stiffening at the hips shapes the graceful skirt.

even those who have naturally small waist measurements. The effect is frequently emphasized with a yoked off-shoulder neckline and bertha collars of either fabric or lace.

Some necklines are demurely high, and are finished with little round or rolled collars which are flattering to so many faces.

On some princess style gowns, you'll find what is called a Puritan shaped collar, with a snug bodice buttoned to below the waistline, and the skirt pocketed on each side at the hips. Both the collar and pointed flaps of the pockets are richly embroidered.

Sleeves on the dresses carry out the theme of over-all slenderness. They are long, slender and pointed

at the wrists, and help to give the bride a willowy grace she desires when she glides down the aisle.

In one dress seen recently, the white satin is overlaid with delicate white lace in tunic effect, and the sleeves are entirely of lace.

In another semi-formal style, a two-piece floor length dress of white brocade has a short jacket top with tight sleeves stopping below the elbows.

Choose Veil to Fit With Wedding Gown

A question which frequently arises when one chooses a wedding gown is whether the veil or the gown is chosen first. It seems much simpler to pick out a gown first, then to choose the veil.

It is not that the gown is more important than the veil, but it is much easier to choose a veil to go with the gown, than vice-versa. You may have to try on as many veils as you do gowns before you find one that fits with the gown.

Should you fail to find a veil which fits both your face and gown, the veil and head dress can be made much more simply than the gown.

If you do not trust your own taste in the choice of a head piece, be sure to seek advice. In general, these tips will help. The round faced girl should select a veil which comes to a point, rather than one which gives a round halo effect that merely emphasizes her round contours.

Those with pointed or angular faces will probably do best to choose a veil and head piece which will help give a gentle roundness to the face.

Home-Making Is Great Destiny

DO GIRLS, OR BOYS for that matter, learn anything at college, and if they do not, is it important? My answer to both these questions would be "No."

By "learn anything" I mean, of course, from courses and classes, professors and instructors, and books. I mean learn anything of science, political economy, modern business methods, languages, literature and the cultural arts generally. Of course they don't. They don't go to college to learn anything like that.

Sometimes, in a third or fourth year—which less than half the enrolled students reach, a boy will suddenly awake to the value of a genuine business course, or a girl will discover her coming profession psychology.

Why College?

But most youngsters go to college because of the charm and freedom of it, the delightful stretching of young wings, the golden opportunity of meeting friends of their own and the opposite sex. It is all too good to be true; no home restrictions, a smart new wardrobe, the campus, the stadium, the glorious library where they sit dreaming over notebooks they will not only not open next week or in the years to come, but never again in their lives.

After high school—what? Idling about home, wishing something would happen? Taking a kindergarten or nursing course? Not for any girl or boy who can coax Mother and Dad into putting up the required cost of college—preferably a far-away college. If they are living in New Jersey, why not go to California? If they live in Oregon, then it must be Penn or Mass.

College provides four glorious years, and after living myself within a stone's-throw of a great col-

Be Smart!

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Let Salads Add Color to Meals (See Recipe Below)

Accent on Salads

JUST ABOUT THIS TIME of year, many homemakers get into a rut about their salads. Their excuse is that there aren't enough ingredients to give them any salad inspiration.

To prove they're wrong, and, too, that salads can be colorful and attractive in winter as in summer, here are some excellent recipes that not only are tops in taste appeal but also in appearance.

Now's the time to bring out those interesting molds that see what magical qualities they can yield to mealtime. Now, too, is the time to raid the canning cupboard to see what you can do with summer canning efforts to make menus interesting.

HERE ARE TWO RED SALADS with frosty white trimmings which will glorify the table and stimulate jaded appetites as well as giving the family their vitamins and minerals the easy way:

- *Molded Tomato Salad (Serves 6-8)
    - 2 cups tomato juice
    - 2 small bay leaves
    - 1/2 teaspoon salt
    - 2 teaspoons lemon juice
    - 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
    - 1/4 cup cold water
    - 1 cup diced cucumber
    - 1/2 cup sliced, stuffed olives
    - 2 cups cole slaw
- Simmer tomato juice with bay leaves for 15 minutes. Remove bay leaves, add seasoning and lemon juice. Add gelatin which has been softened in cold water and stir until gelatin dissolves. Chill mixture until it begins to set, then add cucumber and olives. Fill ring mold and let chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce leaves and fill center with cole slaw.

- Snow Cap Vegetable Salad (Serves 4)
    - 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
    - 3 tablespoons light cream
    - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
    - 1 envelope plain gelatin
    - 1 12-ounce can mixed vegetable juices
    - 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
    - 1/2 cup chopped onion
- Combine cheese and cream well, mix in parsley. Put in one large or four small greased salad molds. Place in refrigerator to chill. Soak gelatin in 1/4 cup vegetable juices. Add pepper and onion to remaining vegetable juices and bring to a boil. Add gelatin; cool. Pour vegetable juice mixture in mold on top of cheese. Chill in refrigerator four hours or until firm.

- Molded Cranberry Salad (Serves 6)
    - 1 package lemon flavored gelatin dessert
    - 1 1/2 cups boiling water
    - 2 cups cranberries
    - 1/2 orange
    - 1/4 cup sugar
    - 1/2 teaspoon salt
    - 1/4 cup fruit juice (drained from ground fruit)
- Dissolve gelatin dessert in boiling water. Cool. Grind cranberries and orange, including rind, using fine knife of food chopper. Drain off juice. Add sugar and salt to cranberry mixture. Combine all ingredients and pour into individual molds. Chill in refrigerator until firm.

- Buffet Salad (Serves 8-10)
    - 1-1/2 cups diced cooked veal
    - 1-1/2 cups diced cooked ham
    - 2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
    - 1-1/2 cups chopped celery
    - 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
    - 1-1/2 teaspoons salt
    - 1/4 teaspoon paprika
    - 3 tablespoons minced parsley
    - 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickles
    - 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
    - 1/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
    - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Combine diced veal and ham. Rinse macaroni with cold water, drain thoroughly and add to meat. Add all other ingredients, mixing lemons juice with mayonnaise before adding. Mix well but lightly. Chill and serve in individual lettuce cups. Garnish with pimiento cut in strips.

- Molded Winter Salad (Serves 6)
    - 1 cup seedless raisins
    - 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
    - 2 cups hot water
    - 2 tablespoons finely cut green chili pepper
    - 1/2 cup finely sliced celery
    - 3 slices canned pineapple
    - Lettuce Mayonnaise
- Rinse and drain raisins. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Stir in raisins and chill until thick, but not firm. Fold in chili pepper, celery and cubed pineapple. Pour into six individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise.

- Fruited Gelatin (Serves 6)
    - 1 tablespoon gelatin
    - 1/2 cup cold water
    - 1 cup boiling water
    - 1/4 cup lemon juice
    - 2 tablespoons sugar
    - 1/2 teaspoon salt
    - 2 oranges, diced
    - 2 bananas, sliced
    - 1 cup seedless grapes
    - Lettuce Mayonnaise
- Soak together for five minutes the gelatin and cold water. Dissolve in boiling water. Then add lemon juice, sugar and salt. Chill gelatin mixture until it begins to thicken. Then add oranges, bananas, and grapes. Rinse mold with cold water. Pour salad into molds and continue to chill until firmly set. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Folks who like kidneys will like them placed on skewers alternated with whole mushroom caps and squares of bacon. Grill and serve with shoe-string potatoes.

If you add some leftover black coffee to your next baked bean dishes you'll have folks wondering whatever gave the beans such a good flavor!

You won't find this on a reducing diet, but it's good: mix some coconut with vanilla ice and serve scoops of it with a rich chocolate sauce.

LYNN SAYS: Novel Food Ideas Make Cooking Exciting

Cider sherbet goes nicely as an appetizer with meals during this season. Make like any other sherbet, substituting apple cider for juices in the recipe.

Try mashed squash in a casserole with a meringue topping if you want to dress up a humble vegetable. To 2 beaten egg whites, add 1 teaspoon sugar, salt and pepper to taste and 1/2 teaspoon paprika.

THE READER'S COURTROOM

Woodsman, Spare Those Horses

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Must You Holler When You Fell a Tree?

One morning, a farmer went to work digging up a dead tree. At last the roots broke loose. The tree came crashing down across the back fence—just as a neighbor was passing by with a team of horses! Several big branches landed on the horses, killing them instantly. Afterward the neighbor sued for the value of the two animals, blaming the farmer for not hollering a warning. The farmer insisted that the neighbor could see what was going on, and therefore should have kept out of harm's way. But the court disagreed. Holding the farmer liable, the judge said he should have shouted a warning—as he was the only one who could tell the exact moment of danger.

A girl's father, who had a suspicious nature, decided that one youth was taking advantage of his daughter. One day he confronted the pair and told them in plain language that they "must" get married. The youth was perfectly willing—but the girl agreed only because of her father's insistence. Soon after the wedding she filed suit for an annulment, pleading that she had gotten married under "coercion." But the court rejected her request. The judge said the girl still had a mind of her own.

Must You Step More Carefully in the Dark Than in the Light?

An engineer was hired to check the heating system of an office building. While poking around in the basement, he came upon a large metal door. Curious, he opened it. Alas, it led to an elevator shaft! Down he fell to the bottom, one floor below. Later he sued the building owner for damages, arguing that the shaft was not properly safeguarded. But the court rejected his claim, saying that the engineer himself was negligent for stepping into an unknown darkness. Said the judge: "Darkness is nature's own warning to arouse the natural instinct of self-protection . . . and should be even more convincing than a 'Danger' sign on the door!"

"... idling about home . . ."

lege, in the very shadow of its immemorial oaks, I think it is a good thing for both boys and girls.

Girls who are weak morally and boys who are naturally idle wastrels don't get much out of decent friendships, freedom, sports, picnics and week-end theatricals and dances, but then they wouldn't anyway, no matter where they were. They would be the village scandals if they stayed at home.

These thoughts are brought to me by an earnest article in a recent issue of Harper's Magazine, whose author is Dr. Mirra Komarovsky, associate professor of sociology at Barnard college. The article is entitled "What Should Colleges Teach Women?" and she quotes a certain convention of educators who recently accused colleges of depraving marriage as an absorbing vocation.

She also quotes Dr. Mildred Horton, retiring president of Wellesley as "attacking" women's colleges for treating their students as "men in disguise." And she quotes Dr. Lynn White, of Mills College, as lightly suggesting that a "beginning course" in food preparation might be as "exciting as a course in post-Kantian philosophy."

Future Homes May Fit Mood

Design Held Effective On Human Emotions

CHICAGO—The house of the future may be tailored to fit your emotions.

In addition to seeing that the roof doesn't leak, the builders may also guard against booby traps for emotional complexes.

The new theory is that the house you live in may slowly drive you crazy.

A drive for a "humane approach" to home design and construction has been launched by two Government housing experts.

Leonard G. Haeger, director of the division of standardized building codes and materials, and E. J. Herring, a U. S. sanitary engineer, called 24 University of Illinois scientists together to discuss the problem.

"A house must provide for some emotional needs," said Mrs. Harry C. Kehm, director of the association for family living, who participated in the conference.

"It must be a real home, not just a shelter," she said.

Mere size and space are not important in themselves, said Prof. R. A. Jones of the university's department of architecture.

He said a kitchen may have enough room for the kids to go roller skating and yet some people would be unhappy in it.

"Social well being and mental health are not satisfied by mere material requirements in a house," he said.

In use of radiated heat, for example, the scientists want to find out how it affects humans.

Do heated floors leave the same emotional scar as a "hot foot?"

Does a draft through the living room leave the occupant with a pain in the neck?

Out of the Red

FOR ONE YEAR, during the period that Jim Farley served as postmaster-general in the Roosevelt cabinet, he showed his department in the black. He used a simple method of accounting. He charged to other departments of the government the cost to the post-office department of carrying the mail of other departments. Such a thing had never been done before. While it took the red ink off the post-office books it did not wipe out the deficit, and congress made the usual appropriation for which the treasury dug up the money. But the postmaster general gloried briefly in his meaningless black ink figures.

It is reported around Washington that a new accounting system will be inaugurated in all the departments that will preclude the necessity of showing government deficits, regardless of how much more may be spent than is received. It too will be as simple as was that of Jim Farley. What we pay for, regardless of what that may be, will be credited as a government asset.

If we build a new postoffice, the cost will be credited as an asset, despite the fact it will produce no revenue and be but a perpetual expense for upkeep. The same system will be used with warships, airplanes, and all government expenditures. What we may spend for European rehabilitation will be duly set up as an asset, and not written off as just an expense.

All of the wild, extravagant spending the government may indulge in will be but the buying of assets, and it is accounting for such as credited assets that is to wipe out all future government deficits.

That is a simple but ingenious scheme of government accounting. It will be but a book-keeping entry that will put nothing into the United States treasury. It will not relieve congress of making appropriations or the tax payers of paying taxes. The published figures may fool the unthinking, a very considerable class among us Americans.

We may expect the pay checks congress so generously provides to turn up as an asset to offset the billions of cost they represent. Possibly they might be charged against the votes they produce.

Any such accounting system will not assist in paying off our staggering government debt, nor will it prevent an increase in that indebtedness. The one way to accomplish the desired result is to stop the spending, not merely change from red to black ink in the accounting system whose only purpose is to fool the people of the nation. If we but knew all the truth we would realize that several billions of just such dubious assets are now on the government books.

Jim Farley did not attempt to deceive the people, but to provide an object lesson as to the ever-increasing cost of handling governmental department mail with the hope it might be reduced, but it did not work that way.

It might be well that we consider governmental activities more from a realistic and less from a strictly partisan viewpoint. We may consider the President as a wild spender of our money, but the President can spend only that which congress appropriates. He cannot get so much as a thin dime from the government strong box without congressional action.

Both Republican and Democratic members of congress vote for the extravagant appropriation bills. Both Democrats and Republicans are the culprits responsible for the governmental extravagance of which we complain.

It would be well if we kept tab on how our own representatives and senators vote on appropriations. It would be a real service if our newspapers would do that for us. That is of greater importance than party affiliation. With such information we could vote "yes," regardless of party, for those who had voted "no" on wild appropriation bills.

What plausible reason can there be for the employment now of 100,000 more civilians by the armed forces of the nation than were needed at the peak of the war? What can be found for that additional 100,000 to do unless it be to vote? There can be no more activities now than then.

None of the four political parties, Democratic, Republican, Fair Dealers or "Me Tooers," have shown any special desire to accept the recommendations of the Hoover commission to simplify the national government and reduce its cost.

The "let George do it" spirit of indifference will more than any other one thing mark the end of government "of, for and by the people."
